Farm Deal Checked for '36 Hiss Link To Chambers

Editor Reiterates, Over Radio, Former State Dept. Aide Was Communist

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Whittaker Chambers testified in secret at the Capitol late yesterday about a farm in Maryland that forged a new link in his relationship with Alger Hiss.

The farm, near Westminster, Md., turned up as a new and mysterious connection between the two men—but the new information did not suggest that Hiss at any time then knew Chambers as Chambers.

Chambers told members of the House Committee on Un-American Activities behind closed doors that he had been taken by Hiss to see the farm around the time Hiss made a down payment on it in early 1936. Later Hiss dropped the plan to buy the place, and nearly a year later Chambers bought it.

Last night Chambers appeared to have accepted Hiss' challenge to state publicly the charges he had made to the Congressional Committee about Hiss' alleged Communist affiliation so that Hiss could test his accuser's veracity in a suit for slander or libel.

Chambers, under quizzing by newsmen on the WOL-Mutual "Meet the Press" program, was asked this question by Reporter Edward T. Folliard of The Washington Post:

Folliard: "Are you willing to say now that Alger Hiss is or ever was a Communist?"

Chambers: "Alger Hiss was a Communist and may be now."

Folliard: "Are you prepared to go to court to answer a suit for libel or slander?"

Chambers: "I don't think Mr. Hiss will go to court."

Hiss' Washington attorney, John F. Davis, heard the broadcast, but afterward would not comment immediately on whether the radio broadcast by Chambers would be the basis for a suit by Hiss.

Folliard's original question pointed out that when Chambers in congressional hearings testified that he had served in the Communist Party with Alger Hiss his remarks were privileged, that is, they were protected from lawsuits. He also pointed out that Hiss had challenged Chambers to make the same charge publicly, so that his accuser's veracity could be tested by filing suit for libel or slander.

Representative Karl E. Mundt (R., S. Dak.) and Representative Richard M. Nixon (R., Calif.), committee members, and staff investigators conducted the 90-minute hearing yesterday on the matter of the farm.

Mundt told reporters the Maryland farmhouse was one of the "hideouts" Chambers used after he left the Communist Party, according to his earlier testimony, in 1938. Hiss had testified to a recollection of having seen Chambers last in 1935, but said it was possible he had seen him after that.

Chambers is the former Communist courier, now a senior editor for Time Magazine, who charged that Hiss, now head of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, was a disciplined, dues-paying member of the Communist underground, when, in the '30s, he was on his way to high policy position in the Federal Government. Hiss left a top State Department job in 1946 to head the Carnegie peace organization.

Hiss has been firm in his denial

First Draft Call Is Cut by 5000

Because 11,686 men volunteered for Army service during the first week of August, breaking all previous records, the Army has scaled its first draft call down from 15,000 to 10,000 men. The call will be issued Monday.

Sunday: Kuhn Begins Report On European Visit

What's on the mind of Europe's "man on the street" today? To find out first hand, Post Reporter Ferdinand Kuhn spent six weeks talking to people in England, France, Italy, Germany and Austria. He brings you his impressions in a series of special articles beginning tomorrow.

Don't miss the first of these interesting reports in Sunday's Washington Post.

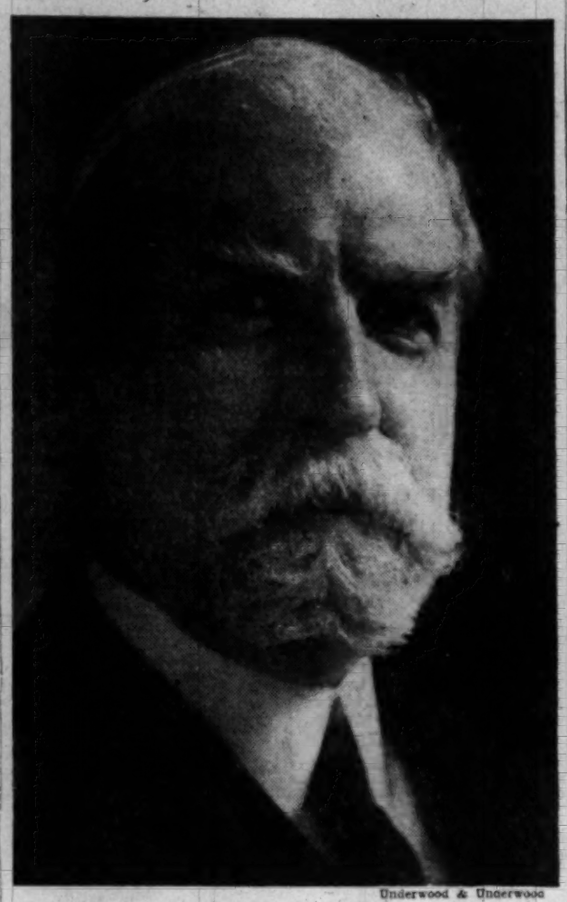
Hughes, Retired Chief Justice Of U. S., Dies of Heart Ailment



Underwood & Underwood

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES
As he was best remembered

Charles Evans Hughes, 86, retired Chief Justice of the United States, died last night of a heart ailment at Osterville, Mass.

At his bedside were his son, Charles Evans Hughes, jr., and two daughters, Mrs. William T. Gossett of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Mrs. C. A. Waddell of Riverdale, N. Y. His wife died in 1945.

Death came at 8:35 p. m. in an annex of the Wianno Club to which he had gone this month to convalesce from an illness that had confined him to his Washington home for several months.

Close friends, however, said he regularly vacationed there. Shortly after his arrival early this month, he was placed under the care of Dr. Frederick Sanborn of Osterville for treatment of an "aggravated heart condition."

The jurist's son said last night that cause of death was congestive heart failure and uremic poisoning, from which his father had been suffering for several months.

"He had shown marked improvement and appeared to be making encouraging progress towards a resumption of normal activity," the son said. "A sudden relapse occurred early this week."

Lived Two Full Lives

Charles Evans Hughes lived two full lives, of 43 years each.

The first was his private life as a student, family man and eminently successful lawyer. The second was his public life which started when he was 43 and sprang into State and national attention on his record in exposing corruption in public utilities and insurance companies.

That second life carried him through two terms as Governor of

O'Dea Urges 12-Cent City Transit Fare

CTC Roundly Scored By People's Counsel For Economy Laxity

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

After roundly scoring the Capital Transit Co. for failure to install a rigid economy program, People's Counsel John O'Dea yesterday recommended a rate boost to a 12-cent cash fare, 5 tokens for 55 cents and a $1.65 weekly pass.

O'Dea, a $9376-a-year District official whose assignment is to represent the public in general at utilities hearings, made a series of charges against the firm in a brief filed yesterday on the CTC's request for a rate raise. He charged:

1. The CTC "has not exerted reasonable efforts to effect economies." He said it has not shown conclusively that "it is economy-minded," and therefore might "receive a premium for wastefulness."

"The company is not entitled to relief unless it has presented compelling evidence that it has exerted every reasonable effort to produce greater efficiency in its operations."

2. The firm has failed to segregate "accurately the expenses, revenues and investments in the company's operations in the District of Columbia and Maryland." This

3 Proposals for Hike In Trolley, Bus Fares

The present streetcar and bus fare schedule is 10 cents cash, no token sales, and $1.50 for a weekly unlimited trip pass.

CTC has asked for a 15-cent cash fare, sale of two tokens for 25 cents and a $1.85 weekly pass.

V. A. McElfresh, chief accountant for the PUC, has recommended a 13-cent cash fare, three tokens for 35 cents and a $1.75 weekly pass.

People's Counsel John O'Dea yesterday asked for a 12-cent cash fare, five tokens for 55 cents and a weekly pass at $1.65.

Science Cuts Tall Corn Down To Man's Reach

Brookhaven, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP).—Science has redesigned the gangling field corn plant, reducing it in size and thus making it easier to harvest and less vulnerable to storms.

Dr. W. Ralph Singleton, senior geneticist of Brookhaven National Laboratory, announced he had succeeded in developing the new stubby plant that grows to about the height of an average man.

It has slightly smaller ears, but more plants can be grown on a single acre so that the overall yield does not suffer.

The smaller stalks will simplify the task of the seedsman, who has to shake the tassels at the top of the plant to obtain pollen for fertilizing the seed.

$1.25 Haircuts Advocated By Some District Barbers

In the wake of higher haircut prices in other parts of the country, District barbers—though not all of them—are exerting some pressure to up the cost of a cut from the standard $1 to $1.25 or thereabouts.

Charles J. Bovello, secretary of the Journeymen Barbers' Union Local 239 (AFL), said the question of the increase had not been brought up officially, but that there had been considerable unofficial pressure from some of the members.

While he is trying to head off the increase, he said, he will poll the union members if an official demand is made at the next meeting. The poll would probably not be made before October, he added.

Opinions of barbers polled at random on the question of an increase varied. One, Henry Richelsen, 909 11th st. se., said "they're up to $1.25 on the West Coast and Chicago, and I understand they're going up in New Jersey, too.

Two barbers who are against the increase are W. O. Griffin, manager of the Buckingham Barber Shop, employing four barbers, and Anthony Curto, whose shop is at 1401 H st. ne.

"Things are bad enough now," said Curto.

"People have got to eat," said Griffin.

Although most District barber shops are charging customers $1 for a haircut—75 cents for children under 12 except on Saturday), at least one shop is already charging $1.25.

Government Of France Steps Down

Economy Reform Program Causes Cabinet Breakup; Grave Crisis Seen

Paris (Saturday) Aug. 28 (AP).—The month-old coalition government of Premier Andre Marie resigned early today over the issue of wages and prices. Most observers believed the new crisis to be one of France's gravest post-war political tests.

President Vincent Auriol immediately went into conference with political leaders, including Paul Reynaud, Marie's Finance Minister, and former Premier Robert Schuman.

The Cabinet's downfall left France technically without a Foreign Affairs Minister at a moment of crucial conferences in Moscow, but Schuman will continue to fulfill his functions as Foreign Affairs Minister during the interim period.

2-Day Effort for Reforms

The crisis which brought about the government's collapse was a two-day struggle to draft a series of economic and financial reforms.

Informed sources said the cabinet fell because Reynaud wanted to raise many prices. The Socialists were nervous about working class reaction and wanted the cabinet to agree to a cost of living bonus. Reynaud and the Socialists fell out over the amount of such a bonus— then the cabinet fell apart.

Schuman told newsmen French Ambassadors would continue to receive instructions. Schuman added that some time next week the temporary United Nations headquarters in Paris would be formally turned over to U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie, government or no government.

"It is evident," he said, "that the crisis of French affairs must not prolong itself."

The big question was: Who is left for Auriol to choose as Marie's successor? Speculation arose immediately about the possibility of the Legislature being dissolved and new elections being held. That is what Gen. Charles de Gaulle and his Rally of the French People (RPF) have been urging for many months.

Might Head 'Liquidation'

If the crisis degenerates into a chaotic state, Edouard Herriot, president of the National Assembly, might be called upon to head a temporary "government of liquidation." This would govern during the period between a dissolution of the legislature and a period of preparation for new elections.

According to the French constitution, such a government would have to include all parties in its legislature. This would mean the Communists would be part of such a provisional cabinet. As such, they would be back sharing political "power" for the first time in 18 months.

Marie's was the tenth French government to serve since the nation's liberation. The government preceding Marie's, that headed by Schuman, quit last month in defeat when the Socialists voted against Schuman's defense budget.

After Nine-Hour Wrangle

An official announcement following nine hours of cabinet meetings said:

"Having realized that despite an accord reached on different points of an economic and financial program under study, the government has not been able to erase certain divergencies and the Premier has sent his resignation to the President of the Republic."

Secrecy had shrouded the cabinet's meetings and it was not learned immediately what political party precipitated the crisis.

One man died and 11 other persons were treated at hospitals yesterday as result of a temperature rise to a record high of 99 for the year.

The fatality was an unidentified Negro, about 80, who was found unconscious on the rooftop at 1711 M st. ne. shortly before 7 p. m. He was believed to have been painting the roof.

The man, 5 feet 9 inches tall, had on a tan shirt, brown trousers, black shoes and a Panama hat, police said. He was pronounced dead at Gallinger Hospital at 7:15 p. m. where he was taken by Rescue Squad No. 1. The body was moved to the District Morgue to await identification.

Death Laid to Heat

Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, acting coroner, said he believed death was caused by the heat.

No hope for relief from the swelter was held out by the weatherman. Yesterday's record 99 will be equaled or topped today and Sunday, he predicted.

The heat caused early dismissal of 5000 District Building workers and an estimated 40,000 Federal employes.

In addition, uncounted thousands of workers in private offices without air conditioning were sent home early.

Hottest Day of Year

The 99 figure was achieved at 3:20 p. m. and qualified as the hottest day of 1948, succeeding the short-lived record of 97.2 set 24 hours earlier.

The 99 was also a record temperature for August 27. Previous high for the date was a 94 set in 1900.

Many persons observed yesterday that the heat wasn't as bad as it had been the previous day. That was because of the humidity. When the mercury reached the 99 elevation, the humidity was only 36 per cent. When the temperature hit its peak Thursday the humidity was 46 per cent.

The Weather Bureau could offer no hope of a break in the heat wave. The forecast was for "continued sunny and very hot weather Saturday and Sunday with the highest temperature near 100."

"And when we say very hot, we're not kidding," said a Weather Bureau aide.

An estimated 40,000 Federal employes were dismissed early because of the soaring temperatures.

U. S. Newsman Disappears In Berlin

From Press Dispatches

Berlin (Saturday), August 28.—Jack Meehan of Hazelton, Pa., correspondent for the United Press, and two German reporters disappeared in the Soviet sector of Berlin today and were presumed to be held by the Russians.

The three drove to the City Hall in the Soviet sector to interview Otto Suhr, Berlin city assembly president.

Meehan had spent yesterday morning at the building, covering Communist demonstrations which were staged for the second straight day.

With him when he left to see Suhr were Werner Stangenberg, United Press night German editor, and Ellen Lentz, German reporter for the New York Herald Tribune.

MP Knocked Down

They disappeared only a few hours after United States authorities had charged that Russian soldiers in a speeding jeep knocked down and tried to run over an American military policeman in western Berlin. Soviet officials in turn charged that an MP shot one of the Russian soldiers.

American authorities said Pfc. James R. Petergal, Pittsburgh, Pa., was knocked from his motorcycle and threatened with a revolver when he tried to arrest three Russian soldiers who were speeding

Diplomats Silent on 8th Kremlin Talk

Moscow, Aug. 27 (AP).—The secret of what took place at a four-power Kremlin conference tonight lay nicely wrapped up in a diplomatic enigma bordered by a frown and a smile.

United States Ambassador W. Bedell Smith, leaving the conference of Western envoys with Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, was frowning. British Envoy Frank Roberts was smiling. French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau wore a diplomatic mask—he neither smiled nor frowned.

After seeing Molotov on the German crisis, the three conferred for an hour at the British Embassy among themselves.

There was no comment from the diplomats on the three-hour session in the Kremlin.

Smith told reporters only that no communique would be issued tonight and that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky sat in at the meeting.

Vishinsky entered the four-power talks for the first time. His last conference assignment was directing the Soviet delegation at the Danube River Conference in Belgrade.

It was the sixth meeting of the Western envoys with Molotov. They also have met twice with Molotov and Prime Minister Stalin.

Informants said tonight's session might turn out to be the crucial one in negotiations over the German situation.

Arab Prince Ibrahim Succumbs in Prison

Cairo, Aug. 27 (U.P.).—Prince Seif el Islam Ibrahim, who allegedly tried to seize power in the Arab kingdom of Yemen by engineering his father's assassination, died in prison of a heart attack while awaiting trial, it was disclosed today.

Ali Almuayad, Yemenite representative to the Arab League, said the prince died in Hajja, Yemen.

The prince was captured by his brother, who succeeded to the crown after smashing a revolt.

Kaiser-Frazer, Republic, in Deal on Plant

Steel Corporation To Run Furnace, Supply Auto Firm

Cleveland, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Republic Steel Corp. announced tonight it had signed a contract with the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. providing for operation of the Government-owned blast furnace at Republic's Cleveland plant until May 1, 1949.

The blast furnace, center of a stormy dispute ever since the War Assets Administration announced lease of the unit to Kaiser-Frazer, will continue to supply some 400 Republic customers with pig iron, Republic President Charles M. White said.

White said "the terms of the contract are the same as those which Republic offered the War Assets Administration nearly a year ago and which the company has repeatedly stated are satisfactory to it.

Kaiser to Get Iron

"The terms provide that Republic will continue to receive all pig iron produced in the blast furnace except 5000 tons per month for which Kaiser-Frazer will pay Republic the full market price," White added. "No other products have been allocated to Kaiser-Frazer by Republic."

The Republic president said the agreement "further provides that Republic retains all rights it has or may have in the future to continue its fight for permanent possession of the blast furnace and coke oven plant."

White said the contract was "a temporary victory for Republic in its battle to take care of the hundreds of foundries and other manufacturers who have depended on Republic for their supply of pig iron.

"Republic is convinced," White declared, "that the proposal made by it to the War Assets Administration for the long-term lease of this blast furnace plant is the most advantageous one which the Gov-

Part of Heredity Row

Two Soviet Biologists Fired In Laboratory Liquidation

Moscow, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Academy of Sciences liquidated a biological laboratory and "freed from their duties" two noted Soviet biologists by special decree today.

At the same time Soviet newspapers carried front-page spreads of a letter of the academy's presidium to Prime Minister Stalin. The letter promised Stalin the academy would "correct its mistakes" in biology and "clear the path for the development of advanced Soviet science in the name of the great purposes of our people and in the name of the victory of communism."

This was all part of the continuing row among Soviet scientists over whether acquired characteristics can be passed on from generation to generation, becoming inherited characteristics.

The academy backed up its pledge by firing two noted biologists and liquidating a biological laboratory whose director took "antiscientific" positions.

By "antiscientific" the academy meant views contrary to those held by Prof. T. D. Lysenko, whose approach to biology has been indorsed by the central committee of the Communist Party as correct.

Lysenko argues that environment is the prime factor in determining the characteristic of an individual. This is contrary to the position held by scientists who go along with the Mendelian theory on inherited characteristics.

(This theory was developed by George Mendel, an Austrian priest who worked with plants. He traced the contrasting characteristics of hybrids through a series of generations and found that the characteristics appeared in a definite mathematical ratio which could be accurately predicted. This is called Mendel's law.)

Lysenko has waged a strong campaign for adoption of his views. He has attacked vigorously those Soviet scientists who believe in the Mendelian theory.

Today Pravda published a decree from the academy saying L. A. Orbeli and I. I. Shmalgausen, two noted Soviet biologists, were "free from their duties."

The laboratory of cytogenetics of the Institute of Cytology was liquidated. N. P. Dubinin, its head, was accused of taking "antiscientific positions." (Cytogenetics deals with the study of the functions of cells).

Second Diplomatic Punch

Yugoslavia Accuses Hungary Of Trying to Stir Up Revolt

London, Aug. 27 (AP). — Yugoslavia formally accused Hungary today of attempting to stir up a revolution against Premier Marshal Tito's regime in Belgrade.

The protest followed by two days a similar accusation against Romania, which like Hungary has adhered to the Cominform denunciation of Tito and his Yugoslav Communist Party leadership.

The two quick diplomatic punches bore out predictions in Belgrade that Tito would not remain passive while the Cominform tried to oust him and his supporters by sheer weight of propaganda.

The nine-nation Communist Information Bureau has charged Tito with being anti-Soviet and straying from the true Marxist line.

Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, said the protest note was delivered to the Hungarian legation in Belgrade today.

"Responsible State officials of Hungary have been pursuing a campaign against Yugoslavia and the Yugoslav peoples which is in full contradiction to the agreement on friendship, cooperation and mutual aid between Yugoslavia and Hungary," the note said.

The note named Vice Premier Matyas Rakossy as "flinging the most ruthless insults at the peoples of Yugoslavia."

It objected specifically to a speech Rakossy made in Budapest last July saying "petty bourgeois nationalism brought catastrophe to

Satellite Aides Quit; Don't Want To Return Home

Two more officials of Soviet satellite legations—one a Hungarian and one a Romanian—have joined the colony of those who don't want to return home, it was disclosed yesterday.

Ivan G. Nagy notified the State Department that he resigned his diplomatic commission August 16. He was first secretary of the Hungarian Legation.

Remus Lula, commercial attache of the Romanian Legation, left last month and is reported to be in Buenos Aires. A legation spokesman said he was "discharged" because he was "more interested in his profession as an engineer than in his job."

Nagy is expected to apply for permission to remain in this country as a political refugee. He has the same surname as Ferenz Nagy, who was ousted as prime minister in the year's Communist overturn in Hungary, and is now living in nearby Herndon, Va. Associates said they are not relatives.

These two resignations bring to four the number of Balkan diplomats who have quit their posts in the last few weeks.

Last week, the Romanian press attache, Alfons Vogel, announced he had given up his job. The Hungarian consul general in New York, Aurel Alth, refused to continue serving the Hungarian government earlier.

Recruit Flow Cuts Draft Call by 5000

Hershey Says:

Avoidance Of War, Aim Of Draft

Greenville, S. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—The national draft director took to the air tonight to explain details of Selective Service which, he said, is being ordered "to avoid a war."

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey of Washington said in a national network broadcast that the draft was designed to protect America against "immediate and potential enemies."

"I do not use the phrase protect ourselves loosely," he said. "No nation as rich as we are, and subject to so many envious eyes, can hope to continue in existence unless it is ready and able to defend itself."

"By that I mean defend its very hearthstones in hand-to-hand fighting, if need be. And that is not beyond the realm of possibility in this atomic age."

Hershey then explained both the draft and registration in detail and ended by saying that it was organized in such a way that every American should get an equal chance to serve his country.

Registration of all men 18 through 25 begins Monday, he said, and will continue through September 18. Men will register by age groups, with 25-year-olds signing up first.

He said draft boards over the country number about 4000, and that for the purpost of registration each had organized about five registration centers.

By the United Press

A record-breaking 11,686 volunteers during the first week of August has enabled the Army to cut its first draft call from 15,000 to 10,000 men, it was disclosed yesterday.

Army sources said the first call will go to Selective Service Monday, when registration of men 18 through 25 begins.

The Army has said that, if voluntary recruiting continues at a high rate, it will keep its draft calls to a minimum. But indications are that calls will be stepped up later to about 30,000 a month.

The Army signed up 38,756 recruits in July, but it needs 500,000 more men by next July to meet its quotas.

The Army said its camps for selectees are shaping up well, but it still faces a shortage of doctors. Legislation authorizing the President to draft doctors is being prepared now by Army officials and will be offered to Congress in January if it looks like the shortage may continue.

ernment has received and that continued study, with the pressure of the last few days removed, will demonstrate that fact."

WAA Administrator Jess Larson came to Cleveland unexpectedly today and spent most of the day conferring with White and Kaiser-Fraser officials. Larson could not be reached for comment.

The Kaiser-Frazer party was headed by Edgar F. Kaiser and he, too, was unavailable for comment on the contract.

Lease of the 28-million-dollar plant was the subject of investigation by two congressional committees this week.

Republic has been operating the unit since the Government built it early in the war, but lengthy negotiations for renewal of a lease which expires August 31 led Republic to threaten to shut down.

Plant Offered to Kaiser

Larson then offered the plant to Kaiser-Frazer and on August 17 Kaiser signed an interim contract giving it the right either to buy the plant for $14,200,000 or to lease it for 20 years with the privilege of buying it later for $15,200,000.

Republic protested to the Government that K-F dealings were "clandestine," and that if K-F took over, hundreds of small business firms getting pig iron from the plant would be forced to shut down.

Automobile Builder Preston Tucker told the committees he had offered better terms and had been turned down.

Henry J. Kaiser and White both testified before the congressional committees yesterday and at times the hearing became heated.

White said his firm got a "stinking deal," and Kaiser said White was using "Hitler tactics" to retain the plant on "dictated terms."

Italian Chamber to Meet

Rome, Aug. 27 (AP).—The secretariat of the Chamber of Deputies said tonight the Italian Parliament will reconvene September 13. Leftists have been demanding a special session to consider the arrest of Communists in Sicily for strike violence last December. The secretariat said plans all along had been for Parliament to meet again in mid-September.

Britain to Try 3 Famed Nazi Field Marshals

London, August 27 (AP).—Three famous German field marshals will be tried by Britain on war crimes charges, the War Office announced tonight. The nature of the crimes was not specified.

A military court will be convened, probably in Hamburg, to try Gerd von Rundstedt, 73; Erich von Mannstein, 76, and Walter von Brauchitsch, 67. Col. Gen. Adolf Strauss, 68, will go to trial with the three marshals.

The War Office said the four would be released "almost at once" as prisoners of war because such prisoners cannot be tried as war criminals. Then they will be told they are to be tried and presumably will be held under detention.

Von Rundstedt commanded German forces in France against General Eisenhower's invasion. Von Mannstein was once Von Rundstedt's chief of staff and had campaigned on the Russian Front. Brauchitsch took over supreme command of the German army in 1938 but was recalled from Russia and dismissed after the collapse of the offensive against Moscow in 1941.

43 Sentenced to Death In Yugoslavia War Trial

Belgrade, Aug. 27 (AP).—A court at Zagreb today sentenced 43 persons to death in Yugoslavia's biggest mass trial since the war. Eighteen were ordered sent to the gallows and 25 to firing squads on accusations of being Ustashi war criminals and spies.

Two others were given life terms and 10 received 15 to 20 years. Forty await trial. The Ustashi was a pro-Axis force during the war.

The convicted men all had returned illegally from Italy and Austria during the past year, Yugoslav officials said, to spy and plot the overthrow of Premier Tito's government.

Va. Reservist Wins Marine Rifle Award

Sergt. Aubrey P. Withrow, a Marine Reserve training at Camp Lejeune, N. C., who fired his first service rifle last Sunday, has walked off with the Capt. James V. Shanley memorial award for marksmanship with an M-1 rifle.

Withrow, who has handled weapons since he was a child, is an Arlington Postoffice clerk and lives at 1827 N. Underwood st., Falls Church.

He got a score of 308 out of a possible 340 during range practice last Thursday at Camp Lejeune. He is training there with the Fifth Marine Reserve Battalion, which includes two Washington companies.

The Marine Reserve sergeant will receive a gold watch, given by battalion executive officer, Maj. David F. Condon, in memory of his friend Shanley, Navy officer who was killed in action October 4, 1944.

The Fifth Reserve Battalion arrived at the North Carolina camp Sunday for two weeks of training, and has been undergoing infantry drill all week. A parade review will be held this morning and the unit will make a mock landing on Onslow Beach, N. C., Tuesday.

Argentina Offers Sales Products List

Buenos Aires, Aug. 27 (AP).—Argentina has prepared a long list of products, other than meat, which it is offering today to sell for dollars at internal American market prices.

Reliable sources said the United States Embassy has received assurances from the Argentine government that proceeds of these sales would be used to meet Argentina's outstanding debts.

Argentina is reported to owe more than 250 million dollars to United States banks on purchases made through letters of credit.

The value of corn, oats, barley and rye contained in a prepared list is estimated at 200 million dollars. Trade sources said the list doesn't mention meat, which would indicate Argentina does not have any available surplus after exporting 400,000 tons to Great Britain under recent agreements.

The quantity of wheat contained in the list is small—117,000 tons. The biggest item listed as available was 1,417,000 tons of corn.

Preparation of the list came during conversations between Argentine and United States officials seeking to increase trade of the two countries on a permanent basis.

These conversations were reported aimed at trade other than that contemplated by the Economic Cooperation Administration for European assistance and would possibly include Argentine sales to Germany and Japan, through the intermediary channel of the United States Army.

Austria Becomes 47th Member of World Bank, Fund

Austria became the forty-seventh member of both the World Bank and the World Monetary Fund yesterday.

The two international financial institutions announced that Austria's Minister to the United States, Dr. Ludwig Kleinwaechter, signed the articles of agreement for membership on behalf of his country.

Austria had been approved for membership by governors of the two institutions last March.

Her quota in the fund is 50 million dollars and her subscription to the bank's capital stock also amounts to 50 million dollars.

By becoming a member, Austria now becomes eligible for aid from the multi-billion financial institutions.

D. C. Area Police Seek Mother, Child, Missing Since Monday

A 26-year-old mother and her 5-year-old daughter were sought by area police last night after the pair disappeared Monday.

The mother, Mrs. Agnes Estelle Wellington, 705 Mount Vernon pl. nw., vanished from the home of her parents in Alexandria. She had earlier parted from her husband at their home, police said.

Her husband, Larry Wellington, operator of the Campus Restaurant, 1429 Benning rd., Bradbury, Md., said she had struck the child, little Agnes Ann, Saturday while in the restaurant and disappeared with the child after further argument about domestic matters.

Later, Wellington swore out a warrant against his wife before Judge J. R. Creecy in Silver Hill, Md., charging her with assaulting the child.

Mrs. Wellington told her mother, Mrs. Agnes Bartlett, 2300 Randolph ave., Alexandria, before she left Monday, according to the husband, that the mother would not see her "for a long time."

The woman, who had $275 in her possession, according to her husband, was described as 5 feet 4 inches tall, 145 pounds and wearing a yellow dress and carrying shoulder-type pocketbook.

3 Newsmen Vanish in Berlin Soviet Sector

through the American sector in an amphibious jeep. Military police officers said the Russians "drove directly at him in an attempt to run over him" as Petergal lay in the street.

Meanwhile, officials of Berlin's predominantly non-Communist government said they might have to move their headquarters from the Soviet sector to the ruins of the Reichstag building to escape Communist interference.

For a second straight day, the elected council had to cancel its meeting while the Communist throng usurped the chamber with shouts of "Dirty dogs," "Out with the bums," and "The parliament belongs to us now."

The City Hall is in the Russian zone and Soviet-backed east Berlin police stood by idly.

Ferdinand Friedensburg, Christian Democrat acting mayor, charged the east Berlin police not only had refused to protect the parliament but "actually backed the demonstrators."

"It is now questionable whether the city parliament will stay here under a situation where the police refuse to grant it protection from a small minority pressure group."

After demonstrating for more than an hour, the crowd of about 1000 dispersed, chanting, "We'll come back again."

Non-Communist assembly leaders later decided to put the issue squarely up to the Russians with a demand for police protection. Few believed they would get anywhere. Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, the Soviet Berlin commandant, has led the offensive against the council and accused it of splitting the city.

Step Bitterly Opposed

At yesterday's session the council was to have taken up the stormy issue of sending a Berlin delegation to the constitution-drafting convention of the West-sponsored German movement in Frankfurt. The step is bitterly opposed by Russia.

Tension mounted again late in the afternoon when about 2000 marchers from the Russian side of the city converged on Potsdamer Square for an "antiblackmarket" demonstration. The square, juncture of the British, American and Soviet sectors, was the scene last week of disorders threatening to touch off an international incident.

2 Russian Officers Fatally Shot by German

Goslar, Germany, Aug. 27 (U.P.).—Two Russian officers were fatally shot Wednesday by a German who was fleeing from the Soviet zone to British-held territory, police said today.

Russian authorities said that the two officers were shot without warning by a refugee who fled into the woods in the direction of Hanover, key British-zone city.

Russians in Austria Arrest U. S. Soldier

Vienna, Aug. 27 (AP).—The United States Army said today the Russians arrested an American soldier last Wednesday near Linz and still hold him.

He is believed to be Pfc Marvin Ayers, whose home address is not available here.

Austrian witnesses said the soldier crossed a bridge into the Russian zone in an Austrian cab. He was reported taken to Russian headquarters at Urfahr.

The United States provost marshal's office said the Russians have not acknowledged arresting the soldier. Efforts to secure his release have failed.

West Europe Union Given Nudge by U.S.

Policy Reversed

British Like U.S. Plan for Antarctic

By Ferdinand Kuhn, jr.
Post Reporter

The United States yesterday gave another nudge to the western European nations to get together.

The nudge was prompted by a French proposal for a November meeting of Britain, France and the Low Countries to consider calling a European assembly which, in turn, might create the first European parliament.

Earlier this week Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Great Britain had given a lukewarm response to the idea, saying this was "not the right time" for governments to take it up. He thought the work should be started by private organizations and individuals.

McDermott Reads Statement

Yesterday, when a reporter at the State Department asked about the American attitude to the French proposal, Press Officer Michael J. McDermott read the following statement:

"As stated in the preamble of the Economic Cooperation Act, this Government strongly favors the progressively closer integration of the free nations of western Europe.

"We believe that the world of today requires the taking of steps which before the war would have seemed beyond the range of practical politics.

"We favor the taking by the Europeans themselves of any steps which promote the idea of European unity, or the taking of such measures."

Contingent on Cooperatoin

The Economic Cooperation Act, the basic charter under which Congress voted more than five billion dollars of aid to Europe this year, says in its preamble that "continuity of assistance provided by the United States should, at all times, be dependent upon continuity of cooperation among countries participating in the program."

Although McDermott said the United States was "very sympathetic" to the French idea of a European assembly, the department's formal statement carefully avoided indorsing this or any other specific project. Ever since Secretary Marshall's famous speech at Harvard on June 5, 1947, the American attitude has been that greater unity in Europe is essential, but that the Europeans themselves should decide what to do and how to do it.

Short of Direct Backing

For this reason the department's statement fell short of being a direct indorsement of the French appeal. It was simply another in a long series of statements and actions intended to encourage the western Europeans to speed up the work of integration.

In the economic field, for example, the United States has favored the strongest possible continuing organization of the 16 countries taking part in the Marshall Plan. It has urged the Europeans to do their own apportioning of American aid among themselves. Last month, when Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul Hoffman was in Paris, he persuaded the Europeans to start work on four-year recovery plans for each country, so that the individual plans could then be harmonized into a general plan for western Europe.

Support More Discreet

In the political field the American support of closer European union, has been more discreet, but unmistakable, all the same. The United States was quick to express its official support of the so-called "western union" agreement of Britain, France and the Low Countries.

A 64-to-4 vote in the Senate last June called for "progressive development of regional and other collective arrangements for individual and collective self-defense" under the U. N. Charter, and for "association of the United States" with such arrangements under proper safeguards.

More recently American military men have been taking part in the London discussions of "western union" military committee. There is every prospect that if Europeans can work out a plan for "collective self-defense," Congress will be asked to authorize American military and political backing for the arrangement.

What troubles many American officials here and abroad is their feeling that Europe is not moving faster toward unity . . . Looking ahead to next January, these officials are convinced that the new Congress will want evidences of progress toward unity before renewing Marshall Plan aid for another year.

Yesterday's statement, therefore, was in the nature of a gentle prodding which undoubtedly will encourage the French to renew their efforts in London.

U. S. Charges Red Sabotage Of Free News

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 27 (AP).—United States Delegate Willard L. Thorp told the United Nations Economic and Social Council today Communist delegations have partly succeeded in sabotaging three draft agreements on freedom of information.

Thorp charged the Communists on the Council, representing the Soviet Union, White Russia and Poland, had deliberately obstructed consideration of the draft agreements, or conventions, by the Council. As a result, Thorp said, the Council now can take no definite action to indorse the agreements, and the whole work will have to be taken over by the U. N. general assembly next month.

The three drafts were approved here earlier this year by the U. N. Conference on Freedom of Information. One set out the freedom of gathering and transmission of news and certain basic rights for correspondents. It was discussed for several weeks by the Council's human rights committee, but Communist delaying tactics prevented any definite action.

The other two draft agreements have not been discussed. They are a British-drafted proposal on the principles of freedom of information and a French-drafted proposal on an international right of correction of false reports.

Irish Chief Seeks Unity as Prime Object of Career

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—John A. Costello, Prime Minister of Eire, said today attainment of Irish unity was the "prime political objective" of his regime.

He said he "has hopes" that partition of Ireland will be ended within his present term of five years.

Costello, accompanied by his wife and two aides, arrived on the Mauretania. Asked about the role of his government in the world political situation, he replied:

"It is a safe assumption that we would be willing to enter into an agreement with the United States and Great Britain for strategic purposes to maintain the peace."

Costello will leave Sunday for Montreal to address a meeting of the Montreal Bar Association.

Boy Jailed 14 Years For Suffocating Girl

Chicago, Aug. 27 (AP).—Roy Adams, 14, was convicted today of murder in the suffocation of 8-year-old Nancy Schuler last May 27. The jury set his penalty at 14 years in prison.

The State, which charged the boy committed an unnatural sex act after smothering Nancy on a bed in his parents' apartment, did not seek the death penalty.

PRELUDE TO FLIGHT—Mrs. D. C. Ramsey of Honolulu and Comdr. James. G. Lang christen the Caroline Mars with a long lei. Commander Lang is supervising the nonstop flight of the flying boat from Hawaii to Chicago. It will land on Lake Michigan

Huge Flying Boat Wings Way From Hawaii With Newsmen

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Aboard the Caroline Mars, Aug. 27.—Six hours and 1000 miles out of Honolulu this great flying boat is winging its way to Chicago with 14,000 pounds of cargo for the Cook County (Ill.) Fair.

Mostly the cargo consists of 23 reporters, their baggage and the special equipment necessary for flying passengers over water. The crew comprises 17 men and women plus two observers from the Pratt & Whitney Co., which built the four 3000-horsepower engines.

Just now, at 9000 feet, the temperature outside is 48 degrees and inside the unheated and uninsulated cabin it is 60 degrees. The passengers wrapped in blankets look forward without too great enthusiasm to 15 hours more of flying before the Caroline Mars settles down on Lake Michigan.

Above Blue Pacific

Above the Mars it's 2 p. m. Back at Honolulu it is 1 p. m. and 4 p. m. ahead in San Francisco. In Washington it is 7 p. m., and dusk is settling in contrast to the brightest sun now shining on the Mars and the incredibly blue Pacific is 9000 feet below.

Shortly after 7 this morning the Caroline Mars, loaded with 10,775 gallons of gasoline, roared down the seaplane basin at Rogers Field, all but smothered in its own mountainous spray. Finally lifting itself from the water, it climbed slowly toward the perpetual diadem of cloud which crowns Oahu, and banked sharply toward the open sea. Diamond Head swung under the port wing, Waikiki Beach with surfboarders already out disappeared behind. Ahead lay 4330 miles of ocean and forbidding land.

If everything goes according to schedule the Mars will reach Chicago Saturday at 11 a. m. (CDT) and will fly along the lake front for an hour before landing at noon. Besides its reporter passengers, the Mars then will disgorge 1500 flower leis and several cases of Hawaiian products for Illinois, Cook County and Chicago officials.

Weighing 165,000 pounds loaded, the Caroline Mars is the first of a series of flying boats built by the Glen L. Martin Co. of Baltimore to be equipped with the engines for which it was designed. It has a 200-foot wing span and can carry 83,739 pounds of fuel and payload.

The big ship was flown to Honolulu from Alameda, Calif., last Wednesday, after last-minute improvements to its engines. That trip was its introduction to the Pacific, where it will be assigned for regular service.

Yugoslav Priests Held In Espionage Plot

Prague, Aug. 27 (U.P.). — The Czechoslovak Ministry of Interior today announced the arrest of a Dominican abbot and 10 other persons, including several priests, on charges of smuggling "traitors" and delivering documents to a "foreign espionage service."

Wallace Sees Big Power Rift As Real Threat

Wroclaw, Poland, Aug. 27 (U.P.)—Henry A. Wallace, candidate for President of the United States, said today in a recorded speech broadcast at the World Congress of Intellectuals that mankind's existence is being threatened by rifts between the great powers.

Wallace's speech was brought here by O. John Rogge, former United States Assistant Attorney General, and American Labor Party candidate for surrogate of New York County.

"A major part of the American Nation is worried because of the serious rifts which have appeared between the great powers since the end of the war," Wallace said. "They worry because of widely spread rumors of a third World War, which would undoubtedly bring disaster to all humanity, and because of disastrous plans for the undermining of the United Nations. . . . The American Nation does not want war. We do not want anything better than peace."

The minister of education in Gen. Markos Vafiades "Free Greek" government told the congress American "intervention" has frustrated Markos' attempts to reach agreement with the Athens government. He blamed the United States for "chaos in Athens.

Dr. Hewlett Johnson, "Red" Dean of Canterbury, who has been refused a visa to visit the United States, charged that the refusal was caused by Wall Street circles who are afraid of those "who speak the truth about Russia and peoples democracies."

Jews Ordered to Withdraw Troops From Tel Arradgha

Tel Aviv, Israel, August 27 (U.P.). Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator in Palestine, today gave the Jews until noon Monday to withdraw their troops from the strategic ridge of Tel Arradgha, south of Beisan.

An ultimatum sent to Moshe Shertok, Israeli Foreign Minister, said the matter will be submitted to the United Nations Security Council if the Jews do not withdraw as ordered.

United Nations truce headquarters at Haifa had ordered both Jews and Iraquis to leave the Tel Arradgha area after a battle there July 31 and August 1. The Iraqis were said officially to have evacuated, but the Jews reportedly remained, contending they held the ridge before the truce became effective.

At Tel Aviv, meanwhile, the Zionist General Council was expected to yield to American demands for separating the Israeli government from the Jewish Agency for Palestine, the world Zionist organization. The Americans want all members of the Israeli government to resign from the agency so they cannot be accused of dual poltical allegience.

In Rome, the Italian government denied charges made by the Arab League in Cairo that Italy is being used by the Zionists as a base for transporting arms and men to Palestine.

Today the League issued a communique stating that "good relations" exist between the Arab states and the Italian government. It said the Zionist activities of which the Arab states are complaining exist everywhere and the League has no special complaint against Italy.

New York Power Failure Is Blamed on Heat

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—Power and light failed in much of downtown Manhattan today, scrambling subway service and curtailing services in many skyscrapers.

Power failures occurred in two Consolidated Edison Co. stations. The trouble was blamed on the near-record heat.

It Isn't The Heat . . .

It is something of a relief (is it not?) after the unseasonable weather which has prevailed through nearly all of August to have the thermometers begin behaving with some degree of normalcy and with some sense of their responsibility to a Capital which has long boasted of its intolerable summers. What have visitors thought of this city up to now? Indubitably they have gossiped about the clemency of the climate; indubitably they have snickered behind their idle and unneeded fans, deriding all that their native hosts have told them about the glories of the past as tall tales, as mere local pride, as the vainglorious reminiscing of folks who had no real knowledge of the sun's authority. The rumor has probably gained widespread credence that Washington is a community which experiences no summer at all but only a balmy, continuous springtime.

Well, these scoffers are now getting the come-uppance they deserve. Let them say now that Washingtonians know not whereof they speak when the talk turns to heat waves. The Capital is vindicated; and every bona fide resident of the District can point with pardonable pride to the wilted flower boxes, the oozing asphalt, the crumpled seersuckers, the moist brows, the limp and sodden ties and collars. Now is the time for all true native sons to rejoice and to bask in the awe and admiration of the transients who must acknowledge that here at last they are experiencing summer with a capital S.

Now, too, the vacationers come into their just inheritance. What boots it to go to mountain or to shore, to invest in picture postcards of cool vistas and to inscribe autobiographical annals of sleeping under blankets if these are but to reach stay-at-homes who are altogether comfortable and contented. What delight, what innocent and justifiable gratification it must bring to those currently immersing themselves in far-off shaded lakes and pools to read that the temperature at home is at last what they have a right to expect it to be. Yea, verily, nature hath smiled upon us all. Let us give thanks and praise.

Judge Tamm's Salary

Some weeks ago this newspaper expressed the belief that the recess appointment of Edward Allen Tamm to a District judgeship, after the Senate had conducted hearings and failed to confirm his previous nomination, was ill advised. Mr. Tamm failed of confirmation because of his lack of courtroom experience, which is necessarily a severe handicap to any judge. In our opinion, President Truman should have recognized this legitimate objection before the appointment was made in the first place and certainly after the Senate had withheld confirmation. Now that Judge Tamm is on the bench for a brief period, however, we can see no justification for the efforts of the District Bar Association to deny him his salary.

The issue raised by the Bar Association involves that section of the Constitution which gives the President authority to fill vacancies while the Senate is in recess "by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session." A Bar Association committee contends that Congress was not in recess when the appointment was made two days after the June 20 adjournment, because Congress left the door open for its leaders to call it back into session. Whatever the technicalities may be, this seems to us quite out of keeping with the spirit and intent of the constitutional provision in question. The founding fathers were obviously trying to give flexibility to the appointing power. They did not wish to hamstring the Administration or the courts by keeping offices vacant until Congress should return to Washington.

Nor does the other facet of the Bar Association's argument seem to square with a sound working interpretation of the Constitution. Even if Judge Tamm's recess appointment were legal, it is said, his tenure has expired with the end of the special session recently called by President Truman. The only difficu'ty with this argument is that the session is still potentially a going concern. Congress did not adjourn sine die but provided for a resumption of its session on December 31, or earlier if a call is issued by congressional leaders. It merely took a recess of uncertain duration. The Comptroller General has decided that in these circumstances Judge Tamm should receive his salary, and it seems to us difficult to quarrel with that decision.

Little Thomases

Behind the blanket of publicity attendant upon the spy investigation, a newcomer has joined the ranks of legislative committees investigating alleged subversive activities. Its abode is the State of Washington where its official name is the "Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities," and where it is rapidly building a reputation to rival that of the Thomas Committee here and the Tenney Committee in California. The Canwell Committee, to give it the name of its chairman, is fully equipped with all the now familiar techniques and apparatus of such investigations. It even has a former Dies Committee investigator on its staff, the notorious J. B. Matthews.

Since July 19 the Canwell Committee has been conducting public hearings into supposed communism among members of the faculty of the University of Washington. As is customary, the business got under way with a blanket accusation by one committee member that the faculty includes about 150 Communists or Communist sympathizers. Having announced the verdict, the matter of "fact-finding" was thereupon commenced. It began with preliminary private hearings, in one of which at least, the subpenaed witness was subjected, in the presence of two or three strong-arm men, to a barrage of accusations unsupported by any evidence. With this kind of start, "fact-finding" then moves to the next step: public hearings. These have consisted, we hardly need to tell you, of long and uninterrupted statements of opinion, hearsay, and character assassination by the committee's "expert" witnesses, with a curtailed opportunity by the accused to "answer yes or no" to the loaded questions of the committee's counsel. The legal protection afforded witnesses in a court of law are, as usual, strictly disregarded. A witness has little if any chance to make a statement or introduce witnesses in his own behalf, or to cross-examine the accusing witnesses.

What "facts" will be found by the Canwell Committee cannot very well be forecast in detail. In general, they will doubtless resemble those found by other like bodies, which is to say that they will not resemble truth so much as they will look like a formal statement of the committee's original prejudices, unmodified by exposure to real evidence or open-minded examination. Everything that has been said in condemnation of the practices of the Dies-Thomas Committee appears to apply with equal force to its offshoots in California and now in Washington. An utter contempt for some of the greatest traditions of American democracy—due process, the presumption of innocence until proof of guilt, the right of the individual to freedom from persecution, the right of academic freedom—seems to be an occupational disease of investigators into un-American activities.

As we have said many times before, there is no question but that Communists are subversive in every sense of the word. To our mind, the problem is serious enough to warrant the President, if he can persuade himself to eat his own red herring, in setting up a commission of outstanding citizens to inquire into the dilemma of how to tighten up our laws and at the same time to protect our free institutions. The Communists are intent on subverting to their own—which means the Kremlin's—purposes every aspect of American democracy. But, in our opinion, they are in danger of obtaining the unwitting aid of the increasingly numerous committees of investigation into subversive activities. No logic or necessity of the investigative procedure requires these committees to conduct their inquiries in defiance of the procedures which set our system apart from the Communists'. Even good results don't justify bad practices. The successful practitioners of the legislative investigation in past years stand witness to the fact that facts can be found without using the smear technique and within the bounds of procedural decency.

The legislative investigation is not only a useful but a vital adjunct of representative government. Neither Congress nor any State assembly could perform its duties adequately without this arm of the law-making service. By the same token Congress and the State assemblies do themselves and the Nation a profound disservice by allowing the investigative function to be perverted. It is of overriding importance that Congress undertake the task of developing a code of fair practices for investigative committees along the lines that this newspaper recommended in a series of editorials, "Turning on the Light," some months ago.

Passport

Before the war an American passport was a useful courtesy extended to citizens of the United States who desired to travel abroad. It amounted to a sort of letter of introduction by the Secretary of State, affording them the promise of their Government's protection in foreign lands. It was given more or less indiscriminately to any law-abiding citizen who asked for it; and anyone wishing to set forth without it was quite free to do so. When the war began, however, a passport became an indispensable travel permit for those going outside the Western Hemisphere, and the Department of State was authorized to deny such a permit to anyone whose projected journey, in its opinion, was not in the interests of the United States. This war restriction is still operative. Under it, a passport was denied a few months ago to Miss Ursula Wasserman, a staff member of the United Nations.

Miss Wasserman has departed for Europe, however, without benefit of passport, on the basis of a document called a laissez-passer issued by the United Nations itself. This was done with the consent of the Department of State which waived its authority to forbid Miss Wasserman's going abroad at all. Thus the position of the department appears to be the anomalous one that it is not contrary to the interests of the United States to let Miss Wasserman journey to Geneva, but that it is contrary to those interests to promise her the protection of her Government. One cannot help wondering what designs the department suspects her of harboring. But this the department has refused to reveal. Its denial of a passport was accompanied by no statement of its reasons.

Passport or no passport, Miss Wasserman is entitled to the rights and immunities of American citizenship; and any violation of these must inescapably concern the United States. Now that the war is over, it would seem wise to formulate definite standards for the State Department's issuance of passports. They ought not to be denied capriciously since freedom of movement is one of the cardinal attributes of a free society. In situations where issuance of a passport genuinely seems to menace the interests of the United States, the reasons for denial ought to be set forth in specific terms and in accordance with established criteria.

Marked Man

The liquidation of Marshal Tito may be expected any day. Diplomats returning from the Danubian conference say that Russian goons have already made one attempt on Tito's life. Communist officials in Trieste are saying bluntly that any member of the party who comes into contact with the Moscow-disgraced Yugoslav dictator ought to dispatch him for the sake of Communist unity. The time during which Tito might have repented of his "traitorous" conduct toward Moscow seems to have passed. He is now in the category to which Trotsky was consigned—that of a sworn enemy of what the Russians call the Bolshevist Communist Party of the USSR.

In one of the letters from this party to the Yugoslav Communists, to which we have previously made reference, Tito was bluntly informed that he had "killed" the trust that Moscow formerly had in him. His case was specifically likened to that of the murdered Trotsky, although the letter contended that Trotsky had taken his own life. "We believe," the Moscow spokesmen caustically commented, "Trotsky's political career to be sufficiently instructive." In the light of history this can be regarded only as an official bid for Tito's liquidation.

What is the cause of this seemingly irremediable break between the masters of Moscow and Belgrade? Nearly two months ago we ventured the suggestion that Tito's failure to get Trieste was at the bottom of it. The Moscow-Belgrade correspondence now confirms that view. The Russians say that Tito became disgruntled because the USSR would not go to war with the Western powers to secure Trieste for Yugoslavia. That is said to have led to the dissemination of anti-Soviet propaganda in Yugoslavia and to determination on Tito's part to remain neutral if Russia should become entangled in hostilities with the Western powers through pursuit of its own policies. In justification of its stand Moscow insists that it went as far as it could in trying to give Trieste to Yugoslavia. "The Yugoslav comrades could not be unaware," the Communist Central Committee's letter says, "that the USSR could not embark in a new war after having waged one so hard."

Marshal Tito's ruthless demand for war to bring Trieste into his grasp and his disinterest in any war that might result from aggression on the part of Russia clearly mark him as a traitor to the Communist cause. Never again can he be trusted to adhere to the first commandment of communism, which is to advance Russian policy even at the expense of one's own country. Under the Russian system liquidation is the only safe method of dealing with self-seeking and independent leaders. Yugoslavia thus faces a sort of guerilla warfare in which the advantages seem to lie with the Moscow conspirators in spite of the increasing disposition of Yugoslavs to rally to Tito's support.

BEAUTIFUL, DARK HEAD

Beautiful, dark head
Upon my pillow sleeping,
Starlight and shadow,
Peace upon your brow,
I would never wake you,
Wake you from your dreaming;
You are on an island
Where there is no now.

You have fled the small room,
The room that I can give you;
Forgotten now the pillow
Where you rest your head;
Forgotten now the lone flower
In the broken vase,
The crumbs upon the table.
Crumbs that once were bread.

You are in a far land,
A land of nightingales,
A pale land with moonlight
And one clear star.
Beautiful, dark head
Upon my pillow dreaming,
I would never call you
From the island where you are!

Letters To The Editor

Communications must be addressed to the editor and must carry the complete name and street address of the writer, though pen names will be permitted at the editor's discretion. Letters of less than 200 words will be given preference, and all letters are subject to condensation. No communication can be returned.

Committee Powers

When the United States Supreme Court reconvenes in October, it will consider a petition to review the case of the 11 executive board members of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee who were sentenced to prison for refusal to show their records and books to the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Of all the cases arising out of the operations of the Thomas Committee, this is the only one which challenges the constitutionality of its establishment and procedures. In view of the current activities of the committee, all citizens have a profound interest in seeing the powers of legislative committees of this kind defined.

The Supreme Court, on June 14, refused to review the contempt convictions of Dr. Edward K. Barsky and the 10 other leaders of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee. It is not usual to write to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. However, all the circumstances surrounding this case are so unusual that, at this time, in my opinion, an exception might well be made. VINCENT SHEEAN.

Chinese Students

It is true, as Mr. Ernest T. Nash said in his letter of August 23 that the scholars and students in China have traditionally exercised great influence in political affairs.

The 13,000 high school students from Honan and Shantung must be mainly from the landlords' families who went to Nanking with their schools operated by the government or with their families. They left for Nanking before the Communists took their native towns. Very few left for Nanking after the town had been taken by the Communists, not because they could not escape, but because they did not want to. On the contrary, there are many students, teachers and professors running away from the government area to the Communist area.

Two factual examples will be enough for the "foreign observers" to understand how the scholars and students are treated by the Chinese government.

1. The refugee students from Manchuria in Peiping were ordered to be conscripted to fight against the Communists. They did not want to. A demonstration by the Manchurian refugee students took place in Peiping. They were shot and attacked under a prearranged plan by the police and soldiers.

2. In the battle of Kaifeng, the capital of Honan Province, the government troops burned many school buildings when they could not hold them. Many students died in fires or were shot. Strong protests were made to the government not only by the professors, teachers and students, but also by the businessmen and the Kuomingtang representatives from Honan Province. A. P.

Auto Price Raises

In view of the interest shown by your paper in the policies of General Motors Corp. as described by Mrs. Meyer in her three articles, I suggest that your readers may also be interested in the auto worker union's appraisal of the price-raising policy of this and other auto manufacturers.

Recently Walter Reuther said that five leading auto companies could have absorbed the recent wage increase out of profits and still would have earned 24.4 per cent on net worth. He added:

"The public is entitled to know the truth about the price increases big business makes behind its smoke screen of 'hardship and increased labor costs.' They have just as much right to know the actual cost of manufacturing a ton of steel or a Plymouth two-door sedan as the cost of operating the Government.

"Until machinery is set up to provide this vital information to the people who foot the bills—the American consumers—we won't be able to stop this rat race of inflation where every wage increase to boost purchasing power is used as a phony excuse for a price increase that feeds the fires of inflation."

Jail Menu

In the August 23 Washington Post, an article is noted that "Axis Sally Eats Well in D. C. Jail." Although our disdain for her is the disdain of any red-blooded American, we are happy to hear that for dinner last night she had "veal chop, mashed potatoes, canned peas, fresh tomatoes and dessert." For this well-balanced meal, Donald Clemmer, director of the department of corrections, said that the total cost was probably 15.22 cents.

Even assuming that this is an average cost per meal per prisoner, Mr. Clemmer should be commended for the distinction of being the most amazing purchaser of foodstuffs in the current market.

Federal Career Employes

The Washington Post reports on August 9 a move to give permanent status to certain war-service employes and in the same column reports a new drive to find jobs for displaced career employes. The question arises here as to how many, if any, of these war-service employes hold jobs which could properly be filled by displaced career employes. In any case at this time when so many war-service employes have already been separated, it would be unfair to lower the barriers to the remainder.

Competitive tests should be required as a condition of employment in all Federal jobs. The Civil Service Commission should, however, see to it that tests are given under proper conditions and as nearly alike as possible for all applicants. In at least one instance the lighting provided in the examining room was far below ordinary standards.

The blanketing in of large groups of employes such as was done under the Ramspeck Act added nothing to the efficiency of the service. Moreover, it complica'ed matters when it came to considering the claims of career employes, veterans, and war-service appointees, for the diminishing number of jobs.

In order for career employes to protect their interests it is essential that they organize as such. By career employes I mean those who have acquired status by passing competitive tests.

Organization plus support by that section of the press which believes in the merit system would undoubtedly benefit the career employe and would produce results beneficial to the Government itself.

Hyderabad's Sovereignty

The August 2 letter in your newspaper from Mr. Shastri of the Indian Press Office is rather typical of the sort of thing that is being done by various officials and unofficial propaganda agencies.

The letter purports to discuss the question of the claim to sovereignty of the princely state of Hyderabad. This is a good moot point in international law and there is much to be said on both sides. The government of Hyderbad is quite willing to submit its case to the United Nations and the International Court. The goverment of India is not willing that it should be so submitted.

Mr. Shastri's letter starts out with some of the grounds for the Indian government's contention. Those grounds can be appraised and they should eventually, of course, come under competent and entirely neutral adjudication or arbitrament.

But as soon as the legal argument has been advanced, the Indian Information Office abandons it and goes off into a spate of venom against the state and its rulers, for which no evidence is presented. "Hyderabad", says your correspondent, "is ruled by an autocrat with the support of a handful of fanatics."

The "handful" of Moslems in Hyderabad is conservatively estimated at two million. At the same time that Moslem-Hindu murders on the India-Pakistan border reached the appalling total of more than half a million, Hyderabad remained in peace and Hindu caretakers watched over Moslem mosques and Moslem "fanatics" faithfully guarded the rights of Hindu "Untouchables."

Hyderabad's "masses", says the Indian government representative, "are terrorized and exploited." The only terror reported thus far is by bands of raiders who have come in from the Dominion of India. The tax rates in Hyderabad are considerably lower than those in the Dominion of India. The government's budget shows an outlay of about 40 per cent of the total revenue for education, amelioration and public development. The record of the Dominion is by no means as good.

"The Nazam's fabulous riches have been built," says Mr. Shastri, "on their (the masses') misery." The Nizam's riches are, of course, hereditary. At present he derives his personal income from one small designated area and it represents only an inconsiderable fraction of the revenue of the rich state.

Then, from the presumptive examination of the legal basis for Hyderabad's claim to independent status, your Indian correspondent works around to this persuasive conclusion:

"Is the right to live of 320 million people in India to be jeopardized because of the ambitions of one man who rules over the bulk of his helpless 16 million subjects by imposition and dreams of carving an empire out of India?"

How is the "right to live" of 320 million Indians going to be jeopardized" by the political status, one way or another, of 16 million Hyderabadis? Remember Hitler's concern about "Lebensraum", and how the Germans' right to live was "jeopardized" by truncated Austria, little Czechoslovakia, big bad Danzig, and the truculent Poles? Or how powerless Russia was "jeopardized" by the ambitions of mighty Finland?

As for the "imposition" of Hyderabad's rule, why is Hyderabad willing to submit its status to the United Nations and the International Court, and the Dominion of India unwilling to see the controversy aired? And, finally, what is the evidence for the statement that the ruler of Hyderabad "dreams dreams of carving an empire out of India"?

Backing Up The Draftees

By Malvina Lindsay

Stay-at-Homes' Part

ABOUT NINE and a half million young men will be starting Monday to register for military service to their country. This raises the question as to what comparable service to the Nation the rest of the populace will volunteer. Or will the many complacently sit back and let the few pay the debt of patriotism?

Only a part of the youths 18 through 25 will be drafted for the 21-month term of service. And many men called will be exempted or deferred for physical or occupational reasons. But the probable one fourth million to be called up this year will give nearly two years of their lives—defer their studies, postpone their careers and personal plans—to help carry out the national defense program. If the urgency is such as to require this, it also calls for contribution from other citizens.

Young women especially, it would seem, should be enrolling in some kind of volunteer training to make them more useful in event of national emergency, or to help meet present postwar problems. The women of this country had it relatively soft during the last war. And according to Gen. Omar D. Bradley, Chief of Staff, there is no likelihood of their being included in compulsory defense activities in the future. This privileged status gives them an obligation to be planning now for some definite volunteer contribution.

BY 1949 the draft is expected to begin eating into masculine college enrollment, and girls may again, as during the war, have greater opportunities for higher education. True, in recent years they have been pushed out of college enrollment to some extent because of the great GI advance on campuses. But it is estimated that between 250,000 and 400,000 nonveterans now attending college will be subject to call by the fall of 1949. If conscription rates should be increased, girls again will be definitely the privileged in higher education.

Also many young men will escape the regimentation of Selective Service because they are in scientific training or essential occupations, or because of family or physical reasons. This situation helps create a feeling of unfairness among draftees. And there is not now the emotional patriotism of wartime to compensate for this or to give special homage to the men in uniform. It will not help the morale of draftees to see able-bodied citizenry, both men and women, giving their whole time to their personal affairs and pursuing their usual frivolities, with no apparent sense of obligation to share the country's defense.

From the psychological side of national defense there is definitely the need for some positive, constructive activities, developed on a Nation-wide scale, that would give nondrafted citizens something concrete to do toward meeting national problems — military, economic, political, social. Such outlets of action would be the best antidote to the widespread jitters over the "next war." They would give many disturbed citizens a sense of doing something to make their country strong—in other ways than by possession of atom bombs.

MANY WOMEN leaders are particularly concerned over the role of their sex in any future emergency. A great many American women and girls are not trained in any definite useful skills. Such persons in another war would be one of the Nation's greatest liabilities. In fact idle, untrained women are fifth wheels that even today's dangerous "peacetime" cannot afford.

Recently the American Association of University Women appealed to the Administration to have something special done for the defense preparation of women. But the National Security Resources Board, consisting of eight men, replied that it did not view potential mobilization of women in civilian defense as different from that of men. Hence women's contribution, at present at least, must depend on volunteer effort.

Volunteer work in now desperately needed in many places—in hospitals, social settlements, public health, in education, in civic and political movements. Yet not for a long time have volunteers for this been so scarce. Now as so many young men are being asked to give 21 months of their lives to national service, the time seems ripe for some general patriotic effort to rouse the lucky stay-at-home Americans to train and organize voluntarily to do their share.

Principle Of Giving

The cartoon of August 23 pictures the United States as having given gifts to the Russians. It conveys the idea that the principle of Christian giving has failed because the Russians, not understanding Christian principles, make it a one-sided affair.

The implication of the cartoon is that we should carry on with this "get tough" policy. How long will it take man to learn that power politics and its parents, hate and distrust, do not work, have never worked, and never will work? I am so sick of hearing "Christianity is a wonderful ideal, but we must be realistic." W. T. DAVIES.

Red Against White

A Communication

VIOLATION BY THE Soviet Consul General in New York of the immunity of private property and the homes of American citizens and residents, as well as the kidnaping of a teacher and its subsequent dramatic events are watched with special interest by millions of citizens and residents who have come to the United States from the Soviet Union and countries under its yoke. I believe that it is important for native born Americans to be informed of their feelings and reactions to current events.

Frankly speaking, we think of ourselves as second rate citizens without full protection of the Constitution. It is not that the laws of the country are not applied to us but that representatives of the Russian government take every opportunity to harm us. At the same time United States authorities and public opinion are not well informed about us and often do not know how and whom to protect.

Current happenings are not news to us and their importance lies only in the publicity that will enable the United States to see Soviet practices in action. We hope that this case will give light and understanding of the nature of the Soviet system and knowledge of those of us who are loyal citizens.

It is incorrect and even dangerous when papers sometimes say that the case is between Russian Reds and Whites. We believe that there is only one case—that between the United States and the Soviet government with its fifth column.

American papers call all of us "Whites" and this definition is for the great majority of us a shameful one. It is as if every native non-Communist American were called an "America Firster." The great majority of people from Soviet Russia, as American citizens, take little interest in politics and usually only during Federal and local elections. Only an insignificant number are under control of the Bolsheviks. The name "White" belongs to Russian monarchists, who are no more numerous than Communists. Bolsheviks know very well that monarchists and "Whites" are not popular in America and deliberately use this definition.

LET US BRIEFLY look at some of the persons and organizations which Soviet Minister of Foreign Affairs, Molotov, Ambassador Panyushkin and Consul General Lomakin call "White Bandits":

The Russian daily Novoye Russkoye Slovo and its chief editor M. Weinbaum. This paper and its editor are politically independent and respected by all Russians in America except Communists.

Mr. Vladimir Zenzinov. He is a well known politician, writer and journalist whose works have been partly translated into English, some with a large circulation. I believe he is the closest friend of Alexander Kerensky. Mr. Molotov knows Mr. Zenzinov well because both were members of the executive committee of the first Soviet in Petrograd (now Leningrad) in 1917. The only difference is that in those days Mr. Zenzinov belonged to the majority and Mr. Molotov to the small minority (Bolsheviks).

The name of Miss Alexandra Tolstoy is well known in the country as well as the Tolstoy Foundation and I may only add that she was never associated with any party in or outside Russia.

The Soviets have named as the "White stronghold," the Russian Consolidated Mutual Aid Society of America. This is the largest Russian-American brotherhood organization with branches throughout the United States and Canada. The first branches were organized 55 years ago. The consolidated has churches, a big farm of 1400 acres with camps, and an old-age home. It has schools, amateur theaters, promotes lectures and so on. The organization is nonpolitical but definitely anti-totalitarian. After the Bolshevik uprising in Russia it became the main bulwark against attacks on Russian Americans by Communists. The Bolsheviks tried every trick to infiltrate and to seize it but failed. During the last war, consolidated energetically worked to help Russia and collected large sums of money, mostly for medical needs. In those days consolidated was respected by Soviet representatives and the Soviet press praised its work in every way. Present accusations against the consolidated show that Communists again have taken up their old tactics of making this organization the main target of attack and slander. I believe the reason is that a few months ago the leaders of consolidated organized a committee to help DP's.

THE SOVIET state is highly centralized and the police forces are most efficient having limitless funds. We may be sure that all the acts and statements of the Soviet Ambassador and Consul General were not only approved by but originated from the Politbureau in Moscow. During the war and after, the Soviet exercised special authority over Russian emigrants and DPs in many European and Asiatic countries. Now they are trying to do the same thing in the United States.

This is the reason why millions of our citizens and residents who came from Soviet Russia and its satellites nervously watch current events so closely. If Soviets in the United States succeed in getting concessions, it would mean that we would be in constant danger, not only from Soviet officials, but more directly from the fifth column.

We expect that in dealing with the scandal about the Russian teachers, our Government will use words and acts of such nature that everybody in the world will again have proof that the United States is the symbol of freedom and law, and that no power in the world can infringe upon our fundamental principles. The idea of freedom and security is our most powerful weapon in our struggle for our existence with the monster of Bolshevism.

Calling Washington

By Marquis Childs

California's Governor

San Francisco, Calif.

WHEN THE motorist comes into this State, he is stopped and his car inspected at a quarantine station to be sure he is not carrying any disease - bearing plants. Then he is given an inspection certificate which says by way of explanation:

Childs

"About one third of the Nation's fruits and vegetables are grown in California, where more than 200 commercial crops are produced. Last year the income from these crops exceeded two billion dollars, the highest of any State."

That modest understatement typifies the boom-time atmosphere of California, the gorgeous, the magnificent, the unbeatable. The new 41 per cent jump in population, carrying the State close to second place in the Union, is just one of California's boasts.

They have a political champion today and the fact he has won national recognition is taken as another inevitable tribute to California's inevitable greatness. You do not have to be in the State very long to discover that Gov. Earl Warren has real popularity among all kinds of people.

In fact, just as California threatens to overshadow the East in population and in any number of other ways, so it is suggested that Governor Warren may overshadow the head of the Republican ticket, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Californians won't be in the least surprised if this happens, although when they talk about the possibility, they add that Warren's natural modesty will be a restraint.

CERTAINLY he has a warmer personal following in the West than Dewey has ever had in his own State. And California Republicans are set to display the Warren personality to the country with the same pride with which they advertise their oranges and sunshine.

Plans are being completed that will take the GOP vice presidential candidate into pretty much every corner of the country. He will tour the border States with emphasis on Kentucky and Missouri, and he may go into the deep South. He will make a number of talks in the big cities of the East.

He will be accompanied on his tours by his good friend, California's Senator William F. Knowland. The Republican organization in industrial Oakland, dominated by the Knowland family, is given a lot of credit for Warren's success. When "Young Bill" came home from the war, Warren appointed him to a vacancy in the Senate.

Even in California, of course, there are ingrates who take a jaundiced view of the smiling, friendly Governor. They concede his personal charm. They say that this charm is a mask to conceal the failure of the Governor's performance in office.

The Governor, say these ungrateful critics, has failed to bring about adoption of progressive measures urged by a majority of the voters. Thus, in spite of wide organizational support for a fair employment practices law, nothing was done, and this in a State where the racial issue has been heightened and accentuated by hundreds of thousands of newcomers living in terrible overcrowding. Housing is another failure, according to the critics.

BUT IT SEEMS to me unfair to judge Warren by what he has been able to get the Legislature to do. Under this strange business of cross-filing, whereby a candidate may run on both the Republican and the Democratic tickets, there is almost no party responsibility to build on. Cross-filing so blurs party lines that the average citizen cannot tell whether he's voting for a Democrat or a Republican.

The result is a Legislature more subject to lobbyist pressures and more venal than most. The Governor finds it impossible to persuade or coerce the members of his own party to go down the line for measures that he wants.

The contrast with New York State is striking. One of Dewey's chief boasts is his ability to get teamwork out of the Legislature. He works with party leaders for party responsibility. New York has an FEPC law and housing measures well in advance of California.

Warren has liberal views which he expresses sometimes fuzzily, sometimes with forthrightness and courage. Rich tories mutter that he is a dangerous radical. But the real test of the man is still to come. He will be judged on what influence he brings to bear on national policy and administration when—and if—he goes to Washington.

N. J. Civil Rights Bill Beaten As Negro Leads Opposition

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 27 (AP).—The Freeman civil rights bill was defeated in the State Assembly today with the opposition led by Jersey's only Negro assemblyman.

Assemblyman Grace M. Freeman (R., Essex), who introduced the bill, then offered seven technical amendments designed to keep the issue alive. Because of the changes, which involved punctuation and minor phrases, another vote must be taken.

Miss Freeman said she expected the Assembly to reconsider her bill Monday.

The measure calls for extension of present bans against racial and religious discrimination in employment. Under the legislation, no person could be barred because of race, religion or national origin from "places of public accommodations."

These places are defined to include inns, taverns, hotels, auditoriums, retail stores, schools, colleges, theaters and public conveyances.

Although the Assembly vote today was 27 to 4 in favor of the bill, a majority, or 31 votes, is required for passage. Twenty-nine legislators cast no vote.

Among the four negative votes was one registered by the only Negro in the chamber, Assemblyman James A. Curtis (R., Essex). Curtis spoke against the bill before the vote was taken, calling it "bad legislation" and a "grievous error."

Curtis said the measure would destroy "all the good work that has been done in civil rights" by saddling the State division against discrimination in employment with additional tasks.

As a result, he said, fair employment practices would suffer.

"The most important thing is the right to earn a living," Curtis said. "I'm very much afraid that if this bill is passed, we are going to have a problem of high relief rolls and higher taxes because of the need for increased appropriations for municipal relief agencies."

Curtis' statements followed the line taken at a public hearing Tuesday by Oliver Randolph, a former Essex County assemblyman and only Negro delegate to the 1947 constitutional convention. Randolph, one of the three persons at the hearing who spoke against the bill, said he believed the measure would hurt the fight against racial discrimination.

Like Curtis, he said the bill would weaken the State's campaign against unfair employment practices.

"How can discrimination in restaurants compare in importance with discrimination in jobs?" he asked. "A man has to have a job to support himself and his family."

was essential, he said, so that the District patrons "should not be burdened with any of the losses of the company incident to its Maryland operation."

He declared, "Only that property of the company which is used and useful in the rendition of transit service in the District of Columbia may be considered by the commission."

3. "The company's witness was unable to cite any other transit company which has an allowable return of 7½ per cent," which PUC previously established as the allowable return of the company.

Company witnesses testified during the 10-day controversy-ridden hearings that the financial condition of the firm required immediate relief in order to show sufficient earnings to attract additional capital and hinted that the 7½ per cent amount was inadequate.

4. "The company's witness conceded that the company was in a healthy financial condition at this time" and "has no immediate plans for refinancing." "The company's construction program is vague, and the record gives no indication that any large capital outlays will be required for construction in the near future. The company's plan to purchase new buses is only tentative and, in any event, may not be consummated before 1949 or later."

E. D. Merrill, CTC president, when informed of O'Dea's charges, commented that the company had reduced car mileage, which resulted in "very substantial savings in labor costs." These were offset, however, by a recent arbitration award boosting company wage costs by two million dollars, he said.

As for additional facilities, he declared an additional shop to service buses was essential and would cost from three to four million dollars. Other expansion needs were also covered in the hearing testimony, he added.

The CTC brief, filed yesterday by the law firm of Await and Hewes, emphasized that V. A. McElfresh, PUC chief accountant, testifying on his own recommended rate structure, admitted that "there is no positive assurance that such a fare structure will provide sufficient income to maintain the company in a sound financial position and if such a fare structure is adopted a further upward revision may be necessary in the not too distant future if present cost trends continue."

Pay Hikes Cited

Commenting further on the alleged failure to economize, O'Dea pointed that the firm, at his request, had submitted exhibits showing that less than two months after the fare increase authorized in May 1947, the officers of the company received $16,400 in annual salary increases.

"The company concedes that there has been no decrease in employment and that the only savings in wages and salary have been in the elimination of overtime," O'Dea said.

"The record contains no explanation, if there is any, why a reduction of 11.1 per cent in miles operated has not resulted in any savings in labor or other costs, except for the elimination of overtime."

O'Dea concluded that the firm "enjoyed extremely profitable years from 1942 to 1945, inclusive. The company is now in a healthy financial condition," but has failed to invoke economies.

"The stockholders and not the users of the company's service should carry the burden of uneconomical operation," he declared.

The peoples counsel's position was supported substantially in briefs filed by Benjamin C. Sigal, attorney for the Washington Chapter, Americans for Democratic Action, and Harry R. Booth, counsel for the Washington Committee for Consumer Protection.

Race Bars Topic

Churchmen Urge 'Unity Of Freedom'

Amsterdam, Aug. 27 (AP).—The assembly of the World Council of Churches, meeting in secret sessions today, discussed the problems of Ualestine and racial discrimination in the United States.

Dr. P. Frederick Nolde, dean of the graduate school at the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, reported in a news conference on the secret session and committee dtliberations.

On racial discrimination, he reported:

"The matter of segregation was discussed and a strong plea was made for the unity of freedom."

At another news conference, Bishop Angus Dun, of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Washington, D. C., gave the developing viewpoints of Palestine and Israel.

On the question of Israel, Bishop Dun said: "We recognize that our Christian approach to the Jew now has become a political problem of considerable dimensions. Since Israel has become a state among states, leaving out any prophecies as to the future, one of our sections was disposed to think that we had better not even tackle that because if we got into the Palestine problem we would never get into anything else.

"Undoubtedl," Bishop Dun said, "antisemitism has received a new life in Great Britain as a result of the political tension involved and the acute problems and the suffering of many representatives of that great human community in wrestling with this difficulty. Also, we must recognize that if we take up any attitude toward the Jewish state, that will certainly have profound reverberations on the Christian mission to the Arab and to the Moslem World."

'Axis Sally' Writ Deadline Set for Sept. 9

The Government has been given until September 9 to show cause why a writ of habeas corpus for the release of "Axis Sally" should not be issued.

Municipal Court Judge Richmond B. Keech yesterday signed an order directing Donald M. Clemmer, head of the District Jail and of the Department of Corrections, to show cause why the American-born Mildred Elizabeth Gillars should not be released.

The court order followed a motion by Miss Gillars' attorney, John M. Holzworth, to free her. The attorney contended that she married a German citizen in 1940, and therefore is not a subject of the United States and cannot be tried for treason.

Sept. 9 Is Deadline

The Justice Department will have until September 9 to answer the order or, if it does not answer for Clemmer by that date, a hearing will be held on the merits of the habeas corpus application.

Holzworth presented his motion shortly after John M. Kelly, jr., special assistant to the Attorney General, finished presenting his request to the Federal grand jury for a treason indictment against "Sally," one-time resident of Portland, Me.

Kelly spent two hours establishing "jurisdiction" in the case. He presented the crew of the plane which brought "Sally" to Washington from Germany last Saturday, to testify that Washington was the first stop in this country and therefore the place where she should be tried.

He indicated that he would present more witnesses to the grand jury Monday, in an effort to show that the 47-year-old former actress had attempted to stir up discontent among American troops through her wartime broadcasts over the Nazi radio.

Got Passport In 1929

Government records show that Miss Gillars got a passport to go to Paris in 1929, and that she was given permission to proceed to Germany in 1934. Although details of the German marriage were not immediately made public, the Government does charge that "Axis Sally" began her work for the Reich Broadcasting Corp. in 1940.

On the strength of the claim that his client had become a German national, Attorney Holzworth petitioned for a writ of habeas corpus.

Red Teacher Hires Lawyer; To Sell Story

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina got a personal lawyer today and he promptly announced one of his first jobs—deciding to whom she will sell the story of her life.

The Russian schoolteacher who jumped from a third-story window of the Russian Consulate August 12 will be represented by Archie O. Dawson, former commissioner under the State Moreland Act for special investigations.

Dawson said several newspaper syndicates had made Mrs. Kasenkina offers for the story of her life and considering the offers would be among his first duties as her lawyer.

Meanwhile Jacob M. Lomakin, Soviet consul general, whose recall was demanded by the United States, said today he was "not sure" he would sail for home Saturday.

Lomakin had been scheduled to sail aboard the liner Stockholm Saturday. The consulate here is being closed on orders from Moscow.

After Lomakin expressed doubt that he would sail he was asked if he would sit down and talk with reporters.

"Maybe in two weeks," he replied.

Dawson, whose 1943 investigation of State mental institutions led to a shakeup in their administration, was named by the legal aid society to represent Mrs. Kasenkina.

In Washington, a State Department official said that if Lomakin decides not to leave Saturday, as originally he planned to do, there is no reason why he should not remain longer—so long as he does not function as Consul General.

The Soviet Embassy was served formal notice late today that President Truman has revoked Lomakin's credentials.

Pepper Is Heard By Postal Clerks

Special Dispatch to Washington Post

Miami, Fla., Aug. 27.—More than 1600 officers and delegates of the convention of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks heard an address by Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) here tonight.

Chairman William Langer of the Senate Postoffice Committee was cheered during the morning session when he pledged his support to further salary increases and liberalization of Federal retirement laws.

Chambers Tells of Farm Deal Forging 1936 Link With Hiss to the House Committee on Un-American Activities that he is or ever was a Communist, and has denied that he ever knew Chambers by that name, or by Chambers' admitted party name of "Carl." Hiss has testified to knowing Chambers as "George Crosley" who represented himself as a free-lance writer, and for whom he did a number of favors until deciding the man was a fourflusher.

Chambers arrived with Representative Nixon at the committee hearing room in the old House Office Building about 6:15 p. m. With Chambers was his black-haired, 12-year-old son, John. The boy sat to one side while Chambers stood with Nixon and Chief Committee Investigator Robert E. Stripling for pictures. Then they went into the hearing room.

Shortly before 8 p. m. Mundt came out and told reporters that Chambers had recalled he had visited the farm with Hiss and was struck with the location. "He knew that Hiss had made a down payment, and knew that later the deal fell through," said Mundt. "When it came to buying a place he recognized it as one he had visited with Hiss.

"There are several points of significance in the testimony," said Mundt. "First, it establishes another point of relationship and contact between Hiss and Chambers. Second, it establishes that Chambers was walking in Chambers' shoes and was known in the non-Communist world by the name of Chambers at that time. (In answer to a question, Mundt said Chambers insisted he was never known to Hiss by the name of Chambers, but only by the party name of Carl. Hiss has testified he knew Chambers only as George Crosley, a name Chambers says he never used.) Third, incidents like this, and there have been others, give strong justification for public hearings on cases of public importance."

"We hope other people will come forward to say they knew Hiss or Chambers or Crosley at that time," Mundt said. He added that Chambers said the trip to the farm was made in Hiss' car but had not said which car—two Hiss automobiles have figured in earlier sessions—was used for the trip. Mundt said he did not know if Hiss would be called to testify about the farm.

The Maryland farm transactions involving the two men at separate times sent an investigator for the House committee to Westminster on a hurried assignment to verify and check on the details. The transactions were recalled by two Westminster men, Edward W. [illegible] real estate agent, and Calvin [illegible], antique dealer, and their reports first published by the Baltimore News-Post.

Case, from letters and other records in his possession, recalled that Hiss and Chambers—whom he never saw together, and never connected until the House investigation—showed interest in the farm that overlapped in time. His records showed that Mrs. Alger Hiss wrote to inquire about the farm that Case had advertised in a Baltimore paper, and that her letter was dated November 5, 1935.

On Feb. 3 1936, "J. W. Chambers" wrote Case to ask if the latter had for sale a small farm at a price between $600 and $750. Case said the inquiry read as if it were aimed directly at the farm in which the Hiss letter had shown interest. Some time around then Hiss came to inspect the farm, and other properties. Hiss paid $20 down for what was known as the Shaw property. On April 13, 1936, Hiss signed a contract to buy the place and paid another $100 down. About that time, death of the owner left a question about the title, and Hiss in May withdrew from the purchase. Case said he believed all or part of the down payment was returned to Hiss.

Early in the next year, Feb. 27, 1937, Chambers wrote Case he was coming to look at some property. On March 12, 1937, Chambers came to Westminster and was taken by Zepp and Case to see the Shaw property. Chambers put $40 down on it, and later completed the purchase, and his wife and two children moved in.

Zepp recalled that he had tried to get Hiss to sell him some antique furniture that was in the farm house, and that Hiss appeared perfectly willing to sell the stuff, including a dropleaf cherry table. He recalled that the Chambers family was interested in keeping what was already in the house, and in buying more, and they became very good customers of Zepp.

Zepp said Mrs. Chambers and the two children had lived alone in the house much of the time, but that Chambers came for visits. Usually, said Zepp, Chambers would spend the night in the hotel, and Zepp would drive him out frequently in the day time to the end of the paved road, from where Chambers would hike to his property. Zepp said he always knew Chambers as Jay Chambers, and that the hotel register had showed Jay David Whittaker Chambers. In the House hearing last Wednesday, Chambers identified himself as J. David Whittaker Chambers.

Case said "so far as I know neither Hiss nor Chambers ever showed any sign of knowing each other at that time or any other time in my presence." Both he and Zepp said they never saw Hiss and Chambers together. Investigator Stripling said Chambers had declared that to the best of his knowledge Hiss had not known of Chambers' eventual purchase of the farm that Hiss had earlier started to buy.

Mundt announced that before the Chambers hearing, the full committee in executive session had approved its interim report on developments in the recent hearings, including the espionage probe, and the Hiss-Chambers contest. It is to be released today.

A full transcript of the Hiss-Chambers hearings up to the latest interview reached the office of District Attorney George Morris Fay yesterday. Fay said he would have no comment pending thorough study of the lengthy testimony. With Hiss and Chambers calling each other "liar," Committee Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) has said one or the other would face perjury charges.

In another development, five Washington men testified in a closed morning session about the sale in 1936 of Hiss' 1929 Ford.

The Chambers' now live in another house in Bachman's Valley. Ellen, their 15-year-old daughter, starts the tenth grade at Westminster high school next month. John, her younger brother, has been a pupil at Charles Carroll grade school.

County records show several tracts in Bachman's Valley have been sold in recent years to Esther and J. W., J. D. W. or Jay David Whittaker Chambers. Ellen's registration blanks at school are signed "David Chambers" and "Whittaker Chambers."

The News-Post said it could find no one who remembered for certain ever seeing Hiss and Chambers together.

Chambers had testified Hiss wanted to give the car to a needy Communist Party organizer, and persuaded underground party leaders to let him do it. Hiss testified to a recollection of disposing of the car by turning it over to "Crosley" and did not recall the transaction which, in July, 1936, assigned the car to the Cherner Motor Co., and then to a William Rosen.

Three of the witnesses in 1936 had been associated with the Cherner Motor Co., two of them brothers of that firm's president, Joseph Cherner, and the third the used car manager for the firm at that time. The three: Leon and Henry Cherner, then salesmen for Cherner, and Floyd R. Brewer, then used car manager, and now in the separate Cherner-Brewer Auto Sales Co., set up about three years ago.

Others questioned were brothers Samuel and Robert Bialek, sons of Benjamin Bialek, who lived in 1936 at the Washington address given by William Rosen on the document transferring title to the Hiss car.

Committee Member John McDowell (R., Pa.) said handwriting specimens were taken from all the men, but that the committee "got practically nothing" from the witnesses. He said all denied having any connection past or present with the Communist Party.

Others Participating

Taking part in last night's radio quiz of Chambers along with Fol-liard were Lawrence Spivak, editor of the American Mercury which sponsors the program, James Reston, of the New York Times, who was moderator; Tom Reynolds of the Chicago Sun Times and Nat Finney of the Minneapolis Star Tribune. All are Washington correspondents for their papers.

At one point Chambers was asked whether Hiss was still a member of the Communist Party. "I would not presume to say," said Chambers. He was asked whether Hiss ever did anything treasonable or disloyal to the United States. He replied, "I am not prepared to say. I am not familiar with the laws of treason."

"I am only prepared to say he was a Communist," Chambers replied to another question. At one point, Chambers stated that Hiss and others like him were not members of a spy ring, that the Communist technique in this case was to infiltrate the United States Government with Communist Party members.

Doesn't Recall "Crosley"

Chambers was asked how many names he had used and if they ever included "George Crosley." He said he used a dozen names, but did not recall ever using the name Crosley.

Chambers said he broke with the Communist Party because he considered that communism had proved itself a failure. He said when he left the party he thought the Communists would win out, but does not think so now.

"Why?" he was asked.

"The Russian attitude," he replied, "communism has even been a failure in Russia."

Chambers was unsmiling and unruffled as he answered his questioners with deadpan deliberation.

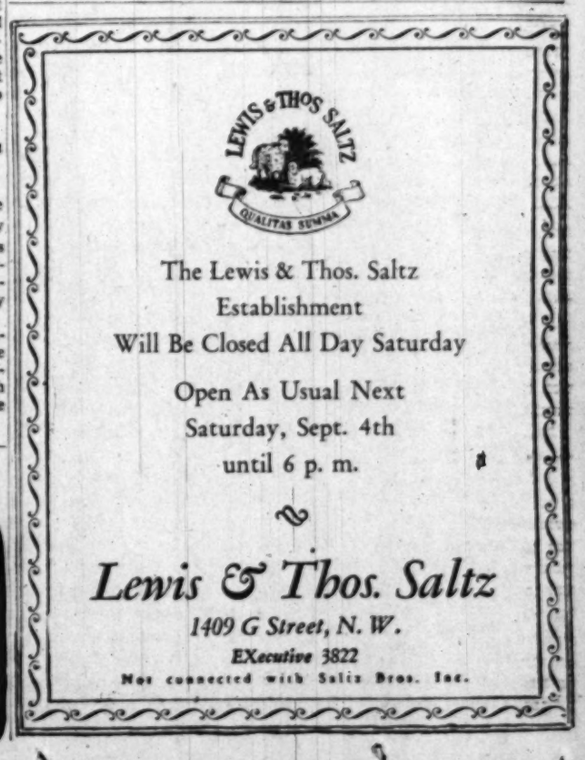
He said that when he broke with the Communist Party the break was complete, and that he has since turned to religion. He is now a Quaker.

He was asked whether in a court proceeding he would be prepared to prove that Hiss was a Communist. He said he hoped he would be able to, but did not believe that documentary evidence exists to make such a proof.

Special Grand Jury Which Indicted Reds to Resume

New York, Aug. 27 (U.P.).—The special grand jury which recently indicted 12 top Communist leaders on charges of conspiring to overthrow the United State Government by force was notified today to reconvene September 14.

Special Assistant Attorney General Thomas Donegan said the grand jury will consider more evidence, the presentation of which will occupy the remainder of the month.



Capital Transit July Loss Laid To Wage Boost

By S. Oliver Goodman

Capital Transit Co. went $25,197 in the red last month and blamed the deficit "largely to the wage increase effective July 1."

The July report, filed yesterday with the Public Utilities Commission, showed a 9.1 per cent decline in revenue passengers and a 5.6 per cent decrease in operating revenues. Passengers numbered 28,519,885 for the month, a drop of 2,858,575. Gross revenues totaled $2,208,374, off $130,502.

On the other hand, operating expenses of $1,894,391 were 4.5 per cent heavier than in the same 1947 month in the face of a 15.5 per cent reduction in streetcar miles operated and a 8.2 per cent decline in bus miles.

Despite the July deficit, Capital Transit showed a net income of $351,416 for the first seven months this year, a gain of $164,510 over the same period last year. Operating revenues were up 0.6 per cent, while operating expenses were down 0.4 per cent.

The Public Utilities Commission at present is weighing the company's application for a fare increase from the present 10-cent ride to a proposed 15-cent or two rides for 25 cents.

SIMPLER WAY: Advisers to the Bureau of Internal Revenue recommend a new simplified income tax form. To explain the easier way of paying taxes, they suggested increasing the instruction sheet to 16 pages from the present four.

HELPFUL HINTS: Top brass at the Pentagon will start tearing its hair and yelling for censorship if information like this continues to be published: Deliveries of aircraft to the armed services didn't vary a great deal in April, May and June. In number of planes, that is. But in terms of airframe weight, the quantity doubled from April to June. This intelligence, points out the magazine Business Week, is contained in a regular Facts for Industry report prepared by the Bureau of Census. There isn't even a footnote to the Kremlin, saying: "Make of this what you like."

NEW ISSUE LISTED: Following SEC registration, the new issue of $700,000 Terminal Refrigerating & Warehousing Corp. bonds was admitted to trading yesterday on the Washington Stock Exchange. The 10-year first sinking fund mortgage bonds bear 4 per cent interest and replace a similar matured issue which was refunded on April 1 this year. Initial bid was 102 and asked price was 104. The bonds were originally offered at 100. The Washington company dates to 1870, has two large plants in this city and is the parent company of Consolidated Terminal Corp.

STILL AT BOOM RATE: July building and construction awards in 37 States east of the Rockies approached the billion-dollar mark, F. W. Dodge Corp. reported. The total of $962,685,000 lifted the aggregate for the first seven months of 1948 to a level 38 per cent higher than for the similar period a year ago. For July alone the increase over the 1947 month was 46 per cent. The Dodge Corp., fact-finding organization for the construction industry, said nonresidential awards in July were 56 per cent ahead of the 1947 month, residential volume was up 45 per cent and heavy engineering works up 31 per cent.

EXTRA DIVIDEND: Directors of Mergenthaler Linotype Co. ordered a dividend of 75 cents a share and an extra of $1.25 on the capital stock, both payable September 28 to stock of record September 10. This brings the total for the fiscal year ended September 30 to $4.25 against $3.75 in the previous year. The issue is traded on the Washington Stock Exchange.

BOND OFERING: A banking group headed by Phelps, Fenn & Co. and including Ferris & Co. of Washington is reoffering part of a $5,250,000 Alexandria, Va., public improvement bond issue. The bonds, due September 1, 1950-69, are priced to yield from 1.20 to 2.85 per cent, according to maturity. The rest of the issue, due 1970 to 1984, is not being offered at this time. The banking group was awarded the securities on a bid of 100.18 for a combination of 4s and 2¾s, a net interest cost of 2.9307 per cent.

SLACKENING: Incorporation of 7690 new businesses during July was the smallest monthly total since November, 1945, Dun & Bradstreet reported. It compared with 8550 in June and 9041 in July, 1947. For the first seven months of 1948 the total of new stock company formations was 61,928, a decline of 10.1 per cent from 68,414 in the same period a year ago.

EARNINGS: Western Maryland Railroad reported net income of $553,160 in July and $3,313,887 for the first seven months, compared with $2,837,632 in the first seven months last year. Other earnings reports:

Newsprint Use Up 11.6%

The Commerce Department reported yesterday that newsprint consumption the first half of this year totaled 2,559,000 tons. This was an increase of 11.6 per cent over the corresponding period in 1947.

Hughes Dies at 86 Of Heart Ailment

New York State, six years as Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, a candidate for President of United States (he reportedly lost the Presidency by the failure of a handshake), Secretary of State for four years, Justice of the Court for International Justice (World Court) for one year, and Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court for 11 years beginning with his appointment to the post by President Hoover in 1930.

And through both of those successive lives ran the enigma of a man who was known by his family and small circle of intimate friends as a funmaker, but was considered an "unapproachable" by business acquaintances, casual friends and the public at large.

Mien Discouraged Frivolity

Bearded, dignified and stately in actions and in appearance, his mien was such to discourage frivolity. That, with a natural reluctance to break the ice between acquaintanceship and friendship, cost him the pleasure of being a hale fellow well met, intimates said.

Because he lived in Washington the greater part of his second life, many here knew of his innate wit and humor. He was sought as a raconteur of brilliance and charm and he and Mrs. Hughes were so sought after as dinner guests that they were occasionally invited more than a year in advance of the festivity.

During his tenure as Secretary of State under Presidents Harding and Coolidge, at the beginning of a busy social season, he told William Phillips, his Undersecretary of State, that he and his wife were prepared to "do and dine for our country."

Learned to Write at 3

The first Mr. Hughes was born April 11, 1862, at Glens Falls, N. Y., in the region made famous by James Fenimore Cooper's "Leather Stocking Tales." Precocious son of a Baptist minister, he learned to write when he was 3 years old.

While lads his age were playing "shinny" and other outdoor games as active, young Hughes was amusing himself with reading Shakespeare and trying his hand at translating the Bible into Greek. At 13, he entered Hamilton College, switching three years later to Brown University from which he graduated third in his class in 1881. He returned there in June, 1941, to attend his class' sixtieth reunion.

College graduate Hughes, still in that first life of his, taught Greek, French and mathematics at Delaware Academy, Delhi, N. Y., studying in his spare time that he might enter Columbia University Law School.

He did enter Columbia, and he graduated as head of his class, aloof from those who knew him save for that close circle of friends who had broken through his barrier of outward reserve. He began general law practice upon his admittance to the bar in 1884.

Married Antoinette Carter

Four years later Lawyer Hughes married Antoinette Carter, daughter of the senior member of the law firm to which he had been admitted. The jealous people who attributed his success to marrying the boss' daughter were met by stout assertions of those who knew Hughes well that he waited until he made a success of law before he asked her hand in marriage.

Step by step, Mr. Hughes built up his reputation as a good lawyer and an honest lawyer. And it was in this capacity that he was chosen at the turn of the century to investigate for the New York Legislature reports of corruption in the business of lighting New York City's streets. He reportedly saved the city some $800,000 by exposing a tie-in between politicians and the public utility.

Adept handling of that investigation won for Mr. Hughes the appointment as counsel to the Armstrong Investigating Committee of New York's State Legislature, and his subsequent expose in 1905 of similar graft and corruption in the insurance field brought him national attention and projected him into that second life, the one of national prominence.

Whiskers Aid Identity

By then, Mr. Hughes was firmly identified by his famous whiskers which he started to cultivate at the age of 28. At first unruly and of a reddish brown texture, they gave way through the years both in color and in clip.

Perhaps the first public attention to the change in contour of Mr. Hughes' whiskers came with the startled comment of Alfred E. Smith to the then Governor Hughes:

"Why, Governor, you bobbed it!"

Previous to that the facial hair had drawn the attention of William Randolph Hearst, who ran unsuccessfully against Hughes for the governorship. Hearst used those whiskers to point up his general characterization of the man he was opposing as "an animated feather duster."

It was in the first year of his second life that Attorney Hughes was nominated and elected Governor of New York. A Republican, he was nominated by the Republican Party whose organization he all but wrecked in exposing practices of bribery in public utility and insurance businesses.

Hughes was the only major candidate of the party in that State election to win office.

Perhaps a less known fact is that in the midst of his investigations of the insurance corruption, the party nominated him against his expressed wishes to run for Mayor of New York City, and then adjourned in the hopes he would accept that nomination—and perhaps withdraw from his investigations.

He gave party leaders a flat no when they told him it was his duty to accept, but he listened to their arguments that Saturday until 2 o'clock Sunday morning. On Monday he announced to the newspapers his refusal to run for the mayoralty.

As Governor of New York, he earned the more than whispered sobriquet of "Charles, the Baptist" from the disgruntled sportsmen when he secured a law to enforce the constitutional law then on the books against race-track gambling in New York State. He also won the enmity of disgruntled politicians when he refused to appoint their unqualified friends to appointive offices.

Elected to Second Term

Governor Hughes was elected to a second term as State head. And during those two terms he secured legislation setting up a commission regulation for utility rates, reforms in insurance company regulations and passage of a child labor law and a Workmen's Compensation Act.

Stepping down from his gubernatorial post in 1910, Mr. Hughes accepted the appointment of President Taft as associate Supreme Court justice. He served here for six years, during which he voted 51 times with the liberals (a basis for later criticism that more than his whiskers were "red") and 10 times with the conservatives (a basis for later criticism labeling him a "conservative.")

As an associate justice, some of his most significant decisions concerned right of Federal and State governments to regulate industry, railroads and utilities, his upholding of State statutes forbidding employment of children under 16 or of women for more than an eight-hour day or 48-hour week.

1916 Campaign Against Wilson

Associate Justice Hughes left the United States Supreme Court in 1916 to stump the country as a presidential candidate against Woodrow Wilson, and lost by the narrow margin of California's electoral votes, even after the election had been virtually conceded to him.

A missed handshake cost him the highest post in the country.

In his Nation-wide tour for votes, Republican Candidate Hughes toured California for its support. One night during that tour he stopped at a hotel at Long Beach, where the late California Senator Hiram Johnson was also stopping.

Johnson knew of Mr. Hughes' arrival, and waited for the candidate to come up and shake hands. Hughes did not know Johnson, the leader of the State's Progressive Republicans, was there.

Upshot of the incident was that Johnson, in firm belief he and his followers were being ignored, did not campaign earnestly for this man who was seeking the votes of both Progressive and Old Guard Republicans. Mr. Hughes lost the Presidency by the margin of California's electoral votes; he had lost that State by 3777 votes.

Tale of Time Denied

It is generally reported that Candidate Hughes went to bed about midnight of Election Day convinced he had won the Presidency, and woke up the next morning disillusioned. Intimate friends point to two fallacies in that tale.

First, said they, the man was by nature a man who never counted points as gained until all the chips were in. Secondly, they pointed out, it wasn't until three days after the election that the winner was decided.

Mr. Hughes, in losing, did not appear as he was characterized in campaign, torch-light parade songs of the day, one of which went:

"Wilson's at the front door, talking to a lady.
"Hughes is at the back door, crying like a baby."

The defeated presidential candidate reentered law practice, the most publicized member of the law firm of Hughes, Rounds, Schurman & Dwight. In this capacity, he handled many cases for wealthy clients, powerful public utilities, and large business concerns. All this became fuel later for opposition to his appointment as Chief Justice.

Named Secretary of State

President Harding appointed Hughes as Secretary of State in 1921, but the "people's mandate" in electing Harding cost his Secretary of State frustration of a burning ambition to effect a modified version of former President Wilson's aims for United States participation in membership of the League of Nations.

The United States role that Hughes had publicly indorsed was scrapped by him as Secretary of State in his conviction that Hardin was elected by the people because of his platform against participation in the League.

But Secretary Hughes was not a do-nothing in the Nation's highest diplomatic post. He achieved an outstanding diplomatic stroke by proposing to the Washington Disarmament Conference a 10-year naval building holiday and, by steady pressure, having the central features of his program incorporated in the conference pact.

He steadfastly refused to deal with the Communist regime in the USSR, contending no recognition should be given as long as Russia failed to fulfill international obligations, including the huge financial debt to the United States.

Aided Latin American Relations

Secretary of State Hughes also was credited with breaking down some of the hostilities which then existed between the South American republics and the United States by liquidating much of the imperialistic policies in existence then.

The Secretary of State was supplanted in that post by Calvin Coolidge's appointment of Frank B. Kellogg in President Coolidge's start of his first full term. Later, Mr. Hughes was appointed to serve in the World Court, and, in 1930, as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

When President Hoover sent Mr. Hughes' name to the Senate for confirmation as Chief Justice a bipartisan bloc of Senators opposed that confirmation, and it was only after heated debate that he became Chief Justice with 26 Senators in vigorous opposition.

Later, one writer rationalized the two extremes by explaining that as a lawyer Justice Hughes was retained by powerful clients while as a judge he was retained by the American people.

Code for Public Servant

Justice Hughes, himself, once told a newsman:

"A public officer always has to remind himself and he ought to say to himself every morning as he approaches his task, 'I am a servant and it is my business to see what I can do for the American people. I am not a boss, and my little authority or my great authority that I happen to have for a day is not a personal perquisite.'"

Early in his first life the health of the man who was one day to become Chief Justice was seriously imperiled. In a series of summer trips to Europe, he took Alpine climbs which he credited with restoring his vigor. But any frailty was not apparent in the rigid daily schedule of work he maintained throughout his career.

Blessed with a pair of almost photographic, steel-blue eyes, an uncanny sense of scanning and a prodigious memory, he could dictate a speech or a decision, quickly scan the typewritten product and repeat it on occasion without reference to typed page. Reporters who followed advance copies said he seldom missed a single phrasing.

And on those occasions when he swerved from the speech or decision to interpolate remarks, he had the ability to pinpoint in his mind the point of deviation and come back to it and proceed as scheduled.

He sometimes interrupted attorneys at the bar to sum up in terse phrases the nub of their arguments. Occasionally, when an attorney fumbled for a page reference to his point, Chief Justice Hughes pointed out in judicious voice the page reference and position of the material on the page.

During the tense early days of the New Deal he determinedly took the position that the Supreme Court's function was not to decide the wisdom of the extraordinary legislation proposed but only to judge whether it was in conflict with the Constitution.

When the Court, by unanimous vote, invalidated the National Recovery Act, he said: "It is not the province of the Court to consider the economic advantages or disadvantages of such a centralized system; it is sufficient to say the Federal Constitution does not provide for it."

In another case, that of the Railroad Retirement Act, Chief Justice Hughes dissented in the Court's verdict, calling it unconstitutional.

On that occasion he declared: "The gravest aspect of the decision is denying Congress the power to pass any (not just this particular) compulsory pension act for railway employes."

On cases involving civil liberties, Hughes' court opinions were entirely liberal. He made judicial history by his decision upholding the National Labor Relations Act, and later voted to uphold social security legislation, the second Agricultural Administration Act, and the second Guffey coal law.

Justice Hughes believed the function of the Supreme Court to be "to maintain the balance" between State and national power—"local Government over local concerns . . . national authority over national concerns."

Opposed Roosevelt Court Plan

He vigorously fought President Roosevelt's "court-packing" proposal, and his famous letter to the Senate Judiciary Committee studying the President's proposed act to replace justices over 70 years of age is largely credited with killing the measure. The letter showed indisputably that the judges, old though they were, were not behind in the work of the court and that appointment of others would only impede their progress.

Chief Justice Hughes retired in 1941 with the assertion that the responsibilities of the office were too much for his failing vigor. He lived quietly after that, seldom appearing at public functions, and dividing his time with Washington residence during spring and fall, summer residence at Cape Cod and winter times in Florida.

Shortly after the death of Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone, the retired Chief Justice did meet with President Truman to discuss appointment of the new Chief Justice. His recommendations were never made public, but perhaps his personal papers, which he assiduously collected and compiled during his retirement, will divulge the facts. The appointment went to present Chief Justice Fred Vinson.

Justice Hughes and his famous whiskers were a familiar sight in Washington, particularly along Connecticut ave., for the judge frequently took a prebreakfast walk from his home at 2223 R st. nw.

He had four children, of whom one daughter, Helen, died. Others are Charles Evans Hughes, jr., head of a New York law firm; Mrs. Gossett, wife of the legal representative for the Ford Moto Co., and Mrs. Waddell, 1941 chairman of the drive to raise $50,000 for the Polish Medical Center in Edinburgh, Scotland.

President Spends Quiet Day on Yacht In Avoiding Heat

Blakistone Island, Md., Aug. 27 (U.P.).—President Truman, winding up a nine-day vacation cruise, spent the day trying to beat the heat like everyone else.

He had no more success than most. The yacht Williamsburg is airconditioned and the President took a 15-minute dip in the Potomac River.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told newsmen by the ship phone on the accompanying ship, Wanderer, that the presidential party had one of the quietest days since the cruise started a week ago. The President, for example, took a nap this afternoon.

The yacht anchored off this tiny island at 4 p. m. It will lay over until Sunday morning, when it will head for Washington. The President and his party are expected to reach the White House about 4 p. m.

Russia Reported Asking $10 Billions To End Blockade

Radio Commentator Felix Morley said last night that Russian Premier Josef Stalin has offered to raise the Berlin blockade for the payment of 10 billion dollars' worth of goods which could be merged into the European Recovery Program.

Morley said on his broadcast that his information came from "unimpeachable high diplomatic sources."

"The greateest need of Russia and its satellites at present is manufactured goods of every kind," he said. "The Soviet government undoubtedly would make some concessions if she could get the supply under extension of ERP."

Catholics Expand Veteran Program

Less than eight months ago, the National Catholic Community Service of Washington announced that it would continue the work with servicemen as it had done under the USO.

Since then, the group has expanded its program and has provided recreation for more than 7000 hospitalized veterans in local military hospitals, Miss Isabel A. Powell, executive secretary, recently announced.

The National Catholic Community Service was authorized by the Catholic bishops of the United States in 1940. During the war it worked with the National Jewish Welfare Board, the Young Men's Christian Association and Travelers Aid as a part of the USO.

Last December the USO was disbanded and since then each of the groups has continued its work independently.

In January of this year, the area office of NCCS was set up at St. Matthew's Cathedral Club, 1814 N st. nw.

Miss Powell pointed out at the time the local office was established, 36 hospital workers who had served with the USO were available for NCCS. Today, she said, there are more than 125.

Parties and programs at the hospitals are organized by Red Cross workers or the office of special services. Working through Catholic chaplains, NCCS provides the trained volunteer workers for these special events from local Catholic organizations.

These volunteers are usually young girls, often Government workers, who belong to local Catholic clubs. Each of them is interviewed by Miss Powell, and given special instructions before beginning the hospital work. The entire membership of a club sometimes joins in hospital work, Miss Powell said.

The hospital program has been a varied one, Miss Powell explained. At Walter Reed, NCCS workers have participated in some 28 parties in the neuro-psychiatric ward. To these men, the young women from NCCS and other groups are their only contact with the "outside" world.

In addition, there were bridge classes in the orthopedic ward, post dances at Forts Belvoir and Myer, and variety shows at Forest Glen, Walter Reed and the Marine Hospital at Quantico.

Housing for visiting families of hospitalized men has been secured by the local office, and transportation provided for amputees, Miss Powell pointed out.

Plans for an intensified fall program are now being made by NCCS officials and workers, Miss Powell said.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING of the new Calvary Lutheran Church, 9900 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, Md., for which ground will be broken at 4 p. m. Sunday

Ground to Be Broken Sunday For Calvary Lutheran Chapel

Ground for the chapel of Calvary Lutheran Church, Silver Spring, will be broken at 4 p. m. Sunday at the church site, 9900 Georgia ave.

The Rev. George W. Hoyer, pastor of the congregation, will officiate at the ceremonies, and ground will be broken by W. Charles Heitmuller, a member of the church.

The new $60,000 chapel is the first unit in a proposed building program which will eventually include a church and educational building. Construction is expected to begin by September 1.

Organized in 1941, the church originally met in a store in Silver Spring and had a membership of about 30.

As the membership grew, the Calvary congregation outgrew the space in the store, and last Christmas it moved to Montgomery Hills Junior High School, 2d ave. and Seminary rd. Today there are 70 adult members and a Sunday school of more than 100.

Members of the church hope to hold worship services in their new chapel by the first of the year.

Since its organization, the church has had two pastors. The Rev. Carl A. Koerber led the congregation until late in 1946. Mr Hoyer has been pastor since April, 1947.

Calvary is a member of the southeastern district of the Missouri Synod, Lutheran Church.

Former Navy Worker to Be Ordained

A 37-year-old former Navy Yard electrician will be ordained to the ministry at 8 p. m. Sunday at the First Christian Church, Raymond and DeWitt aves., Alexandria.

Richardson

He is Paul D. Richardson, third member of the church to be ordained within the past four months.

Born in Searbro, W. Va., Richardson went to school in Huntington, W. Va., before coming to Washington early in the '30s. He worked as an apprentice electrician at the Navy Yard and continued his high school education at night classes at Hine Junior High School.

Attended Columbia College

After his graduation from high school, Richardson completed a year's work at Columbia College of Christian Education here. It was at this time, and through the inspiration of the late Rev. Ralph W. Frame of the Alexandria church, that he decided to enter the Chrictian ministry.

During this period he preached regularly at the Maryland Park Christian Church, Hyattsville.

After completing more than a year's night work at George Washington University, Richardson resighed his job as electrician and shop planner at the Navy Yard to enter Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky.

He received his A. B. from Transylvania in 1945, and a B. D. from the College of the Bible, also in Lexington, in June. During his college career, he preached alternate weeks at churches in Ewing and Bedford, Ky.

To Be Bedford Pastor

In September, Richardson will become minister of the Bedford Church. He is married and has three children.

The ordination sermon Sunday will be preached by the Rev. J. Lloyd Black, pastor of Ninth Street Christian Church. Others who will participate in the ceremony are The Rev. J. William Lineback, work director of Disciples of Christ Churches in the Washington area, the Rev. Henry Campbell of Luray, and the Rev. Wilbur S. Hogevoll, pastor of the Alexandria church.

Annual St. Andrew's Services Sunday

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 27 (Spl.)—The second of four annual services at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, 4 miles south of here, will be held at 4 p. m. Sunday. George Washington is said to have dedicated the flagstones for the floor of the church, which was erected in 1766.

Dr. Clemens to Preach

The Rev. Norman W. Clemens, minister of the First Methodist Church, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., will preach at Foundry Methodist Church, 16th and P sts. nw., at 11 a. m. Sunday. He recently served as a delegate to the jurisdictional and general conferences of the Methodist Church.

In D. C. Farewell

O'Daniel Sees Socialist Or Red U. S.

By The Associated Press

Senator O'Daniel (D., Tex.) said yesterday in a farewell-to-Washington statement that one of the reasons behind his decision not to seek another term is that he "can see slight hope of saving nor Nation from going entirely socialistic or communistic."

"There are less than a dozen men in the United States Senate," he added, "who consistently vote to maintain the American form of government willed to us by our forefathers. This was the form of government we had until 1932. The only way, as I see it, to prevent our Government going the way of all great nations of the past is for the people to conduct a thorough housecleaning in Washington."

O'Daniel announced last May that he would not be a candidate for reelection.

Stevenson, Johnson Swap Final Thrusts

Austin, Tex., Aug. 27 (AP).—Former Gov. Coke Stevenson and Representative Lyndon Johnson swapped final thrusts tonight in their duel for the vacated Senate seat of W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel.

Saturday, in the Democratic runoff election, Texas will choose between the wartime Governor and the 40-year-old Congressman who emerged as the two top men among nine candidates in the July 24 primary. Three congressional contests also will be decided.

Stevenson received 39.68 per cent of the approximately 1,200,000 votes cast in July, Johnson 33.75 per cent. The runoff was made necessary because no candidate had a clear majority.

Both Charge Mud-Slinging

Both candidates accused each other of mud-slinging in the heated second campaign, in which both proclaimed the Russian war threat a major issue. Stevenson said Johnson resorted to "frantic mud-slinging." Johnson called Stevenson "the granddaddy of all mud slingers."

Labor was another issue. The Texas AFL indorsed Stevenson, but both disclaimed CIO support. Johnson who voted for the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, accused Stevenson of not taking a clear stand on the measure. Stevenson said Johnson carried counties in which the CIO vote was predominant in the July election.

Equally as bitter as the Stevenson-Johnson fight was the Fifteenth District contest between Lloyd M. Bentsen, jr., of McAllen and Philip A. Kazen of Laredo for the seat left open by the retirement of the Veteran Representative Milton West. The district is in the lower Rio Grande Valley, where there is a heavy Latin-American vote.

Arrested on Noise Charge

Kazen, 40-year-old Spanish-speaking lawyer, was arrested several days ago while speaking at Port Isabel, on a charge of violating an anti-noise ordinance with his loudspeaker. Two days later, Kazen sued arresting officers for $10,000 damages, charging infringement of the right of free speech.

Bentsen is a member of a prominent valley family with large real estate interests.

The race in the Seventh District in East Texas was a renewal of a political feud between Representative Tom Pickett of Palestine and former Representative "Cousin" Nat Patton of Crockett. Pickett unseated Patton four years ago.

The third contest was in the Tenth District, where Homer Thornberry of Austin, former State representative, and Kelley McClain of Georgetown, a former district attorney, are the contenders.

By The Associated Press

President Truman's political associates reported yesterday he would invade the "border" State of Oklahoma during what was described as an unprecedented election campaign tour of the Nation starting Labor Day.

Gov. Roy J. Turner of Oklahoma, head of the National Truman-Barkley Club, told a news conference that tentative plans call for Mr. Truman to appear in several cities in Oklahoma some time between September 27 and October 3. The trip may cover two days. A State fair will be running there September 28.

Oklahoma has been a fighting political area in recent years, although the last time it went Republican in a presidential election was in 1928. Then, it gave Herbert Hoover 394,046 votes to 219,174 for the late Alfred E. Smith. The latter made one of his early campaign speeches in Oklahoma City.

Before Turner called in newsmen, word came from the President's party aboard the yacht Williamsburg that Mr. Truman plans to visit more States than any candidate in history.

The swing will embrace the Deep South, where Democrats are in open rebellion against the President's election, and every other section of the country.

Chairman J. Howard McGrath of the Democratic National Committee announced that Mr. Truman's Detroit address on Labor Day will be heard over a national NBC hookup between 12:30 and 1 p. m., Eastern standard time.

The AFL and CIO will be in charge of the big Truman rally in Cadillac Square, but McGrath said the Truman-Barkley clubs of Michigan will pay for the radio time. He added that Labor Day rallies throughout the country will hear the President's address.

Governor Turner said plans are afoot to set up regional "mother clubs" and State clubs in every State.

Welburn Mayock, Los Angeles, treasurer of the National Club, said the National Club hopes to raise three million dollars, the limit allowed by the Hatch Act, to help elect Mr. Truman. State clubs can raise additional funds since they do not come under the Hatch Act, he said.

Incidentally, Mayock, a former officer of the Democratic National Committee, termed the Hatch Act "thoroughly undemocratic" and said he believed both parties would like to see it repealed. Loopholes were put in it "consciously," he declared.

Virginia GOP To Greet Scott At Rally Today

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 27 (AP).—Representative Hugh D. Scott, jr., chairman of the Republican National Committee, will be welcomed back to his home town Saturday at a State-wide GOP political rally expected to be attended by thousands in this traditionally Democratic city.

A parade of over 100 decorated automobiles, bearing party members and leaders, will touch off festivities at 4:30 p. m.

Republicans will come from throughout the State—some by police-escorted motorcades—and ranking party members will be on hand to deliver speeches at a public reception. Approximately 500 persons are expected to attend a buffet style dinner at the Fredericksburg Country Club at 6:30 p. m.

State GOP Chairman Robert H. Woods, congressional candidates and Mayor Josiah P. Rowe, jr., will speak at a reception at 8:30 p. m.

Among Fredericksburgers who will be present to greet the Pennsylvania Representative will be his father, president of the National Bank of Fredericksburg, and his stepmother. Gov. Earl Warren of California, GOP candidate for Vice President, has wired that he will be unable to attend.

Also to be present will be officials connected with two Virginia institutions from which Representative Scott received his A. B. and law degrees. They are Dr. T. McNider Simpson, dean of Randolph-Macon College, and former Gov. Colgate W. Darden, jr., president of the University of Virginia.

Woods, who also is Republican candidate for the United States Senate, will make the principal speech of welcome, and shorter talks will be made by:

Stanley D. Adams of Colonial Beach, First District candidate for Congress; Walter E. Hoffman of Norfolk; Richard C. Poage of Richmond; Stephen D. Timberlake, jr., of Staunton; and Tyrrell Krum of Vienna, candidates for Congress from their respective districts.

Elliott E. Brooks of Fredericksburg is general chairman of the homecoming event. Assisting him are Mrs. Dorothy V. M. Powell and Nile Straughan.

Also on the general committee are Walter Johnson, First District; Curtis M. Dozer, Third District; William C. Deming, Seventh District; Carl A. Marshall, Eighth District; Roby C. Thompson, Ninth District; Mrs. Emily H. Logan of Woodstock and Miss Phyllis A. Otey of Richmond.

GOP Caused Depression, Tobin Says

Boston, Mass., Aug. 27 (U.P.).—Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin said tonight the Republicans brought on "the world's worst depression by 13 years of open shop, wage-cutting, union-busting and economic do-nothing-ism."

In his first public address since becoming a Cabinet member a few weeks ago, Tobin said the inflation problem must be solved "if prosperity and economic stability, as well as the well-being of the workers, are to be protected."

He told the annual convention of the American Federation of Radio Artists (AFL) that the failure of the Eightieth Congress to act put the burden for staving off another depression squarely up to private industry and labor.

He called on unions to cooperate with management to increase productivity, saying that was the way to improve their "standard of living."

At the same time, he said, it should be realized that "unions are this Nation's greatest insurance for prosperity."

"The American wage earner expects, and should get, a just share of the return that goes to the common effort," he said.

The facts show, he said, the workers are not getting their fair share of profits. Since price controls were abandoned, he went on, "wages of factory workers have not kept pace with prices."

Average weekly earnings have gone up 23.2 per cent since the summer of 1946 and the cost of living has gone 30.3 per cent, he added.

"Wages of some other groups of workers, particularly in the white-collar category, have lagged behind even to a greater extent," Tobin stated.

The Gallup Poll

Change in Electoral College System Favored by Majority

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Aug. 27.—Most voters of the Nation favor a change in the American system of electing Presidents.

Senator Lodge's proposal for changing the method of counting electoral votes in presidential elections has the support of nearly six out of every 10 voters polled by the Institute.

Under the present "winner-take-all" system, the candidate who receives a plurality of the votes in any State wins all its electoral votes. At the instigation of Senator Lodge, the GOP platform this year puts the party on record as favoring some kind of change.

The Lodge proposal is that the electoral votes of each State be divided among the candidates in proportion to the popular vote they receive in the State.

The trouble with the present all-or-nothing method, its critics claim, is that the system practically disfranchises minority voters, as well as resulting in a wide difference between electoral and popular vote. In some cases candidates have been elected who failed to poll a majority of the popular votes. For example, in the Cleveland-Harrison election of 1888 Cleveland got 95,000 more popular votes than Harrison, but Harrison had a large advantage in electoral votes and was inducted into office.

To test voter sentiment on the Lodge bill, the Institute asked a national cross-section of voters this question:

"Today, the presidential candidate who gets the most popular votes in a State takes all the electoral votes of that State. Do you think this should or should not be changed so that each of the candidates would receive the same proportion of electoral votes that he gets in the popular vote. This would mean, for example, that if a candidate gets two-thirds of the popular vote in a State, he would get two-thirds of the electoral votes of that State."

The answers:

In favor of changing election system	58 per cent
Opposed to changing election system	15 per cent
No opinion	27 per cent

When broken down according to the degree of education, this is the picture:

	Change	Don't change	No Opin.
College	81%	9%	10%
High school	64	19	17
Grammar School	47	12	41

What the Lodge bill would mean in an actual election can be seen by comparing the 1944 electoral college results with what would have happened had the proposed system been in effect. In that year Roosevelt, under the present method, received 432 electoral votes and Dewey only 99. If the electoral vote had been divided according to the popular in each State, Roosevelt would have received 305.5 electoral votes and Dewey, 225.5.

Pastors' Course To Open Monday

A series of refresher courses for Methodist ministers will be offered at the Westminster Pastors' School at Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md., Monday through next Friday.

The school will offer courses in three fields: the philosophy of religion, taught by Dr. Edgar S. Brightman, professor of philosophy, Boston University; the function of the imagination in the Bible, with Dr. Edwin Mims, professor emeritus of English, Vanderbilt University, and the relations between religion and public education, with Dr. Arnold Nash, head of the department of religion at the University of North Carolina.

Westminster Theological Seminary will serve as host to the school. More than 100 ministers are expected to attend.

The Rev. Norman L. Trott of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Hagerstown, is dean of the school and the Rev. S. Paul Schilling of Westminster Theological Seminary is registrar.

Heat, Strikes, Idle 30,000 Auto Workers

Detroit, Aug. 27 (U.P.).—About 30,000 auto workers were idle today because of heat walkouts, wildcat strikes, and parts shortages.

Chrysler Corp. reported that 22,000 employes were laid off, mostly because of above-90-degree temperatures in the plants. Some 1100 workers struck at the De Soto plant in protest against disciplinary action taken against 21 workers.

Another 2000 were sent home in the Plymouth plant because of a shortage of bodies brought on by a heat walkout of 3000 employes of the Briggs Manufacturing Co., a body supplier.

Packard Motor Car Co., idled 5000 workers because of the Briggs shutdown.

8 Arrested in Fights At Fairchild Plant

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—Eight persons were arrested today when back-to-work strikers and CIO pickets clashed in short-lived scuffles at the gates of the Fairchild Camera & Instrument Corp.

About 100 of the strikers, who recently formed their own independent union, returned to the plant today. U. E. pickets attempted to bar their entrance and fighting broke out.

NLRB Will Hear Univis Election Objections

National Labor Relations Board agreed yesterday to hear objections by the CIO-Electrical Workers to the recent collective bargaining election at the Univis Lens Co., Dayton, Ohio. A date for the hearing will be set later.

2 Spiders Lose

Snake Gets Free of Web, Slips Away

York Center, Ill., Aug. 27 (U.P.).—An 8-inch grass snake, locked for nearly three days in a death battle with a tiny spider, escaped an entangling web today and disappeared.

The weary snake tore free from the snaring strands although a second spider had reinforced the first.

"The snake got clean away," said Norman Lingenfelter, in whose farmhouse the jungle battle took place.

The drama began Wednesday when, apparently, the snake fell from Lingenfelter's workbench and was caught by its tail in the spider's web. Its head dangled just above the floor.

For two days the snake thrashed and hissed while the spider, no bigger than a bean, methodically wound more strands around its tail.

The snake tore loose from some of the strands today and got its head down on the floor where it could maneuver better. Another spider, larger than the first, rushed into the fray and the two began spinning feverishly. But the snake got away.

Lingenfelter said the spiders still are in their web, "looking like they're ready to pounce on anything else that comes along."

Humane society agents were reported on the way to stop the thing, he said.

Bosox Win to Boost Lead as Tribe, Yanks Split

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

LU GAMBINO manned a machine gun on a B-17 bomber in Europe and received an honorable discharge from the Army Air Force, but in the strangely astigmatic view of the Southern Conference he is not a former GI.

POVICH

Col. William Couper of Virginia Military Institute, president of the Conference, has ruled that Gambino is ineligible to play football for Maryland this season. He points to the three-year limit on varsity play, points to Gambino's record of one year at the University of Indiana and two years at Maryland, and says Gambino is through.

Maryland, too, is pointing—to the appendage to the Conference's three-year rule which states in italics: "Exceptions to this rule may be made for men who are receiving benefits of the Rehabilitation Bill or the GI Bill of Rights under Public Law 16 R 346, Seventy-eighth Congress." It is taking an appeal to the Conference's Executive Council which has the power to overrule Couper.

MARYLAND feels an obligation to Gambino, who misrepresented no facts when he entered that school in 1946. Maryland authorities assured him that under their interpretation of the eligibility rules he would be eligible to play in 1948. On that assurance, Gambino turned down an invitation to play in the College All-Star game at Chicago and rejected also a three-year contract for $45,000 from two professional clubs.

Gambino can hardly be called a tramp athlete. Right now he is digging ditches on a University construction job to earn the money to continue in summer school for needed credits. He isn't going to quit college and join the pros, even if he can't represent Maryland on the gridiron this season. He says he wants to be the first Gambino to graduate from any college.

The irony for Gambino, if he is barred, would be the fact that he would be replaced at left halfback by his understudy, Jimmy La Rue, who will be playing not his fourth but his fifth season of varsity football. La Rue is considered eligible by the Conference because two of his varsity seasons came during wartime assignments to colleges.

FOR GAMBINO the rub is that while at Indiana in 1942, he was not in one of the V-5 or V-12 service programs which gained other varsity players protection from using up their varsity eligibility. Gambino was in the enlisted reserve, however, and subject to call to the service, which finally took him in January before he had a chance to gain his credits for the full semester.

There has been an attempt to draw a parallel between the protest against Gambino and North Carolina State's disqualification of its star fullback, Leslie Palmer. N. C. State, following the questioning of Gambino's eligibility, ruled Palmer out because he had played at West Virginia and thus used up his eligibility. But the cases aren't parallel. Palmer misrepresented his status when he entered N. C. State, and a rigid Conference rule felled him on that count. Gambino misrepresented nothing.

Their cases are parallel in one way, though. Maryland points out that North Carolina State had interpreted the rules to show Palmer was eligible, until the misrepresentation was revealed. N. C. State, in effect, was taking the same view of Palmer that Maryland now takes toward Gambino, who is clear of the complaint that ousted Palmer.

DUKE UNIVERSITY, following the charge against Gambino, was quick to disqualify an end named Hardison, thereby making a show of complete agreement with the Gambino protest. But Maryland isn't being misled by that action of Duke's. "They're sacrificing a third string end to help get my best football player out of the Maryland lineup," says Coach Jim Tatum wrathfully.

With a Gambino-powered backfield, Maryland was becoming a rising power in the conference and this year Tatum was drawing a bead on the conference championship. At the same time, other conference coaches were taking dead aim at Tatum, it appears. They blew the whistle on Gambino's eligibility.

Maryland's president, Dr. H. C. Byrd, is personally taking the appeal to the conference's executive council on Gambino's behalf. In his view, he is not asking much—"only fair play and sportsmanship." Because he's dealing with college executives, not sniping coaches, he has a chance.

Williams Slams No. 22 To Highlight 10-5 Victory

Boston, Aug. 27 (AP).—Ted (the Kid) Williams and Dom (the Little Professor) DiMaggio shared the spotlight today as the Boston Red Sox downed the Chicago White Sox, 10-5, before Fenway Park's smallest paid crowd of the season, 6285, which was increased by 3840 guest youngsters.

The victory boosted Boston's lead to a full game over Cleveland, which split with the Yankees.

Williams slugged his twenty-second homer of the campaign, a high three-run smash which dropped into the right field bleachers 400 feet from the plate in the sixth inning.

The blow made the score 8-5 and put Boston too far ahead for Chicago to catch up.

Dom banged out four hits in five trips, drove in two runs, stole a base, scored three times and played his customary good game afield.

Williams fielded it quickly and his fine throw to second trapped Appling, who was run down.

Dodgers Trip Reds, 3-2, Take Second Place

Cincinnati, Aug. 27 (AP).—Scoring their first two runs in the seventh inning without benefit of a hit, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2, before 18,966 fans here tonight, to nose into second place in the National League flag race, two percentage points ahead of the rained-out St. Louis Cardinals.

Ted Kluszewski accounted for the Reds' runs with a two-run homer, his tenth, after two were out in the ninth.

Schaefer Wins Lanham Feature

Ed "Dutch" Schaefer won the 25-lap feature midght auto race at West Lanham last night before about 5600 spectators. His time was 5:52:92.

It was Schaefer's third triumph in feature races at West Lanham this year and ties him with Mike Joseph and George Fonder. Len Fennelli, a newcomer from Bridgeport, Conn., dogged Schaefer for the last four laps, finishing within a half-length of the veteran.

IT'S NOT KUHEL HERE—Nope, it's not the Nat manager and it isn't the "Sheik of Araby." It's Catcher Al Evans, swathed in wet towels on the bench between innings of yesterday's Nat-Tiger game. Evans was one of the hottest articles on the field, what with a mask, chest protector and shin guards on him in the 99-degree weather. The Nats weren't so hot, losing to the Tigers, 3-2, before a sweltering gathering of 1374 fans

Broken Leg 'Saves' Tippler After Midnight Stretch Run at Marlboro

Marlboro, Md., Aug. 27.—The 1948 version of the "Midnight Ride of Paul Revere" was brought to light here today.

About 12:05 a. m. Wednesday, J. T. Hall, a track guard making a routine round of the plant, heard hoof beats on the track. He turned his jeep lights on the oval and was surprised to see a horse and rider rounding the far turn.

Through the stretch, the "jockey" gave an imitation of Eddie Arcaro aboard Citation. However, just before reaching the finishing line the "boy" fell off, hitting the inside rail.

Hall found him in the infield with a broken leg.

Yesterday William Warren Jones, 28, Baltimore taxi driver, was convicted on a drunk and disorderly charge. However, the magistrate fined him only $1 and costs so Jones could pay his own expenses at the Prince Georges General Hospital, Cheverley, Md., where his leg was set.

The horse figuring in the nocturnal episode was an exercise pony owned by William Park, local trainer, who arrived on the scene with a flashlight just after the rider fell.

Football Yanks Start Season By Beating Dodgers, 21-3

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP).—New York's football Yankees struck three times in rapid succession during the third period tonight to whip the Brooklyn Dodgers, 21-3, as the two clubs opened their All-America Conference season in 90-degree heat before 16,411 sweltering spectators at Ebbets Field.

Rookie Tom Casey, a Negro speedster from Hampton Institute, capped the Yankees' efforts by taking a punt from Mickey Colmer on his own 6-yard line and sprinted 94 yards for the final touchdown behind perfect blocking.

It was the longest punt return recorded in the conference, whose third season got under way tonight.

The big gun for the Yankees, however, was versatile, hard-working Spec Sanders. The Texas halfback brought the Yankees from behind at 4:20 of the third period when he covered 27 yards on two runs, bulling his way to the double stripe from 8 yards out on the second gallop.

Then, when the Yankees had worked their way up to their own 40 after turning back a Brooklyn threat, Spec broke away and scampered 60 yards for the second marker without being touched.

Dons Defeat Rockets, 7-0

Chicako, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Los Angeles Dons made their one sustained drive pay off for a 7-0 victory over the "new" Chicago Rockets in an All-America Conference opener before 26,479 at Soldier Field tonight.

Jarrin' John Kimbrough crashed across from the 1-yard line shortly before the first half ended and Ben Agajanian converted for the game's only scoring.

Although the Rockets ploughed to plenty of yardage, the brilliant punting of the Dons' Glenn Dobbs, who boomed kicks of 43, 62, 57, 60, 71 and 61 yards, neutralized Chicago's attack.

The Rockets' Angelo Bertelli, former Notre Dame slingshot, had a miserable passing night, hitting only three of 19 tosses, and had two intercepted.

In the first period, the Rockets, with a new coach, Ed McKeever, and a new ownership, marched 70 yards, but stalled on the Dons' 1. Dobbs got off a 62-yard kick to get the Dons out of that jam.

In the third, the Rockets paraded 58 to the Dons' 7 and again the Dons held. This time, Dobbs quick-kicked 57 to shove the Rockets deep in their own territory.

Houston Caddy Wins U. S. Title

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 27 (AP).—Don Addington, 17, of Houston, Tex., today won the National Caddy golf championship, defeating John Barrett of San Antonio, Tex., 9 and 8, in a 36-hole finals match.

Addington shot the first 18 holes in 69, three under par, and finished the match on the twenty-eighth hole, one under par.

Harrell Twirls Perfect Game

A perfect game pitched by Ben Harrell, coupled with a triple by Johnny Hughes with two aboard in the fourth led the All-Service Tire Co. to a 2-0 shutout over Al Miller's Steak House and the championship of the Raymond Twilight Softball League.

Cubs Defeat Braves, 1 to 0 For 3d in Row

Chicago, Aug 27 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs took their third straight from the league-leading Boston Braves today when they shoved over a run in the ninth inning for a 1-0 triumph in a duel between Johnny Schmitz and Johnny Sain. Schmitz won his own game when he led off with a double.

Emil Verban was safe on Sibby Sisti's error and Hal Jeffcoat fanned. Phil Cavarretta singled to send Schmitz to third and he tallied while Andy Pafko grounded into a force out.

Bob Spessard Coach at W&L

Lexington, Va., Aug. 27 (AP).—Robert W. Spessard, former star basketball center, today was appointed head basketball coach and freshman football mentor at Washington and Lee University.

Richard A. (Cap'n Dick) Smith, Washington and Lee director of athletics, made the announcement. Smith said Spessard had been signed to a one-year contract subject to approval of the board of trustees.

Spessard, an all-Southern Conference center with W. and L. for three years in the middle thirties, will report September 1.

Spessard will succeed Carl Wise. Wise will remain on the Generals' coaching staff as varsity backfield mentor.

Masterson Loses

Tigers Clip Nats, 3-2, on Rally in 8th

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Walter Masterson survived Griffith Stadium's 98-degree temperature yesterday, but was overcome by the Detroit Tigers, 3-2.

Held to five hits for seven innings, the Bengals broke through Masterson's delivery for all of their runs in the eighth and then called on Virgil (Fire) Trucks to preserve their victory when the Nats threatened to regain their command.

Trucks was equal to the crisis, as 1374 perspiring customers gloomily saw.

He put down an eighth-inning Griff revolt which saw Nats on second and third with only one away and he turned back Kuhel's juveniles hitless and runless in the ninth to save the triumph for Rookie Southpaw Billy Pierce.

Second for Pierce

George Kell and Hoot Evers delivered the blows which sent Masterson to his eleventh defeat and presented Pierce with his second success, both against the Nats.

Kell doubled home two runs and Evers stroked the single, one of nine hits Masterson yielded, which scored Kell with the winning run.

Against Pierce, who hasn't a blemish on his young record, the Nats got seven hits, two coming in the first when they scored both their runs. Tom McBride batted them across with a double, scoring Carden Gillenwater and Ed Stewart, who had singled.

Pinch Batsman Freddie Hutchinson drew a walk to start the Tiger eighth. Dick Wakefield, swinging for Johnny Lipon, singled, Eddie Mayo sacrificed and Kell unloaded his double to left to tie the game. Evers came through with his timely tap after Pat Mullen had rolled out.

Stubby Overmire replaced Pierce, who was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, and almost tossed away Detroit's slim lead. With one away, he pitched singles to Gillenwater and Stewart with the latter legging it to second on the throw to third.

Overmier was excused at this point and in from the bullpen without a warmup pitch straggled Trucks. He breezed a third strike by Sherry Robertson, batting for McBride, and got Mark Christman on a grounder to halt that rally.

Shortstop Connie Berry booted Eddie Yost's grounder to open the Nat ninth, but that didn't bother Trucks. He made Al Evans force Yost at second and finished the game on the next pitch which Gil Coan rapped into a double play.

IN SHORT—The umpires were allowed to shed their coats. They received permission from Prexy Will Harridge to take off their traditional blue jackets. The National League has permitted this for years . . . included in the handful of spectators were 495 kids from Richmond, Va., who were rewarded with a trip to the Capital to climax their baseball season .

Feller Hurls 8-1 Triumph, Then Indians Lose 2d, 7-2

By Joe Reichler

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees each lost ground to the front-running Boston Red Sox today as they divided a doubleheader at the Yankee Stadium.

The Indians, with Bob Feller spinning a splendid six-hitter, won the opener 8-1. The Yankees bounced back to snatch the second game, 7-2, as Allie Reynolds staggered to his fourteenth triumph, although stung for 11 safeties.

The split, witnessed by a near-capacity crowd of 61,729 paying customers despite the pressing 96-degree heat, cost both clubs in the standings.

The second-place Indians lost half a game to the Red Sox, who triumphed over the White Sox in Boston, and now trail by a full game. The third-place Yankees remain half a game behind the Tribe, but are a game and a half out of first place.

Although the Indians socked three Yankee flingers for a dozen hits including home runs by Ken Keltner and Lou Boudreau, it was Feller who stole the show in the opener.

Breaking off a wicked curve ball that had the Yankees swinging futily most of the afternoon, and mixing it with a lightning fast ball reminiscent of the Feller of old, Bob permitted only six scattered hits in registering his thirteenth victory.

Feller did not overpower the hitters. In fact, he struck out only one batter, Lead-off Man George Stirnweiss. But his curve ball was breaking so sharply he had the batters swinging under the ball, and as a result the Indian outfielders pulled down 14 flies. Four of the Yankees' hits were ground-ball singles.

Reynolds, who racked up his fourth victory in five decisions against his former mates, had a three-hit shutout for six innings, but wilted under the terrific heat in the late innings.

Lee Oma's 'Knockout' Victim Nearly Causes Fans to Riot

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 28 (U.P.)—Heavyweight Howard Chard of Toronto was placed under indefinite suspension from the ring last night when he was "knocked out" by Lee Oma of Detroit in the first round although ringsiders did not see him struck by a single blow.

The crowd of 2300 staged a near riot in MacArthur Stadium, demanding their money back and jeering Chard.

At the start of the fight Chard, who outweighed Oma by nearly 40 pounds, rushed across the ring. After a few seconds he seemed to gag on his mouthpiece, took it out of his mouth and dropped it, and then he himself fell to the canvas without apparently having been hit. He was counted out, but then jumped to his feet as the crowd howled in derision.

Oma said after the fight that he "might have hit Chard once," but the crowd didn't even see that.

Thomas J. Gralby of Troy deputy commissioner of the State Athletic Commission announced almost immediately that Chard would be placed under indefinite suspension and that his purse would be held up.

Gralby said that fans present tonight would receive free admission to any one of the next three boxing shows staged by the Central City A. C.

Gralby said that irate members of the crowd had "threatened me personally."

About 500 of the fans smashed a police line and stormed the box offices demanding their money back.

Oma weighed 188 pounds Chard 224.

Bosox Win to Boost Lead as Tribe, Yanks Split

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

LU GAMBINO manned a machine gun on a B-17 bomber in Europe and received an honorable discharge from the Army Air Force, but in the strangely astigmatic view of the Southern Conference he is not a former GI.

POVICH

Col. William Couper of Virginia Military Institute, president of the Conference, has ruled that Gambino is ineligible to play football for Maryland this season. He points to the three-year limit on varsity play, points to Gambino's record of one year at the University of Indiana and two years at Maryland, and says Gambino is through.

Maryland, too, is pointing—to the appendage to the Conference's three-year rule which states in italics: "Exceptions to this rule may be made for men who are receiving benefits of the Rehabilitation Bill or the GI Bill of Rights under Public Law 16 R 346, Seventy-eighth Congress." It is taking an appeal to the Conference's Executive Council which has the power to overrule Couper.

MARYLAND feels an obligation to Gambino, who misrepresented no facts when he entered that school in 1946. Maryland authorities assured him that under their interpretation of the eligibility rules he would be eligible to play in 1948. On that assurance, Gambino turned down an invitation to play in the College All-Star game at Chicago and rejected also a three-year contract for $45,000 from two professional clubs.

Gambino can hardly be called a tramp athlete. Right now he is digging ditches on a University construction job to earn the money to continue in summer school for needed credits. He isn't going to quit college and join the pros, even if he can't represent Maryland on the gridiron this season. He says he wants to be the first Gambino to graduate from any college.

The irony for Gambino, if he is barred, would be the fact that he would be replaced at left halfback by his understudy, Jimmy La Rue, who will be playing not his fourth but his fifth season of varsity football. La Rue is considered eligible by the Conference because two of his varsity seasons came during wartime assignments to colleges.

FOR GAMBINO the rub is that while at Indiana in 1942, he was not in one of the V-5 or V-12 service programs which gained other varsity players protection from using up their varsity eligibility. Gambino was in the enlisted reserve, however, and subject to call to the service, which finally took him in January before he had a chance to gain his credits for the full semester.

There has been an attempt to draw a parallel between the protest against Gambino and North Carolina State's disqualification of its star fullback, Leslie Palmer. N. C. State, following the questioning of Gambino's eligibility, ruled Palmer out because he had played at West Virginia and thus used up his eligibility. But the cases aren't parallel. Palmer misrepresented his status when he entered N. C. State, and a rigid Conference rule felled him on that count. Gambino misrepresented nothing.

Their cases are parallel in one way, though. Maryland points out that North Carolina State had interpreted the rules to show Palmer was eligible, until the misrepresentation was revealed. N. C. State, in effect, was taking the same view of Palmer that Maryland now takes toward Gambino, who is clear of the complaint that ousted Palmer.

DUKE UNIVERSITY, following the charge against Gambino, was quick to disqualify an end named Hardison, thereby making a show of complete agreement with the Gambino protest. But Maryland isn't being misled by that action of Duke's. "They're sacrificing a third string end to help get my best football player out of the Maryland lineup," says Coach Jim Tatum wrathfully.

With a Gambino-powered backfield, Maryland was becoming a rising power in the conference and this year Tatum was drawing a bead on the conference championship. At the same time, other conference coaches were taking dead aim at Tatum, it appears. They blew the whistle on Gambino's eligibility.

Maryland's president, Dr. H. C. Byrd, is personally taking the appeal to the conference's executive council on Gambino's behalf. In his view, he is not asking much—"only fair play and sportsmanship." Because he's dealing with college executives, not sniping coaches, he has a chance.

Williams Slams No. 22 To Highlight 10-5 Victory

Boston, Aug. 27 (AP).—Ted (the Kid) Williams and Dom (the Little Professor) DiMaggio shared the spotlight today as the Boston Red Sox downed the Chicago White Sox, 10-5, before Fenway Park's smallest paid crowd of the season, 6285, which was increased by 3840 guest youngsters.

The victory boosted Boston's lead to a full game over Cleveland, which split with the Yankees.

Williams slugged his twenty-second homer of the campaign, a high three-run smash which dropped into the right field bleachers 400 feet from the plate in the sixth inning.

The blow made the score 8-5 and put Boston too far ahead for Chicago to catch up.

Dom banged out four hits in five trips, drove in two runs, stole a base, scored three times and played his customary good game afield.

Williams fielded it quickly and his fine throw to second trapped Appling, who was run down.

IT'S NOT KUHEL HERE—Nope, it's not the Nat manager and it isn't the "Sheik of Araby." It's Catcher Al Evans, swathed in wet towels on the bench between innings of yesterday's Nat-Tiger game. Evans was one of the hottest articles on the field, what with a mask, chest protector and shin guards on him in the 99-degree weather. The Nats weren't so hot, losing to the Tigers, 3-2, before a sweltering gathering of 1374 fans

Masterson Loses

Tigers Clip Nats, 3-2, on Rally in 8th

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Walter Masterson survived Griffith Stadium's 98-degree temperature yesterday, but was overcome by the Detroit Tigers, 3-2.

Held to five hits for seven innings, the Bengals broke through Masterson's delivery for all of their runs in the eighth and then called on Virgil (Fire) Trucks to preserve their victory when the Nats threatened to regain their command.

Trucks was equal to the crisis, as 1374 perspiring customers gloomily saw.

He put down an eighth-inning Griff revolt which saw Nats on second and third with only one away and he turned back Kuhel's juveniles hitless and runless in the ninth to save the triumph for Rookie Southpaw Billy Pierce.

Second for Pierce

George Kell and Hoot Evers delivered the blows which sent Masterson to his eleventh defeat and presented Pierce with his second success, both against the Nats.

Kell doubled home two runs and Evers stroked the single, one of nine hits Masterson yielded, which scored Kell with the winning run.

Against Pierce, who hasn't a blemish on his young record, the Nats got seven hits, two coming in the first when they scored both their runs. Tom McBride batted them across with a double, scoring Carden Gillenwater and Ed Stewart, who had singled.

Pinch Batsman Freddie Hutchinson drew a walk to start the Tiger eighth. Dick Wakefield, swinging for Johnny Lipon, singled, Eddie Mayo sacrificed and Kell unloaded his double to left to tie the game. Evers came through with his timely tap after Pat Mullen had rolled out.

Stubby Overmire replaced Pierce, who was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, and almost tossed away Detroit's slim lead. With one away, he pitched singles to Gillenwater and Stewart with the latter legging it to second on the throw to third.

Overmier was excused at this point and in from the bullpen without a warmup pitch straggled Trucks. He breezed a third strike by Sherry Robertson, batting for McBride, and got Mark Christman on a grounder to halt that rally.

Shortstop Connie Berry booted Eddie Yost's grounder to open the Nat ninth, but that didn't bother Trucks. He made Al Evans force Yost at second and finished the game on the next pitch which Gil Coan rapped into a double play.

IN SHORT—The umpires were allowed to shed their coats. They received permission from Prexy Will Harridge to take off their traditional blue jackets. The National League has permitted this for years . . . included in the handful of spectators were 495 kids from Richmond, Va., who were rewarded with a trip to the Capital to climax their baseball season.

Feller Hurls 8-1 Triumph, Then Indians Lose 2d, 7-2

By Joe Reichler

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees each lost ground to the front-running Boston Red Sox today as they divided a doubleheader at the Yankee Stadium.

The Indians, with Bob Feller spinning a splendid six-hitter, won the opener 8-1. The Yankees bounced back to snatch the second game, 7-2, as Allie Reynolds staggered to his fourteenth triumph, although stung for 11 safeties.

The split, witnessed by a near-capacity crowd of 61,729 paying customers despite the pressing 96-degree heat, cost both clubs in the standings.

The second-place Indians lost half a game to the Red Sox, who triumphed over the White Sox in Boston, and now trail by a full game. The third-place Yankees remain half a game behind the Tribe, but are a game and a half out of first place.

Although the Indians socked three Yankee flingers for a dozen hits including home runs by Ken Keltner and Lou Boudreau, it was Feller who stole the show in the opener.

Breaking off a wicked curve ball that had the Yankees swinging futily most of the afternoon, and mixing it with a lightning fast ball reminiscent of the Feller of old, Bob permitted only six scattered hits in registering his thirteenth victory.

Feller did not overpower the hitters. In fact, he struck out only one batter. Lead-off Man George Stirnweiss. But his curve ball was breaking so sharply he had the batters swinging under the ball, and as a result the Indian outfielders pulled down 14 flies. Four of the Yankees' hits were ground-ball singles.

Reynolds, who racked up his fourth victory in five decisions against his former mates, had a three-hit shutout for six innings, but wilted under the terrific heat in the late innings.

Dodgers Trip Reds, 3-2, Take Second Place

Cincinnati, Aug. 27 (AP).—Scoring their first two runs in the seventh inning without benefit of a hit, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2, before 18,966 fans here tonight, to nose into second place in the National League flag race, two percentage points ahead of the rained-out St. Louis Cardinals.

Ted Kluszewski accounted for the Reds' runs with a two-run homer, his tenth, after two were out in the ninth.

Broken Leg 'Saves' Tippler After Midnight Stretch Run at Marlboro

Marlboro, Md., Aug. 27.—The 1948 version of the "Midnight Ride of Paul Revere" was brought to light here today.

About 12:05 a. m. Wednesday, J. T. Hall, a track guard making a routine round of the plant, heard hoof beats on the track. He turned his jeep lights on the oval and was surprised to see a horse and rider rounding the far turn.

Through the stretch, the "jockey" gave an imitation of Eddie Arcaro aboard Citation. However, just before reaching the finishing line the "boy" fell off, hitting the inside rail.

Hall found him in the infield with a broken leg.

Yesterday William Warren Jones, 28, Baltimore taxi driver, was convicted on a drunk and disorderly charge. However, the magistrate fined him only $1 and costs so Jones could pay his own expenses at the Prince Georges General Hospital, Cheverley, Md., where his leg was set.

The horse figuring in the nocturnal episode was an exercise pony owned by William Park, local trainer, who arrived on the scene with a flashlight just after the rider fell.

Cubs Defeat Braves, 1 to 0 For 3d in Row

Chicago, Aug 27 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs took their third straight from the league-leading Boston Braves today when they shoved over a run in the ninth inning for a 1-0 triumph in a duel between Johnny Schmitz and Johnny Sain. Schmitz won his own game when he led off with a double.

Emil Verban was safe on Sibby Sisti's error and Hal Jeffcoat fanned. Phil Cavarretta singled to send Schmitz to third and he tallied while Andy Pafko grounded into a force out.

Football Yanks Start Season By Beating Dodgers, 21-3

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP).—New York's football Yankees struck three times in rapid succession during the third period tonight to whip the Brooklyn Dodgers, 21-3, as the two clubs opened their All-America Conference season in 90-degree heat before 16,411 sweltering spectators at Ebbets Field.

Rookie Tom Casey, a Negro speedster from Hampton Institute, capped the Yankees' efforts by taking a punt from Mickey Colmer on his own 6-yard line and sprinted 94 yards for the final touchdown behind perfect blocking.

It was the longest punt return recorded in the conference, whose third season got under way tonight.

The big gun for the Yankees, however, was versatile, hard-working Spec Sanders. The Texas halfback brought the Yankees from behind at 4:20 of the third period when he covered 27 yards on two runs, bulling his way to the double stripe from 8 yards out on the second gallop.

Then, when the Yankees had worked their way up to their own 40 after turning back a Brooklyn threat, Spec broke away and scampered 60 yards for the second marker without being touched.

Dons Defeat Rockets, 7-0

Chicako, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Los Angeles Dons made their one sustained drive pay off for a 7-0 victory over the "new" Chicago Rockets in an All-America Conference opener before 26,479 at Soldier Field tonight.

Jarrin' John Kimbrough crashed across from the 1-yard line shortly before the first half ended and Ben Agajanian converted for the game's only scoring.

Although the Rockets ploughed to plenty of yardage, the brilliant punting of the Dons' Glenn Dobbs, who boomed kicks of 43, 62, 57, 60, 71 and 61 yards, neutralized Chicago's attack.

The Rockets' Angelo Bertelli, former Notre Dame slingshot, had a miserable passing night, hitting only three of 19 tosses, and had two intercepted.

In the first period, the Rockets, with a new coach, Ed McKeever, and a new ownership, marched 70 yards, but stalled on the Dons' 1. Dobbs got off a 62-yard kick to get the Dons out of that jam.

In the third, the Rockets paraded 58 to the Dons' 7 and again the Dons held. This time, Dobbs quick-kicked 57 to shove the Rockets deep in their own territory.

Bob Spessard Coach at W&L

Lexington, Va., Aug. 27 (AP).—Robert W. Spessard, former star basketball center, today was appointed head basketball coach and freshman football mentor at Washington and Lee University.

Richard A. (Cap'n Dick) Smith, Washington and Lee director of athletics, made the announcement. Smith said Spessard had been signed to a one-year contract subject to approval of the board of trustees.

Spessard, an all-Southern Conference center with W. and L. for three years in the middle thirties, will report September 1.

Spessard will succeed Carl Wise. Wise will remain on the Generals' coaching staff as varsity backfield mentor.

It was Schaefer's third triumph in feature races at West Lanham this year and ties him with Mike Joseph and George Fonder. Len Fennelli, a newcomer from Bridgeport, Conn., dogged Schaefer for the last four laps, finishing within a half-length of the veteran.

Chandler Named in Suit—

Lopatka Charges Phillies 'Disabled Him as Pitcher'

Chicago, Aug. 27 (U.P.).—Arthur J. Lopatha today sued the Philadelphia Phillies for $250,000 damages for allegedly "completely disabling him as a pitcher."

Lopatka filed the suit in Federal District Court, charging that Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler, had "willfully and wrongfully failed to adjust the case or even investigate it impartially."

He asked the court to rule Chandler out as an umpire in the case and demanded a jury trial.

A southpaw pitcher, Lopatka originally signed with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1946. He went to the Phillies a few months later. He charged that he was forced to take his regular turn at hurling although the club knew at the time that the index finger in his pitching hand was fractured.

When he no longer was of any use, because of his injury, Lopatka charged, he was released unconditionally, after the 1947 season.

In Cincinnati, Walter Mulbry, Chandler's assistant, had only this brief comment:

"The commissioner's office went into the case very thoroughly. It was decided his (Lopaika's) was a workmen's compensation claim."

A.P. Photographer Sues Dodgers Twice

Pittsburgh, Aug. 20 (U.P.).—Two suits were filed against the Brooklyn Dodgers today by Danny Jacino, Associated Press photographer who charged that Dodger Infielder Tommy Brown punched him in an altercation at the Pittsburgh Pirates' ball park.

Attorney P. J. McArdle said a deputy sheriff served a writ of summons in trespass against the ball club on Dodger Coach Clyde Sukefort before the Dodgers entrained for Cincinnati Wednesday.

Lee Oma's 'Knockout' Victim Nearly Causes Fans to Riot

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 28 (U.P.).—Heavyweight Howard Chard of Toronto was placed under indefinite suspension from the ring last night when he was "knocked out" by Lee Oma of Detroit in the first round although ringsiders did not see him struck by a single blow.

The crowd of 2300 staged a near riot in MacArthur Stadium, demanding their money back and jeering Chard.

At the start of the fight Chard, who outweighed Oma by nearly 40 pounds, rushed across the ring. After a few seconds he seemed to gag on his mouthpiece, took it out of his mouth and dropped it, and then he himself fell to the canvas without apparently having been hit. He was counted out, but then jumped to his feet as the crowd howled in derision.

Oma said after the fight that he "might have hit Chard once," but the crowd didn't even see that.

Thomas J. Gralby of Troy deputy commissioner of the State Athletic Commission announced almost immediately that Chard would be placed under indefinite suspension and that his purse would be held up.

Gralby said that fans present tonight would receive free admission to any one of the next three boxing shows staged by the Central City A. C.

Gralby said that irate members of the crowd had "threatened me personally."

About 500 of the fans smashed a police line and stormed the box offices demanding their money back.

Oma weighed 188 pounds Chard 224.

Beasley's Arm Okay

Chicago, Aug. 27 (U.P.).—Veteran Right-hander Johnny Beasley, who went to Nashville a week ago for a checkup on his arm, rejoined the Boston Braves today. He reported his salary arm was in fine condition.

Higbe's Homer Wins for Bucs

Pittsburgh, Aug. 27 (AP).—Relief Pitcher Kirby Higbe hit a home run in the last of the ninth tonight to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-3 win over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The blow came with one away and the score tied. It was the Pirates' fifth straight win and the Phillies tenth consecutive defeat.

American Derby

Citation In $90,000 Race Today

Chicago, Aug. 27 (AP).—The amazing Citation, 3-year-old champion of 1948, returns to major racing competition tomorrow as favorite to win the $90,750 American Derby at Washington Park.

The famed Calumet Farm's colt, winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, Belmont and seven other rich stakes this season, will have the speedy Free America as his running mate in the mile-and-a-quarter stake for 3-year-olds. Five others will challenge the Calumet pair.

Citation, if victorious, will advance into third place in the list of all-time money winners, replacing Assault. The winner will haul down a check for $68,450, which would bring Citation's earnings up to $653,750, second to Calumet's Armed which earned $773,700 in five years of campaigning. The retired Stymie tops the list with $911,335. Armed and Assault also have been retired.

Schroeder, Parker Win

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 27 (AP).—The United States Davis Cup four-man team, with half of it ousting Colin Long and Geoff Brown, the Australian international tandem, reached the final round of the men's national doubles tennis tournament in today's terrific heat at Longwood.

Long and Brown, who are expected to play challenge round doubles at Forest Hills, N. Y., next week, bowed to Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., and Frank Parker of Los Angeles, 15—13, 6—2, 6—3, while competing under the day's most favorable playing conditions.

But Gardnar Mulloy of Miami and Bill Talbert of New York, thrice national doubles titlists, had to swing into action against unseeded Tom Brown of San Francisco and Irvin Dorfman of New York, while a thermometer on their net registered 103 degrees.

After dropping the opening set to their ambitious rivals, Mulloy and Talbert gradually became immune to the blast furnace conditions and pulled out a 3—6, 9—7, 6—4, 13-11 semifinals win.

Playing conditions were almost equally severe when Doris Hart of Miami, and Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif., topped Mrs. Virginia Kovacs of Oakland, Calif., and Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Buck of New York, 6—2, 6—4.

As a result, Miss Hart and Mrs. Todd became finalists for the second year in a row against the six-time winners Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont of Wilmington.

Chalk Eaters Have Slim Pickings

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Marlboro, Md., Aug. 27.—Favorite players, known as "chalk eaters" to the trade, tried to start today's program with a bang. Yesterday seven choices scored but it was not until the fifth race today that a heavily backed horse got home in front.

The featured Trippett Purse proved little more than an outing for Richard Pending's Rozinate under the handling of Jockey Sammy Palumbo. This 8-year-old horse came from off the pace to be a going away winner in the test.

Freddie Kratz rode C. F. Hovis' Easter Bonnie into second position in the field of eight and J. R. Ruptons' Water Level was the beaten off third.

Rozinate Pays $3.40

Rozinate, a son of Flying Heels, returned a mere $3.40 win mutuel and was clocked in 1:26 for the 6½ furlongs over a fast track.

A crowd of 6000 braved some of the hottest weather ever encountered here in the tobacco country to see the eight-race program. The meeting here closes with tomorrow's card.

Fair Bid set the early pace in the feature followed by Easter Bonnie. When the pacemaker faltered, Kratz sent Easter Bonnie in to command but Palumbo brought Rozinate from far back and on the outside. In the final drive it was all Rozinate and Palumbo.

Kratz Wins Fifth Race

Kratz gave favorite players their first chance to cheer in the fifth with a victory aboard W. R. Chenoworth's Blind Buyer, paying $3.60. C. Wright's Verte was second and M. M. Greene's Old Harry was third in the 5½-furlong contest.

Daily double stock which sunk to 12 here yesterday went up today with an $86 payoff. Black Button, owned by Johnny Goetz, former Washington basketball star, paid $18.40 in the first race. Jockey Willie Billington brought the Shangrila Stables' Silver Cloth home in the second to the tune of a $10.20 mutuel.

Mrs. Trouchoud Misses Record With Medal 78

Mrs. P. J. Trouchaud yesterday came within a stroke of the Kenwood course record for women when she turned in the medalist card of 78 in the qualifying round of the 1948 club championship.

Mrs. Trouchaud seemed well on her way toward bettering Mrs. Rex J. Howard's record 77 of this season when she shot a 1-under-par 36 on the first nine. But not even a birdie 2 on the fifteenth was sufficient on the back nine when Mrs. Trouchaud faltered with eight 5s.

Match play begins on Monday with five flights of eight players each. Pairings for Monday in the championship flight are: Mrs. Trouchaud vs. Mrs. Richard Kreuzberg; Mrs. Ellen Harris vs. Mrs. F. C. Hunter; Mrs. Betty Meckley vs. Mrs. Rex J. Howard; Mrs. Edward Witmayer vs. Mrs. Nick Hollander.

Mrs. Brister Wins Titles in Alexander Cup

Mrs. R. L. Brister won both low net and low gross in the 36-hole competition for the Mrs. M. M. Alexander cup concluded yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

Mrs. Brister's low gross score was 102—105 for 207. Her handicap of 44 gave her low net of 163.

Tied for second low gross were Mrs. H. M. Nelson and Mrs. Harold Welley with 224. They will meet in a playoff August 20.

Second low net went to Mrs. Conrad Seibold, 116—115—231 with handicap of 60 for 171; third, Mrs. H. A. Thompson, 114—127—241 with handicap of 68 for 173; fourth, Mrs. James Gardner, 118—109—227 with handicap of 48 for 179.

Mrs. T. S. O'Halloran won the low putts contest with 28.

U. S. Olympic Stars 'Tickled' To Be Home With Their Medals

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—Bob Kurland, 7-foot Olympic basketballer, took a lingering look at the Statue of Liberty today as the liner Washington slid by and said "it tickles the hell out of me to see that thing."

His remark was echoed in some form by most of the 217 Olympic athletes and officials who returned today from London where they won 38 gold medals in the games that ended two weeks ago.

Thirty-one of the gold medal winners were among the 168 athletes who received the noisiest harbor celebration given anyone since the first batch of returning GI's.

The Washington was escorted to her pier by two police boats. Two fireboats sent up tremendous sprays. An orchestra played on the promenade deck. An estimated 5000 cheering spectators lined the dock.

Most of the athletes and all the non-New York officials arranged for immediate transportation home.

Before the athletes scattered, Asa Bushnell of New York, secretary of the United States Olympic Committee and in charge of the Washington party, said "This expedition was a complete and satisfying success in all respects. . . . the trip was perhaps the most harmonious and placid in the history of such pilgrimages."

Hay Fever Welcomes Cook, D. C. Shooter

Arthur E. Cook, son of Mrs. A. E. Cook of 1355 Montague street, nw., Washington, D. C. was the only Olympic star who indicated other than pleasure in being back in the United States.

"When we were in the middle of the ocean," said the winner of a gold medal in marksmanship, "my hay fever didn't bother me. Now that we are back on land it has come back."

To prove his point, the University of Maryland student sneezed.

Beat Virginia Boys

Donny Bryant collected the only hit of the day for the Ballston Indians as they edged out the Virginia Avenue Playground 3-2.

Jet Whips Plumbers In Series

Jet Motors scored three times in the seventh inning and went on to beat Merchandising Plumbers yesterday, 3-1, on the Ellipse for its second straight City Sandlot Series victory.

Kenny Deavers' four-hit pitching was nullified by a combination of Jet base running and Plumber errors.

Bob Lamon opened the Jet seventh by getting a base on balls, and went to second when Johnny Smerick grounded out. On an attempted steal, Lamon was safe at third after Red Vernon dropped the catcher's throw. Buddy Hargrove got on base when his infield grounder was played to home. Lamon beating the throw for the first run.

Hargrove continued on to second and scored on Fred Wahler's single to right. Jet's first hit of the inning. Wahler made for second on the relay and when Catcher Martin threw wild to second, Wahler kept on legging it to third, Skeets Taylor singled him home for the final run and the ball game.

Jet is naw the only undefeated team left in the playoffs, which means that it is the only team which can afford to lose a game in the double-knockout series. The Plumbers have a 2 and 1 record. On Monday on the Ellipse the Fire Department with 1 and 1 meets Sacred Heart, whose record is 1 loss.

Demaret's 135 Gives Him Lead

Salt Lake City, Aug. 27 (AP).—Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., went into the lead of the $12,500 Utah Open Golf Tournament tonight with a second-round 66—6 under par—for a 36-hole total of 135.

Demaret's 66 today, low score so far in the meet, was equaled by Otto Greiner of Baltimore, who added it to his yesterday's 75 for a 141 total.

In second place came George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa., with a 68, equaling his yesterday's total, for 136. Skip Alexander of Lexington, N. C., was next with 67 on top of yesterday's 71 for 138.

FCC Claims Rule on Radio Give-Aways

The Federal Communications Commission decided yesterday that it has a right to make rules restricting radio's give-away shows after all.

It can be done, the commission announced, under its general power to license radio stations. It said it has the duty to enforce the will of Congress on all radio matters regardless of whether they are covered by specific law.

The commission said it plans to issue new rules interpreting the ban on radio lotteries, which already is in Federal radio law. The new rules, it said, will not "add or detract from the statutory prohibition proposed by Congress."

The commission issued one set of rules early this month under which some of the radio programs giving away money and merchandise would be banned from the air as lotteries.

It struck a snag, however, when a congressional committee disclosed that the authority under which those rules were drafted had been eliminated when Congress was recodifying Federal laws last spring.

The commission said its general power to enforce the will of Congress gets around that hurdle.

The nearest thing to a refreshing breeze in this sweltering city yesterday floated in — on heat waves — from New York on a Greyhound bus.

"Judy Gainford, 21-year-old beauty, chosen by people in "the land down under" as "Miss Australia," arrived in Washington late yesterday on the first leg of a cross-country bus tour of the United States.

Success in national competition as "the typical Australian girl," won her a trip to Britain in June and to the United States in August and September. With a choice of travel by air, train or bus, Miss Gainford and her mother, who is chaperone and traveling companion, chose bus. That way, they explained, would allow them to really get a good look at the country.

Miss Gainford, who works as a radio announcer in Sydney, arrived in New York a week ago. Her life since has been a continuous whirl of sightseeing, radio programs and interviews that has left her just a little breathless.

"American people are tops she said, even if their second question is inevitably about kangaroos. The only kangaroo I ever saw was in a Sydney zoo."

She thinks American girls are exceptionally pretty and well groomed but is a little disappointed in the men. They're definitely not the wolves she has heard about but admits they "look nice."

Miss Gainford and her mother were guests of the Australian Embassy last night and will visit the city today. Sunday they will leave Washington for points West, with Hollywood definitely in mind. They will return to Australia October 8.

Six Months, $250 Fine in Sex Case

James Childs, 25, of 1315 F st. ne., was found guilty in Municipal Court yesterday of three charges of indecent exposure.

Sentence of six months, plus a fine of $250 was imposed by Judge Aubrey B. Fennell, with the proviso that Childs serve an additional 90 days if the fine is not paid.

Childs was charged with exposing himself in a window of his home on three occasions in June and July.

Mine Hazards Uncorrected, Interior Says

The Interior Department reported yesterday it warned Governors last April of disaster hazards in 929 coal mines in 19 States.

The report said: More than half of the 27,313 safety code violations reported by Federal coal mine inspectors at 1934 mines during the year ended June 30, 1948, were not corrected.

About one third were corrected completely, and "progress was made" in eliminating another 15 per cent.

Fast Action at the Warner

'Pitfall' Points Not One But 2 Morals—Easily

By Orval Hopkins

A MOVIE entitled "Pitfall" obviously has got to point a moral; no two ways about it. With this thought in mind, I went over to the Warner Theater, where such a movie is playing, and was able to dig up not one but two lessons.

1. Married men should stay away from single women, particularly blonds with black eyebrows, and

2. When people keep guns around the house somebody's liable to get hurt.

Dick Powell and Lizabeth Scott are in this one and, despite its being almost totally unrelieved by any suggestion of humor, it comes off pretty well. That is it comes off well if you want to assume that a man with a lovely wife, a house on a hill and a two-car garage with two cars in it is likely to go romping amid the lilies of the field. I suppose you have to assume something or there'd be no movies at all.

Miss Wyatt Excellent

Powell plays the man with the two automobiles, Jane Wyatt his wife (and very nicely, too) and Miss Scott the Other Woman. Powell meets Miss Scott in the course of his duties with an insurance firm and takes a third strike with the bat on his shoulder, if you know what I mean.

A party named MacDonald, played by Raymond Burr, also is interested in Miss Scott. Burr beats up Powell (in the hushed presence of the two automobiles), and warns him rather saucily to keep away from Miss Scott. Powell later on beats up on Burr. Both of these toughies utilize the highly workable tactic of hitting the opponent when he's not looking.

Anyway, then Burr (you'll excuse a somewhat detailed synopsis—it's very warm in here) enlists still a third person interested in Miss Scott and tries to arrange for him to knock off Powell. But Powell has a gun around—the biggest, ugliest thing you ever saw—and he kills the third party. This is called justifiable homicide by the cops and is a device without which Hollywood couldn't keep house.

Miss Scott also has a gun around—you can see how this is—and she takes care of Burr. Powell, as the D. A. points out, could have avoided some of this by calling the cops. But he didn't want to disturb his wife and child. So he shoots a guy and spreads him all over his living room. Miss Wyatt finds out about Powell and Miss Scott, but decides to give all another try and there you are. You never do find out whether Burr lives or dies.

It's all well-paced and entertaining enough.

This, of course, is another of the presentations of "the new and grimmer Dick Powell." Powell, as some of the older members will remember, used to be a crooner. He's now a down-to-earth, seasoned, bored-with-it-all citizen. He looks mostly a little sulky to me, and in his brighter moments I, being sort of indoctrinated with the Powell of old, keep thinking maybe he's going to favor us with a song.

The Hoarse Whisper

I had heard some harsh things said of Miss Scott (from people whose names we won't name), but I found her reasonably attractive. I was disturbed somewhat by an almost alarming—please do not misunderstand me here—resemblance to Boris Karloff. Something about the upper lip. Miss Scott is privileged in some scenes to speak in a hoarse whisper and one can't help wondering how she'd do if called upon to project over footlights. This is mere captiousness, I suppose. She's a very handsome young thing. No getting around that.

Jane Wyatt, as we know, has rarely been known to give a disappointing performance. Her work in this one is of the highest order and she easily outdistances these other people. Raymond Burr, who plays MacDonald, is a large person with curious eyes. He is supposed to be "sinister," but I couldn't help thinking that a real hoodlum like Richard Widmark or Dan Duryea would give him a bad time.

Also at the Warner—excuse me, there goes a blond with black eyebrows. Where's my starting blocks?

Richard L. Coe is on vacation. His column, "One on the Aisle," will be resumed on his return.

'Lulu Belle' Short-Changes Lamour

Ancient Shocker Is Rather Pointless Now

By Sonia Stein

DOROTHY LAMOUR has three assets which place her a cut above the average young actress. She has nice legs, a sultry voice and pretty good comedy technique.

Unfortunately, in "Lulu Belle" at the Metropolitan, she is permitted to use only her voice. Her legs appear just once, since the story is set in the early 1900s, and there is not one faint flicker of comedy in the characterization of Lulu Belle.

In a slow-moving, pointless story about a number of not very nice people, Lulu Belle is a singer who moves from cheap dive in Natchez to glossy nightclub on Broadway with the assistance of interested gentlemen. None too happy about it all is a young attorney who has been persuaded to marry Miss Lulu Belle in spite of an initial reluctance to so much as converse with her.

Sugar Daddy Stuff

After Lulu Belle has got him involved in a brawl which sends him to jail for three years, she goes to New York to enjoy the guidance, assistance and attention of a middle-aged railroad tycoon.

Lulu and the railroad man are shot quite inefficiently in her dressing room; her former convict husband and assorted male friends are suspected, but the magnate comes to long enough to point out his wife as the villain—or under the circumstances, should we say heroine?

Lulu asks for her husband, but eyes and a Southern accent. Since she comes from New Orleans in he figures that with her flat on her back he may get away at last, so he scrams.

This plot, based on a David Belasco stage production, is said to have shocked people in its day. It shocks me in this day, too, but not for the reason that's customary. I just can't find enough charm in Lulu Belle to warrant all the fuss.

It might be a kindness to omit mention of the cast, but since all struggled bravely they can be cited for that at least.

Lamour has circles under her real life, I hesitate to say that her accent sounds false. But it does.

George Montgomery suffers through one of the year's least rewarding roles. He's attractive, period.

Albert Dekker and Otto Kruger give their all to the roles of Lulu's "benefactors," and provide what little polish the picture has. Can't think of anybody who looks righter than Kruger.

Glenda Farrell floats around in some unexplained capacity, looking very, very blowsy.

This is a Columbia picture directed by Leslie Fenton, Everett Freeman based the screenplay on a play by Charles MacArthur and Edward Sheldon. Thought they'd sneak by in the crowd, eh? Their shame goes down in print.

"Barber of Seville," Italian film starring Ferruccio Tagliavini, is being added to the bill at the Little today. From now through Tuesday, it will run as co-feature with "Laugh, Pagliacci," another Italian musical film starring Beniamino Gigli and Alida Valli.

Next Week Final At Olney Theater

The Olney Theater at Olney, Md., announces that it is closing its 1948 season next week with presentation of Brian Ahearne in "The Beaux Stratagem." The theater originally had planned to present an additional attraction to follow the Ahearne play, but booking difficulties precluded it.

Cool, Cool Waters . . .

By Charles DelVecchio—The Washington Post

"MOVE OVER, KENNY"—While other Washingtonians wiped their perspiring brows, Kenneth William Yunger disported himself yesterday in a tub of water under the cool spray from a faucet. Kenny is the 9-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yunger of 5106 Willard ave. nw., who recommend this summer cooler as an answer to the heat wave

Man Fatally Injured in Skid Spill

D. C. Meat Dealer From Cabin John Dies Soon After Dash to Hospital

Norman C. Hunt, Jr., 23, of 6th st., Cabin John, Md., was fatally injured when his car overturned on Bells Mill rd., near Potomac, Md., at 12:40 a. m. yesterday.

Montgomery County police said Mrs. Sterlin E. Smalley, 27, of Cabin John, a passenger in Hunt's car, was uninjured. Mrs. Smalley told police the car skidded while making a turn on the loose gravel road, crashed into a bank, and then overturned as it careened back to the road.

Hunt, a Washington meat dealer, died of a crushed skull 5 minutes after he had been rushed to Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, by the Rockville rescue squad.

Dr. Frank J. Broschart, county medical examiner, issued a certificate of accidental death.

Here in the District, Curtis H. Patterson, 35, of 321 11th st. ne., fell asleep in his cab at 2 a. m. and it careened across the street and crashed into a tree in the 1100 block of Florida ave. ne., police reported. Patterson was treated at Freedmen's Hospital for a possible broken bone in the upper part of the mouth. Police said he would be charged with failing to give full time and attention.

Two-year-old Robert Spriggs, 1265 Half st. sw., was injured when he was struck by an automobile making a left turn into Half st. as he crossed N st. sw. He was treated at Providence Hospital and transferred to Gallinger with undetermined injuries.

Driver of the automobile, Wilson F. Earman, jr., 28, RFD No. 2, Falls Church, Va., was charged by police with failure to yield right-of-way to a pedestrian.

Alfred Lee Jackson, 15, of 1122 Stevens rd. se., suffered a broken right leg when his bicycle skidded after the front wheel struck a rock on Firth Sterling ave. se., near Eaton rd. His leg was pinned under the front wheel of the bicycle, police said. He was admitted to Providence Hospital.

Autopsy Set Today in Woman's Death at North Beach Hotel

An autopsy will be performed at the District Morgue this morning on the body of a 26-year-old Washington mother who died in a North Beach (Md.) hotel yesterday.

Virginia June Hults of 2135 L st. nw., wife of Arthur Hults, died at the Chesapeake Hotel as her father, Carl D. Whitehurst, tried to revive her.

Hults, en route to California, was intercepted in Chicago by a message telling of his wife's death. He told Whitehurst that he would take the first available plane back to Washington.

A preliminary examination of the body by Calvert County authorities indicated that "bruises on the elbows, shins and right buttock were caused more than 12 hours before death, and presumably while Mrs. Hults was still in the District of Columbia." Dr. Page Jett, pathologist for Calvert County Coroner Dr. Hugh Ward, said that he was therefore returning the body to the District for further examination.

Doctor Describes Bruises

Dr. Jett said that he found evidence of a hemorrhage behind the left ear, but no sign of a bruise on Mrs. Hults' head. He also told reporters that there was a bruise on the victim's face, but it might have been made during the examination.

He explained that Mrs. Hults was an albino, and that the slightest bruise—even a pinch—would show up very clearly.

Parents of the victim said that she had gone with them to a Washington bus terminal Thursday evening, to see her husband off for California.

At North Beach, Dr. Jett pointed out that the bus left Washington at about 6 p. m., placing both Mr. and Mrs. Hults here at that time. Following the departure of the bus, Mrs. Hults and her 5-year-old son, Arthur, jr., accompanied her parents to North Beach, arriving there between 10 and 11 p. m.

Had Gone for Hot Dogs

Pvt. Thomas J. Tash of the North Beach police stated that the party had gone out for hot dogs and drinks, and then retired. Mrs. Hults had apparently fallen across the bed half-dressed.

Early yesterday morning, her father heard her breathing heavily —"something like a snore." He tried to rouse her, but failed. The fire department was called, and administered oxygen, without success. Dr. George Weems arrived shortly after 8 a. m. and found Mrs. Hults dead.

Metropolitan Police Sergt. George Cooke of the homicide squad, announced that Mr. and Mrs. Whitehurst would be asked to drop in to discuss the case some time today, but that no investigation was planned until results of today's autopsy are available.

Sure of Funds

U. S. to Help Children's Hospital

Children's Hospital here will receive Federal funds for its expansion program, but how much and when has not been determined, it was learned yesterday.

"Complete approval" of the hospital's building program on its application for a grant under the Hill-Burton Act has been forwarded to the District Commissioners, Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, assistant health officer, said last night.

"Unfortunately," he explained, "the amount of that aid cannot be fixed until all applications are processed."

Action Awaited September 8

Dr. Seckinger said he expected that "more definite" action would be taken following the next scheduled meeting of the Health Department's hospital advisory committee, on September 8.

The Assistant Health Officer said certifications of funds allocated for District distribution under the act to encourage hospital building are awaiting action on the application of Dr. Henry G. Hadley for $283,000 to finish building a 60-bed hospital in the 4600 block of Nichols ave. sw.

Dr. Hadley said last night that he was "stymied" in negotiating contracts for completion of his hospital by reluctance of contractors to change from his present pay-as-you-go plan. He said he began construction work without waiting for Federal funds and hopes to qualify for a Federal grant on the basis that the money already spent can be used as "matching funds."

The Hill-Burton Act provides that the Government can put up $1 for every $2 set aside by hospitals for building purposes. Children's Hospital, with $1,316,000 collected during a 20-month public subscription drive, has applied for $656,000 of Hill-Burton funds.

Wants Partial Grant

"We don't need all of this at once," declared James H. Lemon, first vice president of Children's Hospital. "What we are asking now is a partial grant and commitments for the remainder within the next several years."

Lemon pointed out that continued delay over certification of a Federal allotment is costly to hospital's building plans because of rising construction costs. With the $656,000 grant, he said, Children's could build "just about what we asked the public to subscribe to" in the campaign for funds that ended in December, 1947.

Increases in construction costs since then, he said, closely approximate the $656,000 sought.

The Hill-Burton Act allocates $300,000 annually for District distribution of applications approved by the District Health Department. Two annual grants of $300,000 already are available for local distribution under the act's five-year program to distribute a total of 75 million dollars for hospital building throughout the Nation.

3 District Cases Reported; Virginia Not to Postpone Opening of Schools

Five new cases of infantile paralysis were reported under treatment yesterday in District hospitals. They bring to 97 the total number of Washington area cases recorded this year, as contrasted to 16 for the same period of 1947.

All of them children, three of yesterday's cases were from the District, the others from Alexandria, Va.

Stricken are a 15-year-old boy of the 400 block of New Jersey ave. se., who entered Gallinger Hospital last Saturday and was diagnosed a polio patient yesterday; an 11-year-old girl of the 900 block of R st. nw., and a 10-year-old girl of the 1400 block of Connecticut ave. nw. The latter two were admitted to Children's Hospital Thursday and reported as polio patients yesterday.

Alexandria's victims were identified as a 1½-year-old girl of the 200 block of Valley Circle, and a 10-year-old girl with a rural Alexandria postal address, both admitted to Children's Hospital on Thursday.

With yesterday's cases included, District records showed that 50 persons here have been stricken with infantile paralysis this year, as contrasted to but five for the corresponding period of last year. Polio patients living outside the District but admitted to District hospitals totaled 47, to 11 such cases treated during the same period of 1947.

Incidence of polio in Virginia will not postpone the State's scheduled opening of schools, State officials announced yesterday. Dr. A. L. Carson, jr., acting director of the State's bureau of communicable diseases, said he had received numerous inquiries on the matter. A total of 249 polio cases has been recorded in Virginia this year.

Deaths Reach 67 in Nation's Heat Wave

Chicago, Aug. 27 (U.P.).—Steaming, sticky heat made millions of Americans miserable for the sixth straight day today and there was no end in sight.

At least 67 deaths were attributed to the sizzling heat wave. It was too hot for many thousands to work.

The Weather Bureau here said there might be relief by next week, but "it's not definite." It said temperatures will decline from the 100-degree plus of many areas, but it will be so humid "nobody will notice it."

The mercury was near 100 degrees in many sections of the Midwest and East.

Showers brought some temporary relief in Texas, Arkansas, eastern Oklahoma, Mississippi, Iowa, eastern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

A survey of deaths attributed to the heat showed 16 drownings and 51 cases of prostration and heart attack.

Water consumption zoomed in many cities and some shortages developed.

Florida Alert As Hurricane Slows Down

Miami, Fla., Aug. 27 (AP).—A pocket-sized but severe hurricane lashing the Atlantic with 115-mile winds slowed its forward pace tonight, and its future movements became uncertain.

Storm-wise Florida made preparations just in case it should head more directly toward the coast from 700 miles out. It was due east of Miami at nightfall.

Grady Norton, chief of the Weather Bureau's storm warning service here, said conflicting aircraft reports caused some confusion, but it was virtually certain that the storm was continuing its northwestward or slightly westnorthwestward course.

"It is slowing down," said Norton. "It is meeting a high pressure area which may change its course."

No threat to a coastline could become evident before Saturday afternoon, and the storm would still be sufficiently offshore for adequate warnings, he added.

Ships scurried out of the path of the hurricane. The Coast Guard Cutter McComa towed one vessel into Fort Pierce. It was a former landing craft, the Grouper, engaged in salvage off Cape Canaveral.

Hit by Falling Beam, Iron Worker Dies

James C. London, 38, of 1712 New Jersey ave. nw., who was struck by a falling steel beam August 21, died yesterday in Providence Hospital.

London, an employe of the Hyatt Iron Works, 1335 1st s. se., was at work when the beam, being moved by a crane, fell and struck him.

Hiking Club Picnic

Members of the Center Hiking Club will meet at noon Sunday at Grove 25, Rock Creek Park, for a picnic and weiner roast.

Heat Kills Man, 11 Overcome; More Torrid Days Predicted

Here is a partial list of some of the agencies and the numbers affected:

Selective Service, 100; United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, 200; State Department, 1000; Bureau of Internal Revenue, 5000; Department of Agriculture, 6500; National Bureau of Standards, 3000; Labor Department, 200; Federal Power Commission, 800; Army Quartermaster and Finance offices, 4800; Government Accounting Office, 1300; Immigration Service, 700, and United States Engineers at Gravelly Point, 3000.

Some of the Federal workers were permitted to go home before noon. The District Building emptied at 2 p. m.

Of the 11 heat victims treated in hospitals yesterday, one, Andrew Sileo, age unknown, of 815 Kennedy st. nw., was reported in critical condition at Garfield Hospital.

Sileo, an employe of the Abel Construction Co., collapsed while laying sewer pipe in the 3200 block of Garfield st. nw.

Three heat victims were treated at Emergency Hospital, two at Freedmen's Hospital, and five at Casualty Hospital.

Emergency Hospital, William Pasley, 53, of 1249 6th st. nw.; Garland Anderson, 38, of 1429 Rhode Island ave. nw., and Franklyn Powers, 48, of 631 F st. ne.

Freedmen's Hospital, Marie Wilson, 24, of 2401 Ontario rd. nw., and Mary Gates, 44, of 507 New Jersey ave. nw.

Casualty Hospital, William Jordan, 38, of 4818 Meade st. ne., admitted; Douglas MacDonald, 3, of 336 8th st. ne., admitted; Vera Hendrickson, 50, of 1029 S. 19th st., Arlington; John A. Reeder, 50, of 88½ Fenton st. ne., and Ruby Proffitt, age not given, of 1151 New York ave. nw.

Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, acting coroner, said yesterday's record heat also undoubtedly speeded the deaths of some elderly persons critically ill.

The District Medical Society reported the count of ragweed pollen dropped to 130 grains per cubic foot of air, compared with a figure of 177 Thursday.

The temperatures also intruded into the halls of learning. Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, decided it was too hot to work and closed down classes and the administrative offices at noon.

There has been a growing suspicion that the temperatures collected by the Weather Bureau at National Airport aren't as husky as the ones that can be collected in downtown Washington.

The Washington Post fitted one of its reporters with a thermometer and sent him into Post Square. He laid the thermometer on the sidewalk in the sun. The mercury bubbled up to 120—as high as the thermometer would register.

Dangling the thermometer in the sun but away from the hot sidewalk, the reporter registered a temperature of 112.

Because of the heat, Government Services, Inc., has resumed night operations, from 7 to 9:30 p. m., at its Takoma and Anacostia swimming pools.

Adoptions for 27 Children Approved by Welfare Board

Adoption proceedings for 27 children were approved by the Board of Public Welfare yesterday.

The board's acceptance of recommendations for adoption of the children clears the way for the legal proceedings. The group up for adoption is larger than usual, but not a record, John W. Tramburg, director of the Department of Public Welfare, said.

The board also approved 25 proposed minor operations for juvenile wards.

It also decided that Dr. Ethel L. Nixon, a member, should hereafter review all recommendations for minor operations required by permanent or temporary wards, and with concurrence of other board members approve them. This would obviate bringing up the matter at board meetings.

Parole of three girls from the National Training School was also approved as was discharge from care of three wards.

One of the wards has joined the armed forces and the other two have gone to live with blood relatives.

The board approved an amendment to the rules of the Home for the Aged and Infirm to permit residents who have an outside income to retain up to $4 a month for postage stamps and stationery, extra tobacco and other small personal items.

Changes in administrative measures to facilitate return to work of residents who have been physically rehabilitated were approved.

It was decided to admit children of persons earning up to $3800 per annum to the six child care centers; heretofore the ceiling has been $3200.

The change is expected to make little difference in admissions, however, because the basis is still priority of need, Tramburg said.

The fee schedule for the child day care centers was revised with a minimum $2 per week fee established. Hitherto some mothers earning less than $1600 have paid nothing.

A proposal that a contract be made with the Lend-a-Hand, or Iona Whipper Home, at 5713 East Capitol st., for unmarried mothers, was approved by the board upon being advised that it appeared the nome was meeting Health Department requirements. The board has contracts already with several similar homes.

Bids for completion of the Receiving Home for Children will be opened Tuesday, the board was advised. The new structure still requires plastering, refrigeration and tile flooring.

Attending the meeting in the Municipal Center were Edgar Morris, chairman; Mrs. Radford Moses, Fred S. Kogod, A. J. Driscoll and Mrs. Theodore Wedel.

The board's next regular meeting will be held September 29.

County Warns Schools to Get Licenses

Unlicensed private school operators in Montgomery County will be subject to heavy fines after next Wednesday, officials warned yesterday.

To date, according to J. Ernest Hawkins, clerk to the county commissioners, 26 of approximately 50 privately operated schools have failed to apply for permits under an ordinance adopted last May.

Educational institutions not properly licensed after September 1, Hawkins said, will be subject to a fine of $25 for each day of the offense.

The ordinance provides that schools having fewer than six resident students must pay a $10 annual permit fee. Others must pay $50.

The fees are to cover cost of periodic inspection by health and fire officials.

Adoption of the more stringent ordinance followed disclosure that Mrs. Maude C. Hite, operator of a nursery school on the Rockville pike, had been operating without a required permit. Officials said they were powerless under the old ordinance to enforce the permit clause, and no inspections were provided for.

A temporary permit granted to Mrs. Hite expired August 1, Hawkins said, and until yesterday she had failed to reapply. Her application, received yesterday, followed by only a few hours newspaper stories to the effect that a $10,000 damage suit had been filed against her by a Washington man who charged his two children became seriously ill at the Hite School.

4 Boys, Youth Charged With 25 Robberies

Four juveniles and an 18-year-old youth were charged with 25 housebreakings last night by First Precinct detectives after three of the youngsters had been picked up Tuesday night wearing jackets stolen from a downtown shop.

The fourth juvenile and 18-year-old Jack Parker were implicated by the trio during questioning, police said. Parker is serving a sentence for unauthorized use of an automobile. At the time of his arrest on that charge he gave his address as 942 K st. nw.

Loot from the various housebreakings totaled between $2500 and $3000, the detectives said. Largest single haul, $560, was from the Casablanca Restaurant, 421 11th st. nw., entered July 16.

When apprehended Tuesday, the boys were wearing Eisenhower jackets taken earlier from the tailor shop of Jerome Witt, 1011 H st. nw. The boys were carrying, police said, a 2-pound blacksmith's hammer (for smashing windows) and penknives (for forcing latches).

As a group, the youngsters have been neglected and come from broken homes, the detectives said. Participating in the investigation were Detectives Nicholas Genua, Clarence Winemiller, A. L. Weber and Joseph Bonaccorsy.

Police Board Clears Patrolman On Improper Conduct Charge

A police trial board yesterday found Pvt. Eugene R. Blankenship, a traffic motorcycle man, not guilty of conduct prejudicial to the reputation, good order and discipline of the force.

The complainant was Simeon William George-Coker, a Howard University dental school student from British West Africa who lives at International Student House, 1825 R st. nw.

George-Coker was arrested at 10 p. m. Sunday in front of International Student House and charged with disorderly conduct. Fellow students posted $5 collateral for him.

Defendant Testifies

George-Coker testified he and seven other students had returned from a fishing trip along the Potomac, had parked his car outside International Student House and escorted Miss Doris Tanner, 24, a Canadian, who teaches in Alexandria, to a bus stop at Connecticut ave. and R st. nw.

After she got on the bus, George-Coker said, he returned to the car and started to remove thermos bottles and other equipment when Blankenship came up and asked him who the girl was. George-Coker said he told the policeman he would have to find that out for himself.

Blankenship said he first asked George-Coker's name and address and then about the girl and was told "it is none of your business."

Acquaintanceship Shown

Blankenship said he was driving by when he saw George-Coker talking to the girl and she appeared not to be answering him. Several students testified George-Coker knew the girl.

Blankenship, who lives at 2713 Arvin st., Wheaton Hills, Md., was dismounted for nearly two months in 1947 on order of Maj. Robert J. Barrett, police superintendent, for alleged discourtesy to a citizen, Walter G. Kolb, an electrical contractor. No trial board hearing was held in that instance because it was not considered serious enough, police officials said at the time.

Blankenship has also been commended twice since he became a member of the police force April 1, 1946.

Charles E. Ford, attorney, represented Blankenship yesterday. Wilbur W. Sacra, jr., assistant corporation counsel, was the prosecutor.

Trial board members included: Police Inspector Robert C. Pearce, chief clerk and property officer; Capt. Irvin H. Umbaugh of the Ninth Precinct, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Henry Wixon.

GIs Fear Curtailed Training In American U. Tuition Rise

Disturbed by an impending increase in tuition rates at American University's school of social sciences and public affairs, a group of veteran-students met yesterday and appointed a committee of five to look into the situation.

The veterans fear the tuition boost will jeopardize their GI Bill of Rights training. The committee plans to meet with Veterans Administration officials Monday and report back to another meeting of the students that afternoon.

Under the GI bill, veteran-students are given a maximum of $2000 in education, textbooks and equipment, normally to be spread over a period of four school years. Thus, if tuition and books for any one school year should be more than $500, the excess cost would reduce the number of free-education days available to the veteran.

The school of social sciences and public affairs will increase its semester rate to $250, or $500 for a school year, for its 300 undergraduate students when the fall session begins September 23.

Mrs. Jean Rauch, bursar, said yesterday that the rise in tuition was necessitated by increased school costs, and would serve to bring the school's tuition on par with the tuition charged students attending other American University schools.

Hitherto, veterans attending the school of social sciences and public affairs have paid tuition ranging from $144 to $216 per semester, depending on the number of hours of instruction. Of the 300 undergraduates, approximately two thirds are veterans.

National Gallery Sets Lecture on Delacroix

A slide-illustrated lecture on the romantic painter Delacroix will be given at the National Gallery of Art by Grose Evans, Sunday at 5 p. m. in the lecture hall.

Also on the National Gallery's schedule next week are daily talks on the picture of the week, Tintoretto's "The Birth of St. John" in Gallery 33. Talks will be held Monday through Saturday at 12:30 and 2:30 p. m. and on Sunday at 2:30 and 6:30 p. m.

A general survey tour of the Gallery's collections will be held Monday through Saturday at 3 p. m. starting at the rotunda fountain.

United Air Lines Speeds West Coast Schedules

United Air Lines will provide Washington with one-stop Mainliner 300 (DC-6) service to Los Angeles and San Francisco and two-stop service to the Pacific Northwest when new fall schedules go into effect September 8.

The flight to Los Angeles and San Francisco will stop at Chicago, and the Northwest flight will stop at Chicago and Denver. Clyde Doran, United's district traffic and sales manager here, said the new schedule will cut 30 minutes from previous flight time to Portland and Seattle.

Judge Barse Seeks Solution With Mason

District Commissioner Guy Mason's blast that "the courts are not running the District Government" brought a conciliatory reply from Chief Judge George P. Barse yesterday.

The controversy arose over the curtailment of telephone service for the corporation counsel's office, curtailment was ordered this week by Walter F. Bramhall, chief clerk of Municipal Court, as an economy measure.

Judge Barse stated that he had been in communication with Bramhall and with Commissioner Mason, and had arranged for Bramhall to confer early next week with a representative of the auditor's office and Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King. Judge Barse added: "I am sure a satisfactory solution can be found. No controversy exists between the Municipal Court and the office of the corporation counsel."

Furnished House, Food, Cash Given Aged Fire Victim

"Uncle," an aged odd-job man, lost his modest home and possessions when his trailer behind the Arlandria Shopping Center at Presidential Gardens burned last night.

But before the crowd of about 200 persons dispersed, "Uncle," or Foster Waldo, had a house, furniture, groceries and a neat stake of spending money.

Furniture was supplied by some spectators, the manager of a grocery store in the shopping center grubstaked the handyman, and use of an unused construction shack for a home was arranged as children took up a cash collection which was turned over to the aged "Uncle."

Six Boxcars Slip Brakes, Crash Autos

Six empty boxcars somehow slipped their brakes on an inclined siding at the American Wholesale Warehouse, 5th and W st. ne., yesterday and careened downhill into six automobiles parked side by side below.

Owner of the lead car in the hit parade was John Redmond, 4109 W st. nw. According to police, he parked his car about 100 feet behind the last boxcar and left Daniel S. Quigley, 72, of 3709 12th st. ne., in the back seat with the admonition to watch out for trains.

When he returned, the car was smashed and police were helping Quigley, unhurt, from the wreckage. Damage to the other five was in proportion to their distance from the first car in the line, with the last getting only a few dents and scratches.

Frank S. White, yardmaster, was still investigating the cause of it all last night.

Hearings Set Oct. 6 On 2-Way Radio

Hearings on proposals to increase Nation-wide frequencies for two-way radio communication will be held October 6, the Federal Communication Commission announced this week.

Local taxicab companies, operating on two crowded frequencies since December, 1945, have been asking for six or eight more channels.

Others affected by the proposals are police, fire and emergency vehicles, intercity buses, trucks, railroads and industrial users of the two-way radio systems. Petitions to testify at the hearing should be filed by September 15.

Area News in Brief

Shoes Beneath Bed Clear Man of Charge

Percy McKinnie, 36, of 1206 6th st. nw. was up before Municipal Court Judge Armond W. Scott yesterday to answer charges that he had threatened his wife.

Wife Katherine, 26, of 1721 T st. nw. complained that on August 22 Percy threatened to "blow her head off." Percy denied the charge, admitting only that "there had been a discussion" about his wife staying out late.

At the conclusion of the discussion, Percy decided to pull up stakes, he said. He came back Tuesday for his clothes and radio, and Wednesday he returned with his truck, to get his bed.

"In moving the bed," he told Judge Scott, "I happened to look under my wife's bed, and saw a pair of men's shoes that I did not recognize as my own."

Having gone that far, Percy, shook his head glumly, then finished his defense:

"I thought he'd wait at least a couple of weeks before he moved in."

"Ummm," murmured Judge Scott. "Case dismissed."

Linesman Suffers Burns

A Virginia Electric Power Co. linesman was burned about the face and both arms yesterday afternoon when an electrical "arc" was created between a wire in his hand and a live wire on a pole at Second st. and North Pershing dr., Arlington.

He was Leonard T. Waddell, jr., 20, of Route 1, Alexandria. He was taken to Arlington Hospital for treatment of the burns and his condition was listed as "fair."

Police Seize Fugitive

Alexandria police yesterday arrested a prisoner who escaped August 15 from a road gang at a State prison camp in Almira, Va. James Corbin, 28, serving five years for an Alexandria robbery, was arrested at his family's home, 1309 Duke st., by Officers Frank Mason and Andrew Benarick.

Carnival Closes Tonight

A two-week carnival sponsored by the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department at Rockville, Md., will close tonight after a highly successful run.

Chief Valentine Wilson of the department said yesterday a total of 23,000 persons have paid admission to date. Numerous riding devices for both children and adults as well as entertainment, games and dancing until midnight have been offered.

Armory Exits Planned

District Inspector of Construction Archie Hutson is preparing plans for adding exists to the District Guard Armory to permit installation of sufficient seats to handle crowds of 10,000.

The plans are being made at the request of Arthur (Dutch) Bergman, armory manager, and will be submitted to the three-man Armory Board, after which they may be forwarded to Congress with a request for an appropriation to cover the recommended changes.

152,000 Tax Bills Sent

More than 152,000 District real estate tax bills were distributed this week by the tax assessor's office. The bills are expected to provide a revenue of $31,884,875.

The bills are payable semiannually unless a property owner owns and occupies his home, in which case he may file a request with the assessor to permit quarterly payments. This policy was adopted as a result of congressional legislation enacted in 1943.

Boys Band Going to Camp

Members of the Boys Club of Washington Concert Band will leave Monday for a week's vacation at Camp Reeder, Md., the club's summer camp. While at camp they will rehearse with Andrew Bodnar, conductor, for a concert in La Plata, Md., Wednesday at 8 p. m., for the benefit of the Physicians Memorial Hospital.

Air Telephoned Views

Average citizens of Washington will speak over the radio tonight without coming closer to the station than their own telephones.

Station WTOP, in a demonstration of the use of telephone recording devices, will present several citizens' opinions on the meat price situation from 10 to 10:15 p. m.

Another unusual feature, WTOP officials said, is that absolutely no prizes will be offered for answering the questions of the interviewer.

Fire Routs Tenants

Smoke from a fire in High's ice cream store at 1732 Trinidad ave. ne. at about 1:45 a. m. yesterday drove the occupants of the apartments above the store to the street. The fire, which apparently started in the store's rear stock room, did damage estimated at $500. Oddly enough, not one bit of ice cream in the store melted.

Sports-Loving Yeggs

Safecrackers made an overnight visit to the Paul Brothers, Inc., sales and service garage, 5220 Wisconsin ave. nw., and made off with $998 in cash and two season tickets to the Redskin games, police said yesterday. The thieves entered the garage through an open second story rear window and used tools in the garage to pry off the front plate of the safe.

Home Burns Fatal to Wife Of House Aide

Mrs. Ilda Roy, 42, wife of William T. Roy, assistant parliamentarian of the House of Representatives, died in Emergency Hospital at 5 a. m. yesterday of burns received in a home accident.

Mrs. Roy

Mrs. Roy was discovered badly burned and unconscious on a bed in her fourth-floor apartment at 4550 Connecticut ave. nw. Thursday afternoon by a neighbor and janitor following a report of "water running and someone moaning" in the apartment.

A fire in a metal wastebasket was still smouldering. The fire marshal's preliminary report indicated that Mrs. Roy's clothing was probably set aflame by the wastebasket fire.

Found Beside Tub

Investigators assumed that she tried to extinguish the flames in the water-filled bathtub since the water was still running when she was found and some of her burned clothing was found at the side of the tub.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of accidental death.

Mrs. Roy's husband was in New York on business at the time of the accident, and didn't get back to Washington until 9 p. m. Thursday. He was treated for shock when he learned of the tragedy. They were married in 1924.

Native of Harrisonburg

Mrs. Roy, a native of Harrisonburg, Va., had come to Washington in 1922 as an employe of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

In addition to her husband, a retired Army lieutenant colonel, Mrs. Ros is survived by her mother, Mrs. Iva Quick, of Harrisonburg, and three brothers, Clarence Quick, second battalion chief in the District Fire Department, Marion Quick, a salesman of Columbus, Ohio, and Harold Quick, a farmer of Harrisonburg.

Funeral services will be held at S. H. Hines funeral chapel, 2901 14th st. nw., at 10 a. m. today. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

D. C. Cameraman On Missing Boat

Darwin, Australia, Aug. 27 (AP). A land, sea and air search was organized today for the 24-foot ketch Wanderer II, three days overdue from a 100-mile scientific trip in the stormy Gulf of Carpentaria.

Howell Walker, National Geographic Society photographer of 2451 P st. nw., Washington, D. C., is among the passengers. Also aboard the ketch is Fred Gray, pioneer explorer of Arnhem Land, a crew of 5 and 12 native children.

Smith at 68 Makes Anvil Ring As Area's Office Workers Wilt

The Washington Post

AS ON THE GRIDDLE—R. L. Harmon, 68, the village smithy of Falls Church turns on the heat

The hottest man in Greater Washington yesterday must have been R. L. Harmon.

That's because Harmon generally has plenty of irons in the fire—since he's a blacksmith in nearby Falls Church, Va.

He operates beneath a spreading maple, not chestnut, in his tiny smithy on East Fairfax st. Inside, a heap of coals blazes on his forge, and the place has the impack of a bake oven. Yesterday, particularly.

While office workers wilt behind fans Harmon, who is 68, hammers out pick heads, horseshoes, and wagon wheel rims without a qualm.

Temperature "Just Right"

The temperature yesterday? "Just right," decreed the smithy, winging a stream of tobacco juice into the coals.

Harmon is a short, rather rotund man with gold-rimmed eyeglasses, close-cropped silver hair, and the skill of 40 years on the job—at the same Fairfax st. location.

The present blacksmith shop was built 10 years ago. The "old one," Harmon says, burned down. It had stood on that spot since the Civil War.

Besides the cemeteries and contractors who have him resharpen pick heads and farmers with wagon wheels to mend, Harmon gets a brisk trade in shoeing riding horses. He has more business than he needs.

$1 a Shoe

Inflation? "Well, we used to shoe a horse for $2—50 cents a shoe," Harmon said. "Now it's $4. Guess we've got inflation." And he took a whack at a red-hot, $1 horseshoe.

When he first worked in the shop in 1307, Harmon said, there were six blacksmith shops in Falls Church. Now he's the only survivor.

After his old smithy burned down, the town planning commission told him not to build another—his land was zoned residential.

But the town council stepped in. He could have his smithy on that spot until he died. "And that won't be tomorrow," says Harmon.

Rev. Royall, 76, Succumbs In D. C. Home

The Rev. Marion Whitney Royall, 76, for 40 years a minister of the Baptist Church, died yesterday at his home, 1703 Q st. nw., after an illness of several months.

Mr. Royall had served as a supply minister in several churches here since coming to Washington in 1935. He organized the Brookmont, Md., Baptist Church while here.

Born in Warsaw, N. C., he moved to Fayetteville as a boy and attended public schools there. He graduated from Wake Forest College and later taught school in several places in North Carolina and Virginia.

In 1905 he determined to enter the ministry and attended Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

After his ordination Mr. Royall served in various Virginia pastorates, including 10 years at the Lee Street Baptist Church, Danville. He left this post in 1922 to take up further studies at Southwestern Seminary, Dallas, Tex.

In 1925 he went to Baltimore, Md., to engage in evangelical work and was later pastor of the College Avenue Baptist Church in Annapolis, Md., for six years before coming to Washington.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Saunders Royall; two brothers, the Rev. Frank T. Royall, Greeneville, S. C., and Prof. Lewis T. Royall, Smithfield, N. C., and four sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Exum, Freemont, N. C.; Mrs. Katie Breece, Stedman, N. C.; Mrs. Louise Bullard, Goldsboro, N. C., and Mrs. Evelyn Coward, Cullowhee, N. C.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 3 p. m. at the S. H. Hines Funeral Home, 2901 14th st. nw. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Von Dolcke Funeral Rites Set for Today

Funeral services for Ludwig W. von Dolcke, 62, claims examiner in the office of the Judge Advocate General of the Army, who died Wednesday, will be held at 1 p. m. today at Gawler's funeral home, 1756 Pennsylvania ave nw. Burial will be in Prospect Hill Cenetery.

Mr. von Dolcke died in George Washington University Hospital after suffering a heart attack. He was a native of Washington and lived at 3141 Mt. Pleasant st. nw.

He joined the Judge Advocate General's Office in 1942. Prior to that time he had been engaged in the office of the Chief of Finance. He served as administrative assistant of the military claims branch and as military assistant in the legal review branch.

Mr. von Dolcke was educated at the old Columbia Law School and the National University School of Law. He also studied psychology and comparative religion.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Rose von Dolcke; a daughter, Miss Sylvia von Dolcke, and a son, Morton Moore, all of the Mount Pleasant st. address.

Aley Speaks

New York, Aug. 27 (AP)—Oley Speaks, 74, singer and composer, died today. He had been in ill health some time.

Among the songs he composed were "Sylvia" and "On the Road to Mandalay."

He had made many concert appearances throughout the country.

A prolific composer of songs, he joined the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers in 1924 and the same year became one of its directors.

Among his other compositions are "Morning," "Bells of Youth," "To You," "Life's Twilight," "The Prayer Perfect," "The Lord Is My Light" and "When the Boys Come Home."

Harry Norris Rickey

Winter Park, Fla., Aug. 27 (U.P.)—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Harry Norris Rickey, 77-year-old former Scripps-Howard newspaper executive, who died here yesterday after a two-year illness.

Rickey, who founded the Washington Daily News, was with the George Creel organization during the First World War, first in Washington and then in London, heading information and public relations for the United States in the British Isles and Scandinavia.

Mrs. Charlotte Bryan

Bloomington, Ind. Aug. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Charlotte Bryan, 81, wife of Dr. William Lowe Bryan, Indiana University's president emeritus, died last night.

Mrs. Bryan collaborated with Dr. Bryan in writing several books on the Greek classics.

A. D. Calvert, 81, Civic Leader In Northeast, Dies at Home

Alfred D. Calvert, 81, civic leader who worked tirelessly for the advancement of the Northeast section of the city, died early yesterday at his home, 441 11th st. ne.

Mr. Calvert

Mr. Calvert had been ill for about 10 days. Death was due to a heart condition.

Born and educated in Philadelphia, he came here in 1912 to work as a printer at the Government Printing Office. He worked there for more than 20 years before his retirement during the 1930s.

Active in civic work here he was president of the Lincoln Park Citizens Association, a position he held for 11 terms. He was also Lincoln Park representative to the Federation of Citizens Associations and was a member of the public utilities committee of that organization.

Mr. Calvert studied the L'Enfant plan for the city and campaigned vigorously among city planners to turn East Capitol st. into an avenue of the States, lined with museums and memorials.

He also envisaged a sports center in the area along the Anacostia River and later called for a highway running along the east bank of the river to the Arboretum.

It was said that he was so struck by conditions along the Anacostia that he kept a rake hidden there and in his spare moments worked to clean up unsightly trash heaps.

Opposed to suffrage for the District, he once branded it "a lot of tomfoollery" and said leaders in the movement merely wanted to get jobs for themselves.

A member of Keller Memorial Lutheran Church, 9th and Maryland ave. ne., he taught a class of teen-age boys there for many years. He was also a Mason.

Mr. Calvert and his wife, Mrs. Jennie McQuade Calvert, had lived in the same house on 11th st. ever since coming here.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Edith Robertson, Mrs. Harbert Hamilton, and Mrs. Russell Moore, and a brother, George O. Calvert, all of Philadelphia.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Monday at Lee's funeral home, 4th and Massachusetts ave. ne. The body will be taken to Philadelphia, where services will be conducted at 1 p. m. Tuesday at Stroud's funeral home. Burial will be in Fernwood Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Dr. Pascal Robinson

Dublin, Eire, Aug. 27 (U.P.)—The Most Rev. Dr. Pascal Robinson, 78, papal nuncio to Ireland, died today after a long illness.

Robinson, dean of the Diplomatic Corps in Ireland, was born in Dublin, but moved to the United States with his family at an early age. After working on several American newspapers, he became a member of the Franciscan Order and was ordained when he was 35 years old.

He was known as an authority on Palestine and was consulted by Allied statesmen during the First World War.

His body will lie in state in the Dublin Cathedral Sunday. Funeral services are scheduled for Monday.

Civilian Held For Jury in Fort Gunplay

A Fort Belvoir civilian employe was held for the Federal grand jury in Alexandria yesterday as the result of some wild shooting along Route 1 at the fort Tuesday night.

William R. Kidd, 38, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon and firing along a road of a military reservation after a hearing before United States Commissioner Stanley King. He was released in $500 bond for the December session of the grand jury.

Charles L. Rollins, 27, who was arrested with Kidd, was released when Kidd was charged with firing the shots. Both men live in dormitories at the post and work at the Engineer Research and Development Laboratories.

Two military policemen, Corpl. Donald R. Hanna and Pfc. Lester Elzig, said three shots were fired from a speeding car as they walked along the highway. At least one of the slugs, they said, struck the pavement about six feet from them. They identified the occupants of the car as Kidd and Rollins.

Though neither Kidd nor Rollins testified at the hearing, James F. Durkin, jr., special agent of the FBI, read a statement that he said Kidd had given him. According to this statement, Kidd admitted firing the shots, but said he had not meant to shoot anyone, had not seen the soldiers and thought he had fired the gun into the air.

Alexandria Bond Interest Rate Laid to Politics

Alexandria's bond issue sold Thursday at a 2.93 interest, when it should have been about 2 per cent, because of the "city's financial condition and management," Councilman-elect Marshall J. Beverley said yesterday.

A broker charged Thursday that it was the recent attacks on the city government by Beverley, a banker and former national bank examiner, that had boosted interests rates and kept some brokers from bidding on the $5,250,000 bond issue.

Beverley, who takes office Wednesday, said he favored establishment of a finance department in the city, and called for a "reorganization of the city's financial program which will give taxpayers any and all information concerning the city's finances."

Parade to Open Carnival

The annual Rotary Club carnival of Herndon, Va., will be held August 30 through September 4, with the "biggest parade in Herndon's history" starting proceedings at 7:15 a. m. Monday. Chairman Nelson Post said proceeds will be split between community youth activities and the town's Parent-Teacher Association.

Convict, Shot In Manassas Break, Dies

Leonard Gillenwater, 17, of Gate City, Va., died yesterday morning in Arlington Hospital of a bullet wound suffered Thursday when he attempted to escape from a prison road gang near Manassas.

He was one of three prisoners, inmates of State Camp 13, who broke away from work on a bridge at Lake Jackson. The others were rounded up within half an hour. Doctors said the bullet which killed Gillenwater penetrated his left side and emerged from his chest.

The prisoner, who would have been 18 next month, had served five weeks of a five-year term for robbery, Camp Superintendant G. G. Jefferson said.

Meantime, Arlington Police early yesterday captured two escaped prisoners from Virginia State Camp 32 near Richmond. Police said they were spotted by their prison khaki as they drove a stolen car in the 1400 block of Route 1. The prisoners, Ernest Waddell, jr. 21, and Elwood Davis, 31, whose records were not immediately available, were placed in Arlington Jail until they could be turned over to State authorities.

Farmers Get 3 Pct. Less For Crops

By the United Press

The Agriculture Department reported yesterday that farmers received 3 per cent less for their crops during the month ending August 15, but their expenses did not drop.

At the same time, the department announced that Government price support loans on the 1948 corn crop will be offered farmers in 23 States. Those in other States will have to make purchase agreements with their county production and marketing administration committees.

The department said that prices during the month were 193 per cent higher than in the base period 1909-14 while prices, interest and taxes paid by farmers was unchanged at 151 per cent. As a result, the parity ratio dropped from 129 to 117, or 1 point below last year.

The drop was caused primarily by price declines in wheat, rice, corn, oats, barley, cotton and potatoes. They now are cheaper than a year ago.

Prices received by farms for fruit and tobacco were higher than in the previous month. Although most livestock prices dropped or remained unchanged, hog prices moved up to a level exceeded only in September and October, 1947.

States in which the Government price support loans will be offered are Colorado, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Washington dairymen do not expect an immediate increase in the price of milk here, but there is some talk that it may go up before long.

Baltimore dairymen have announced that the retail price there will go up 1½ cents to 22 cents on Wednesday, after an announced increase in the price paid to producers in the Baltimore area. The comparable retail price here is 21 cents.

Bruce B. Derrick, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association here, was said to be out of town, and other association officials were also unavailable yesterday for comment.

Herman A. Schulteis, vice president of the Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, Washington's largest, said it is "conceivable" that the retail price might go up, bu nothing has been decided on i and no such action will be take by September 1, he said.

Prices in the District usual follow those set by the Virgin Milk Commission, he pointed o and any change in Virginia pric would necessitate the filing of petition, followed by a hearing.

This procedure usually takes days or more, he said, before hearing can be called.

The Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., is raising the price paid to Baltimore area producers by 40 cents a hundredweight, to $6.43, equal to that now paid here by the Maryland and Virginia association.

At the time of a previous increase in the Maryland producer price last month, Derrick said the $6.43 price here would not go up unless feed and labor costs increased further, or unless an increase were forced by loss of milk to the Baltimore market.

Farmers Face Loss in Grain Storage Lack

By The Associated Press

A serious shortage of grain storage space threatens farmers with the loss of several hundred million dollars in income this year.

The Agriculture Department estimates the storage shortage at upward of one billion bushels. It is most acute in the corn belt, where a stupendous crop of 3,500,000,000 bushels of this grain alone is nearing the harvest stage.

Officials said farmers are likely to suffer losses from deterioration of grain, and a drop in market prices below levels promised by the Government's support program.

A farmer can get the benefit of the support program only if he has the grain stored safely. This help is in the form of loans and agreements to buy the grain next year.

His only alternative may be to sell his grain on the market at a price below the support level. Some grain experts predict corn soon will sell from 15 to 25 cents a bushel below the support price of about $1.45 a bushel.

The vastness of the storage problem can be measured by the fact that this year's indicated production of grains is 1,350,000,000 bushels larger than last year and 1,275,000,000 larger than the average for the past 10 years.

The building of storage facilities has not kept pace with the sharp gain in production.

Blind Man Ill, Church Women Run Concession

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 27 (AP).—Fifteen women of St. Martin's Evangelical Lutheran Church were in the soft-drink-and-cigarette stand business today.

They volunteeered to run the concession at the Anne Arundel County Courthouse for blind Kenneth Merrill, 43, who won't be out of the hospital for another three or four weeks.

"They are the kind of people who are just plain good," said Mrs. Joanne Merrill, 27, also blind, who runs a similar concession at the postoffice.

Members of the Women's Guild are taking turns at the courthouse stand until Merrill recovers from an appendicitis operation. On duty in four-hour shifts were Mrs. Fred Dennis and Mrs. Leone George.

3 Firemen Fined $50 For Carnival Gaming

Federalsburg, Md., Aug. 27 (AP).—Three members of the Preston, Md., Volunteer Fire Department were fined $50 and costs apiece today for operating a gambling game at their benefit carnival last Saturday night.

Magistrate C. H. Dobson imposed the penalty, but James A. Wise, Caroline County State's attorney, said it was the fire department and not the individuals who were to blame. Wise said it wasn't feasible to prosecute the fire department.

HENRY M. BROOKS

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 27 (AP).—Henry M. Brooks, 61, of Greenwich, Conn., sought on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of his business partner, Joseph R. Watkins, was found dead in a hotel room here today, a bullet in his head.

Assistant Monmouth County Prosecutor Charles Frankel said Brooks had shot himself.

Two special delivery letters addressed to Brooks' wife were found in the room. Frankel did not open them.

Watkins, 54, was slain by two bullets from a .32 caliber gun as he sat in a car parked in the driveway of the fashionable Princeton Inn Wednesday night.

Mercer County Prosecutor Mario H. Volpe said Watkins, a lawyer and investment broker, had obtained a $72,000 judgment against Brooks on the grounds that he had made good losses incurred in several joint ventures.

U. of Md. May Offer Degree In Journalism

By The Associated Press

The University of Maryland administrative board plans to take up early next month a proposal for setting up a separate journalism department.

The Maryland Press Association has named a committee of editors and publishers to advise the university on details. Eugene T. Gunning, city editor of the Cumberland Times, is chairman.

Dr. Harry C. Byrd, university president, yesterday said the plans probably will never evolve into establishment of a school of journalism.

"I doubt there is need for one," he said, explaining that "I was a newspaperman myself for 22 years."

Dr. Byrd's observation was that newspaper reporters and editors need a broad, general education rather than an emphasis during college years on technical subjects "which they have to forget and learn all over again as soon as they go to work."

The English department offered six journalism courses last year.

Clair Files As Independent In Arlington

Arlington Freelance Writer Francis J. Clair, balked in his bid for Republican nomination to run for membership on the Arlington County board, filed as an independent yesterday.

In filing, Clair accused the County Republican Committee of "political shenanigans," and of acting "in bad faith" in refusing to nominate him.

Clair's petition, filed with the county clerk, had 500 signatures. Filing deadline for independent candidates for the one open county board seat is September 3.

According to Clair, Republican Committee Chairman Edgar Pumphrey "announced through the public press that the Republicans would have a primary" for the county board.

Clair paid his filing fee and filed with Pumphrey as the GOP candidate. Pumphrey then declared the party never had announced it would hold a Republican primary for the board seat and the committee held Clair's petition void.

The candidate, who lives at 4767 N. 24th rd., Arlington, promised if elected to "cooperate with the school board" in bettering county schools, and to work for improved streets, sidewalks and storm sewers.

In November, he will face Democratic board incumbent Alfred E. Frisbie, a stockbroker, and independent I. Lee Potter, a builder; Coast and Geodetic Survey employe H. Herbert Howe, and retired carpenter Jacob Bechtel.

Alexandria Baby With Outside Bladder Healthy After Surgery

By Judy Spivak
Post Reporter

The Washington Post
BABY RECOVERS
Operation a success

To watch the plump, lively 19-month-old girl crawling around the steps of her Alexandria home, it's hard to believe doctors refused to let her mother see her after birth because she had "no chance" to live.

The blonde and blue-eyed child was born with her bladder outside her body, just as the 22-month-old child of Mrs. Irene Lamphere of Chicago. Two days ago Mrs. Lamphere finally consented to an operation to correct the child's bladder condition after she had been told by medical experts that chances of success were about 90 per cent.

"They wouldn't let me see her for a month after she was born," says the Alexandria mother who asked that her child's name be withheld.

"Her father saw her, but they told me she was going to die and it was better if I didn't see her."

The child fooled doctors, her mother said, by her apparently excellent health, except for her bladder condition. When she was three months old her parents took her home, since hospital authorities said they could not operate on the bladder abnormality until the child was older.

Neither she nor her husband hesitated for a moment to agree to the operation, the Alexandria mother said.

"We knew it was a chance we had to take," she said. "I wouldn't want her to have lived that way. It wouldn't be fair to her when she got older."

"She seems perfectly normal now, the doctor tells me," the child's mother went on. The child's bladder was replaced within her body, the mother says, and functions normally now.

The operation was performed when the baby was 13 months old. Two weeks later, according to her mother, she was home from the hospital, having already begun to walk in her crib at the hospital.

Now the child will be able to lead a normal life, her mother believes. When she is about 5, the little girl may have some plastic surgery done on the wall of her abdomen to strengthen it, her mother adds.

Doctors have also warned her, the Alexandria mother said, that the baby may not learn to control her bladder as children normally do. In this case, she said, doctors tell her they can probably help the child by strengthening muscles controlling this function.

Group Asks Review Of Denial of Visa To Dr. Johnson

A committee of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship yesterday asked the State Department to review its decision to refuse a visa to Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the so-called "red dean" of Canturbury Cathedral in England.

The Rev. William Howard Melish, chairman of the council, expressed optimism about the result of their visit. Dr. Johnson wanted to visit this country to lecture.

Charles Hulten, deputy assistant secretary for administration, who spoke to the delegation, said he told the group that he "would accept the request that the case be reviewed". He said he did not promise that the case would be reviewed.

MRS. D. A. MURPHY and her youngsters, Joel (left) and Jane Ann, get their heads together over the grocery bills at the Murphy home at 40-A Galveston Place, S. W.

Determined Mrs. Murphy Pares the Food Budget

By Lucia Brown

WHEN you hear about a family keeping food bills low these days, you're likely to wonder if they're (a) on a diet, (b) in on some super-secret buying formula, or (c) related to Houdini.

So when Mrs. Jane B. Murphy wrote The Washington Post a few weeks back—during a "Letters to the Editor" discussion of high food prices—that her family of four was eating well on about $80 a month, other readers started asking how the Murphy grocery bills got that way.

The other day, we went out to call on Mrs. Murphy in Anacostia and inquire into the matter. She turned out to be a pretty, dark-haired young woman who gave her mother all the credit for the way she's beating the cost of living now.

"I come from a practical family," said Mrs. Murphy. "My mother taught us to cook when we were youngsters. And, believe me, she never let us waste anything."

Going on to explain about her family, Mrs. Murphy said that her husband is an aviation chief electrician's mate in the Navy, which led, of course, to the question:

"Do you buy your groceries in a Navy commissary?"

"No, all our food comes from the nearest grocery, a very nice chain store," said Mrs. Murphy. "However, we hope to get a commissary card soon and cut down our bills still more."

The Murphys' children are small—Jane Ann is almost 4 and Joel 2—which means they don't eat as much as adults or 'teen-agers, but do require plenty of such relatively expensive items as milk, eggs and fruits. All the family have excellent appetites, said Mrs. Murphy, especially her husband, who is in the open a great deal.

PLANNING meals ahead is the first step in saving money on groceries, Mrs. Murphy thinks.

"I don't sit down and write out exact menus," she said, "but I do make a general plan of what we're going to eat that week. Then I buy nearly all the week's groceries at one time. Day-to-day shopping is a lot costlier, I think."

Mrs. Murphy never shops on Saturdays, but at some time when the store isn't crowded. Usually, she buys on Fridays, for by that time papers advertising weekend specials are available. She is a great believer in those and often plans her menus around them.

"I find that if I go to the store when its full of people, I get bewildered and hurried," she said. "I grab up expensive things sometimes in desperation. Besides, a lot of women who work can't shop anytime but Saturday. If I stay away then, it makes that much more room for them."

Mrs. Murphy always does her own shopping, too; doesn't just hand a list to friend husband or someone else who happens to be going past the store.

"If you don't shop regularly, you're not familiar with the best buys," she said, "and you're bound to waste money."

As to actual cutting down, Mrs. Murphy said that her family eats less steak and chicken now, of course. Cakes, which she likes to bake, are made with only one or two eggs these days.

Her family always gets meat once a day, at least, though. On the weekend, she buys a large piece, such as a roast or a ham, so that there will be some left-over for later meals and the sandwiches her husband carries to work.

"My family is fond of hamburger, thank goodness," she said, "and I know lots of different ways to fix it."

"Mr. Murphy likes a hearty breakfast, but we save about 20 cents a pound on bacon by buying it unsliced," she continued. "Eating margarine comes a little hard for me, since I'm from the Dairy State of Minnesota. The fact that I can get 2 pounds of oleo for the price of a pound of butter makes up for everything, though."

THE Murphy's ice cream is the homemade kind, frozen in the refrigerator. Mrs. Murphy figures it costs only about 30 cents a quart to make, compared with 70 cents to buy a quart of commercial ice cream. She usually makes it with packaged pudding mix and top milk instead of whipping cream. Sometimes she uses whipped evaporated milk.

The family eats all its meals at home (except for the lunch that Chief Murphy takes to work) and sometimes has company, but still manages to keep the grocery bill around $18.50 to $19.50 a week. This includes household supplies, too—soap, wax, bleaches, and the like. Mrs. Murphy knows how much it costs because she has kept exact record of all she has spent at the grocery and for milk during the past several months.

"Last Friday I paid $14.66 for groceries," she said. "About $2 worth of milk will be delivered this week and I'll spend about $2 additional for fresh vegetables and bread."

On her Friday shopping list was a chuck roast, bought as a special. It will be served once hot and once cold, and the remainder will be used for sandwiches. Tuna fish, eggs, weiners, and sausages were also on the grocery list, as well as peanut butter for noonday sandwiches. She figures this will see her through the week, as far as main dishes go.

One night, the Murphys will have supper picnic style, with weiners grilled on a charcoal broiler which Chief Murphy built in the backyard of their house. Mrs. Murphy usually splits the weiners, puts a slice of cheese inside, and wraps them in bacon. She has bacon and cheese left from last week for this and to flavor beans and spaghetti for meatless meals.

Blue-eyed Mrs. Murphy took home economics in high school, but she majored in French and English in college and taught these subjects afterward. Home training rather than book learning" taught her saving ways with food. Besides, she's a determined Minnesota girl who believes common sense and close figuring can keep the high cost of food from gobbling up all her husband's Navy pay.

About Obtaining Silver Pattern

Can you tell me where I can obtain some Plymouth pattern flat silver? It was my pattern of 30 years ago and has been discontinued, I have been told.
J. C. S.

Yes, the Plymouth pattern, once made by the Gorman Silver Co., Providence, R. I., has been discontinued, at least temporarily. You might write to Gorman, to see if they plan to resume the making of this silver anytime soon. You might write to Julius Goodman & Co., Memphis, Tenn., a firm that specializes in discontinued silver patterns, and see if you can locate any of it there.

Is the climate in the central part of Japan healthy for a child inclined to be asthmatic? Would we find ragweed there? W. T.

We are advised by the United States Public Health Service that grass pollen is practically absent in this area and there is no hay fever there. Perhaps some reader who has lived or visited in this part of Japan can give us additional information.

Can you tell me where I may purchase a large-sized cake pan such as is used for wedding and birthday cakes? What I want is one to make the big bottom layer on a tiered cake like the bakeries make. J. B.

A hotel equipment company on New York ave. sells big pans like this. They have one 14 inches wide and 2 inches deep that sells for $4.45. The firm can be reached by telephoning District 8717.

Would you please be so kind as to print a recipe for champagne punch for approximately 100 persons, or some other type of punch to be used at a wedding reception? J. B.

CHAMPAGNE PUNCH

8 cups diced fresh pineapple
Juice of 9 large oranges
Juice of 3 lemons
3 cups whole strawberries (optional)
3 pints brandy
3 pints Curacao
3 pints Tokay
9 bottles carbonated water
9 quarts champagne
Large block of ice

Place the first eight ingredients in a 10-gallon crock or similar large container. Let stand several hours. Add a large chunk of ice and the champagne just before serving time. This recipe makes approximately 140 small glassfuls.

CHESS PIES

12 egg yolks, well beaten
1 pound sugar

Sugar should be beaten with eggs. Wash salt out of butter and cream nicely. Grated rind and juice of 1 lemon may be added if desired, when stirring ingredients together.

CHESS PIES

1 cup milk
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup butter
5 eggs
2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon cornmeal
Juice and rind of a large lemon

Beat eggs, add sugar, butter creamed and other ingredients.

Both these fillings are to be poured into pans lined with pastry and baked in moderate oven until well done.

CHARLES T. CLAYTON, Attorney, 1343 Good Hope Road, S.E.

Filed Aug. 26, 1948. Harry M. Hull, Clerk. IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the District of Columbia. James C. Wood, Plaintiff, vs. Arthur C. Wood, et al, Defendants. No. 2674-48. The object of this suit is to obtain the judgment of this Court, ratifying a certain contract between heirs of Imogen C. Wood, deceased, and Oakley B. Phipps and Iva V. Phipps, and appointing a trustee to convey the land therein described, to wit: Lots 40 and 41 in Oregon L. Green's subdivision of part of a tract of land known as "Chichester," as per plat recorded in Liber County 6, folio 54 of the Records in the Office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia, to said Oakley B. Phipps and Iva W. Phipps; and to provide for investment of the proceeds of sale of said property until the death of the last surviving son of said Imogen C. Wood, or until further order of the Court. On motion of the plaintiff, it is this 26th day of August, 1948, ordered that the defendants Blythe Wood, Beryl Wood, Sheila Wood, all of whom are infants, cause their appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the day of the first publication of this order; otherwise the cause will be proceeded with as in case of default. Provided, a copy of this order be published once a week for three successive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter, and The Washington Post before said day. (Seal.) R. B. KEECH, Justice. Attest: HARRY M. HULL, Clerk. By ELLA McDONALD, Deputy Clerk.

Does your present connections offer you the opportunity and security you need for the future? We are a AAA-1 national organization and have been in the weatherproofing business exclusively for over 30 years. We manufacture, sell, and install through our own factory branches. Last year we had 36 branches, this year 40. We do not sell through distributors or dealers. This is one reason our prices are attractive. Frankly we need men who are willing to assume responsibility and can grow with our organization. Our program is outstanding and will be backed by the largest advertising program locally and nationally that we have ever attempted. Our commissions are tops and we will pay you a liberal drawing account. Apply by letter, phone, or see in person Maurice Saks, Branch Manager. It may be profitable for both of us.

10-Year-Old Conducts Own Foreign Policy

A friend of mine, returning from a trip to Europe, brings back a glowing account of the activities of 10-year-old Bruce Durbrow.

Bruce's father, Elbridge Durbrow, is now teaching "Diplomacy" at the Army War College here. But until recently, he was counselor of our embassy at Moscow. It was during that period that Bruce made his reputation on the continent.

For example, there was the occasion of the May Day parade in Moscow. Scores of Russian tanks were jammed in the street which runs between the American Embassy and the Kremlin wall. Red Army troops patiently waited for their turn to join the throngs in Red Square.

Suddenly their nationalistic ardor got a rude jolt. Out of the United States Embassy marched a little boy, with an American flag in his hands.

With a solemnity befitting the occasion, Bruce paraded up and down between the rows of tanks—while two NKVD officers assigned to the embassy scratched their heads and wondered what they could do about it.

And on another occasion, Bruce rounded up a huge stack of back issues of Time and Newsweek—both of which are strictly banned in Moscow—and set off down the street, handing out free copies to all comers.

Had a grownup tried any of those stunts, he'd no doubt have been dispatched to Siberia to check on the salt situation.

But the Russians love kids as much as we do, and are just as tolerant of them. So Bruce was permitted to go his way unmolested—and his fame has now spread so far that my informant heard stories about his exploits as far away as Vienna.

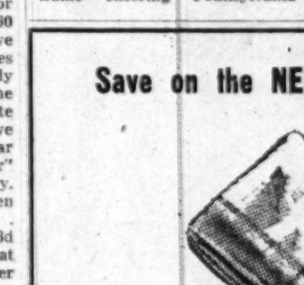
MISCELLANY

Jerry Smith of 1235 N. Glebe rd., Arlington, Va., tees off on me for wisecracking about women drivers: "During the war I had charge of a Red Cross motor corps comprised of some 60 female auto pilots, and I have some of the prettiest certificates to prove that we were not only 'as good as' but better than the male version. One certificate states that these women drove over 112,000 miles in one year without scratching a fender" . . . I guess I lose again, Jerry. Figures don't lie—except when they're encased in corsets . . . Robert Rockwell of 4104 53d ave., Hyattsville, Md., thinks that the weatherman might do better if he'd get himself one of those little "weather houses" from the dime store . . . A recent Give-Away item offered a "large, affectionate male dog; also a doghouse." D. M. A. of the Mississippi Valley Association replies: "Can't use the dog, but how big is the doghouse? I'm 5-feet 11-inches tall and weigh 176 pounds."

HOT WEATHER IDEA

This is the kind of weather in which it's fun to call on your favorite banker and ask for an unsecured loan of about $10,000 at 2 per cent interest.

You don't get any money, but the resultant chill is certainly welcome.



Vagrant thought: How can they keep the cold war going in weather like this?

GIVE-AWAYS

"Three female puppies, Spitz-Dalmatian." (Woodley 4969).

"Five little kittens, 5 weeks old." (Michigan 0104).

PERSONAL NOTES

Mrs. Ruth Richards, 2802 S. 9th st., Arlington, Va.: Yep, you've got to call early or you'll find the Give-Aways gone. But just be patient and I'm sure you'll find a white kitten before long.

KENEIPP'S LITTLE HELPER

Memo to Traffic Director Keneipp, from R. A. Sanders of 4600 Branch ave., se.: "Why not delay the light a little longer on traffic entering Pennsylvania ave. from Constitution ave. from the west? This is done from the east, and it seems to work okay and result in fewer dimpled fenders."

COULD BE

D. Keeney of 2806 Terrace rd. se. is puzzled by a recent theater listing which went something like this:

"'Sleep My Love,' carazoom-brgkkf zrp brrrazck."

Muses District Liner Keeney: "Is that the snore? Must be a heavy sleeper."

BY THE WAY—

Here's a king-sized "thank you" from Mrs. Alma Kilmer, mother of Dorothy Kilmer, who was paralyzed by a shot accidentally fired from a policeman's revolver.

Mrs. Kilmer says she wishes she could personally thank each District Liner who has sent a gift or a message of cheer to Dorothy. And since she can't, she's using this means of letting you know how much your thoughtfulness has helped.

BRAINY ITEM

It's small wonder that Mrs. Irvin Wolloch of 2317 Mozart pl. nw. was somewhat startled when her eye fell on a line of newspaper type which said:

"Allow one brain for two or three people."

Further investigation revealed that the sentence was merely one portion of a recipe for sauteed brains—a tasty dish, according to those who like sauteed brains.

ANNUAL EVENT

It won't be many more days before you'll be seeing the annual announcement on our sports page, "The Nats have now lost their last mathematical chance of winning the pennant."

If we had a good efficiency expert around this paper, he'd cut composition costs by ordering the type saved from year to year.

Listen to Bill Gold each noon, Monday through Saturday, over WINX (1340) and WINX-FM (96.3).

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—John L. Lewis, nursing his political wounds and still playing a lone hand, is waiting a while before announcing his presidential choice — which will be Thomas E. Dewey.

Bartley Crum's trip to Israel is in behalf of President Truman. Crum's survey will concern the advisibility of a 100-million-dollar loan and de jure recognition . . . The Met. Opera Company will spend $250,000 next season in modernizing the place. It will raise the money by additional rentals of the theater . . . Willie Steele, the San Diego broad-jumper who won the Olympics, was presented with a gold watch by his townsfolks and gave it to his coach . . . The famed Palace Theater will be rented to a television company for $5600 a week.

The newspapers this week, in reporting the $50,000 robbery at the home of Georgia Ellis, headed the report "Former Follies Beauty Robbed of Jewels" . . . Such headlines always unnerved the late Earl Carroll. Many of Ziegfeld's Follies girls worked a few seasons in Carroll's "Vanities." And Carroll's complaint about the press coverage was "When they marry big, or acquire fortunes, the papers refer to them as 'Former Follies Beauty.' But when they commit suicide or wind up broke, in the papers it's 'Former Vanities Girl.'"

Konrad Bercovici, who discovered from the Customs officials that he had been carrying counterfeit $50 bills all over Europe, complained yesterday: "Those $50 bills got more publicity than my newest novel." The novel, incidentally, is "Savage Prodigal" . . . Melvyn Douglas obtained his release from MGM so that he could work with Dore Schary at RKO. Now Douglas is committed to RKO, and Schary is back at MGM . . . Frederick Lewis Allen of Harper's will write the definitive biography of J. P. Morgan . . . Chaim Weizmann has recovered from his eye operation. The President of Israel will return to his country after the U. N. meeting in Paris, when he hopes to obtain recognition.

Despite the suggestion of Soviet Consul Lomakin, neither Roosevelt Hospital nor the N. Y. Police is making any recordings of Mrs. Kasenkina's statement. She's being treated just like any other patient, except that the hospital doesn't know as yet who'll pay the bills . . . Ambassador Steinhardt will return from Prague on September 25, and bring his family to his new post in Ottawa . . . The new book by Max Miller, author of "I Cover the Waterfront," will be called "The Town With the Funny Name." It's a series of sketches about his neighbors in La Jolla, Calif. . . . Le Directoire will reopen next month with a cast headed by Pearl Bailey and the French choristers who made their debut with Edith Piaf.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Voorhees Lauded for Army Work

(While Drew Pearson is on vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

It is the Washington Merry-Go-Round's pleasure and privilege today to present the brass ring for outstanding performance of duty to a singularly devoted and patriotic public servant.

Voorhees

He is Tracy S. Voorhees, Assistant Secretary of the Army.

It is especially fitting that he be singled out for public recognition because Voorhees and his uniquely distinguished work have long merited it. In all of Washington, no one has served the country more earnestly, tirelessly and brilliantly. Yet, outside of Voorhees' immediates official orbit, he is virtually unknown.

This modesty is very characteristic of him. More than one of his accomplishments have been headline news, but he doesn't function that way. Grandstanding or limelight-grabbing is out of his ken.

To Tracy Voorhees only one thing matters: getting a job done as efficiently, expeditiously, and for the greatest good that is possible.

All the rest is of no consequence to him. He really believes that work well done is its own best reward. The remarkable thing is that this belief has worked out that way for Voorhees. Wholly lacking in political "pull," and without his seeking the office, he recently was elevated to Assistant Secretary of the Army solely because of his outstanding record and qualifications for the position.

Unobtrusive Veteran

Voorhees has been serving his country unobtrusively and devotedly for a long time. He started in the early days of the war.

Then over 50 and a senior partner of a highly successful New York law firm, of which the late Chief Justice Harlan Stone had once been a member, Voorhees instantly dropped his large practice to respond to an urgent call from his old friend Robert Patterson, then Undersecretary of War. Patterson needed a hard-headed and driving, trouble-shooter to go to the ends of the world to straighten out critical Army snarles.

From then on, as an Army colonel, Voorhees was constantly on the go, wherever stupidity, incompetence and bungling snafued the channels of supply, he moved in and quietly and effectively brought order and action.

Although huge quantities of plasma had been shipped to the theater, combat commanders bombarded Washington with irate complaints of shortages. Voorhees unearthed the reason.

On some islands, no longer in the active zone, he found medical supply officers hoarding large quantities of plasma.

Similarly, in England, he quietly again saved the Medical Corps' neck on hospital equipment. Voorhees found tremendous discrepancies in the preparations for taking care of invasion casualties. Certain brasshats had grievously underestimated requirements. Voorhees quickly and efficiently brought over the needed equipment.

In recognition of these, and other outstanding feats, Voorhees was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal.

Artificial Limbs

After Patterson became of Secretary of War, he again asked Voorhees had doffed his uniform. job in behalf of veterans who had lost limbs. With the war over, Voorhees had doffed his uniform. But he again responded without question.

Under Patterson's prodding, Army medical brass had belatedly, in the spring of 1945, started a program to improve artificial limbs. These devices were still in the oxcart stage. They were cumbersome, crude and ineffectual.

However, despite the good intentions of the Army's tardy development program, it soon bogged down in administrative snafu. Voorhees quietly reorganized the setup and put the project on a practical working basis.

He is still keeping a helpful supervisory eye on the program. Under it, real progress is being made in developing truly modern and efficient artificial limbs. There have been no miracles, but slowly and steadily advances are being made that offer hope, that if the program is continued over a period of years, devices will be evolved that in a measure will approximate the utility of human limbs.

For this, every amputee in the country, veteran or civilian, owes Tracy Voorhees a lasting debt of gratitude.

Voorhees was still grappling with the prosthetic problem, when he was called on to tackle an even greater one.

Food supplies for occupied Germany went haywire. Early in the spring of 1947, occupation authorities suddenly reported a mysterious vast shortage in food resources. Hundreds of thousands of tons of food had somehow very strangely either disappeared or had never existed.

The daily ration had to be cut to less than 1000 calories, the krauts started rioting and Ruhr coal and other essential production dropped precipitously.

This was the "hot potato" Voorhees was asked to straighten out.

Again, he went to work quietly and unsparingly. Driving himself day and night, he not only got huge quantities of food to Germany, but to the equally distressed Allied countries, which were in dire need as a result of crop failures.

Overcome The Causes of Baldness—ACT NOW!

R. W. PLASTERER
Trichologist

Washington, Aug. 28, 1948. You don't have to accept baldness. Scientists agree that if your scalp is properly treated when the first signs of approaching baldness appear, you can save your hair. You will surely become bald, however, if you ignore increased hair fall, itching, dandruff, excessive dryness or oiliness. These are the first symptoms that your hair needs attention and when you notice them you should visit the Hair and Scalp Clinic for a Free, Private Examination. They will tell you exactly what can be done for your hair, how long it will take and what the reasonable cost will be. If you are accepted for treatment, modern scientific methods will eliminate the causes of your hair loss, your hair will thicken, your scalp will feel healthy and alive. The appearance of your hair will improve, and you will learn how to care for your hair—how to keep it healthy and strong. Come in today for your Free Examination. The Hair & Scalp Clinic, Inc., office is located at 606-609 Bond Bldg., S.W. Cor. 14th St. and New York Ave, N.W. Hours: 9:30 A. M. to 7:00 P. M. Saturdays, 9:30 to 4 P. M. Phone EXecutive 3832.
